Farmers get Washington connection

By DIETER KRIEG

FAWN GROVE -- Congressman Bill Goodling of York County on Wednesday night told southern York County farmers about some of the problems facing the nation's economy and farmers in particular.

Bill Goodling

Goodling's speech was carried direct from Washington D.C. via an amplified telephone connection of Kennard-Dale Area Young Farmers who were holding their annual meeting here at the high school. A former teacher at this York County school, Goodling explained that energy, taxes, trade deficits, and imports figure heavily into this nation's economy. The farmer feels the effect on all counts.

Goodling, a Republican, sees President Carter's energy program as nothing more than a tax package. According to the congressman, it's not the answer to alleviating this nation's energy problems. What he'd like to see instead of incentive programs which would spur development of additional and alternative energy sources.

The taxation of energy idea, Goodling believes, would not only fail to solve the energy problem, it would be unfair to rural people, because people living in the country do not have access to some energy-saving proposals, such as mass transportation facilities. Deregulation of prices would solve some energy problems, the congressman suggested in his telephone message.

LANCASTER -- Cattlemen, stockyard operators, and livestock dealers filed into the Treadway Inn, here, last Tuesday, to offer their viewpoints on a USDA proposal which will determine the future of fees charged by stockyards for the sale of livestock.

The outcome is still uncertain, according to Jack Brinckmeyer of the Packers and Stockyards Administration in Washington, D.C. The views presented on Tuesday were diverse, he told Lancaster Farming, explaining that the auction people wanted deregulation of stockyard rates, while farmers for the most part wanted them to continue. Some middle-of-the-roaders wanted the markets to file their own rates with the government and customers, and if there weren't any complaints, the government should accept them.

Currently, under the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act, the government requires stockyard operators and market agencies to file a schedule of "reasonable" rates charged producers for services and facilities involved in selling their livestock. Agriculture Department officials determine the reasonableness of these rates through a financial review and have the power to modify or deny them.

Because of changes in the livestock marketing industry in the nation since the inception of the P&S Act in 1921, the Agriculture Department is considering changes in the rate program. The hearings were called to obtain views on what should be done.

According to Lancaster County stockyard operators, the rates charged here vary enough to hinder the free marketing concept. They want the stockyard rates to be deregulated in some form or another. The consensus is that the livestock auctions can't operate as freely as they'd like without deregulation. While admitting that the federal government place has its place in livestock auction by assuring proper scales maintenance, financial bonding, and prompt payments, auction operators say Washington has no right to set stockyard rates.

Those favoring the continuation of the federal program argue that the system protects all involved.

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union, for example, released the following statement on the matter:

Deregulation of the ratemaking procedure would open the door to the very same unethical practices which characterized the livestock marketing system before the Packers and Stockyards

Adams Countians fed up with underfed cattle

By DIETER KRIEG

GETTYSBURG -- Adams County residents are getting fed up over a situation which allegedly involves cattle which are underfed. The situation is reportedly so severe, according to area residents and reports in the Gettysburg Times, that a number of animals are dying of starvation and thirst.

The situation is not new for 1978. According to records kept at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, which is actively investigating the situation, the owner of the animals involved has been fined in previous years for allowing animals to decompose in the pasture. Pennsylvania law says dead animals must be removed from the premises within 48 hours.

It isn't just the dead animals which has neighbors upset. It's also the condition of the remainder of the beef herd, which some folks claim is underfed.

At least one of the neighboring farmers has repeatedly had his farm "invaded" by cattle which he claims belong to James G. Angelaras.

Angelaris is an engineer who owns a number of farms in Adams County, but has his business and permanent residence in the Washington, D.C. area. Neighbors are accusing him of neglect of his property.

One of the more vocal complainers is an Adams County cattle and hog farmer who claims dozens and even scores of cattle have broken through fences and made a mess of his feed supplies. The allegedly starving cattle have broken

FFA membership growing by 1000/yr.

LITITZ -- January of this year rang in the 50th anniversary of the Future Farmers of America, and today (Feb. 18) marks the beginning of FFA Week -- a period of time set aside to recognize the organization and its accomplishments.

Nationally, the FFA has grown from 30,000 members in 1928 to over 500,000 members in 1977. In Pennsylvania this year's membership is now at 20,500.

According to James Fink, state supervisor and senior program specialist for the Commonwealth, the state organization is growing at a rate of 1000 members per year, a spurt that began in 1968.

"We're opening up about six new programs on the average per year now," states Fink. "That's in secondary and area vocational schools."

The programs in the FFA have also become widely diversified since 1968. They now include agriculture products, agricultural processing, forestry, horticulture, ag menchanics, and pre-professional agriculture training along with the original program -- production agriculture.

The diversification as well as an increased interest in agriculture are the two factors which Fink cites as the reason for the blossoming growth rate.

"People are gaining a new sense of appreciation in agriculture," believes Fink. "They see the blessings and the benefits of it, like the clean life."

Fink does not think, however, that the growth rate will continue at its present pace, however, since there is a population decline in the nation, which will have its effect on membership.

North Atlantic Egg Review

February 14, 1978

North Atlantic egg review: the market is still under the influence of weather related conditions. Prices are 1 cent higher on large and medium whites and 2 cents higher on all sizes of large browns. Cartoned egg movement is moderate but not as aggressive as last week. Retail prices advanced sharply. Supplies are about adequate and balanced by light interdealer trading. Active trading is reported for offerings of nest runs. Trade is beginning to wonder if extra eggs will be available for Easter business.

Vintage Hay

Thursday, Feb. 16

Total loads hay, 15 loads straw.

Timothy 90-100; alfalfa, first crop 93-98; alfalfa second crop 91-102; mixed hay 88-96; straw 114-129; corn fodder 82; corn husk 110; old ear corn 68.

Northeast Region Broiler-Fryers

February 14, 1978

Northeast Region broiler/fryer comment: trucklot buying interest is good in New York but light in other markets. Fill-in loads traded at 43-44 cents on plant grade, 44-45 cents on U.S. Grade A. Movement is good in New York-Boston, fair to good in Phila.-Baltimore-Washington and slow in Pittsburgh. Pipelines are filled in most areas but distribution still a problem. Undertone fully steady to firm.

Quakertown, PA. 18951 (215) 536-3155

From chick to cage, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

Do you have an open mind?

Are you ready to devote an hour or two of your time planning for a more profitable future?

If your answer to both questions is yes, you owe it to yourself to read what we have to say.

Unlike many other feed companies, we develop custom feeding programs for each individual operation.

It all starts with a Pennfield man reviewing your operation with you. Your goals. Your records. The health and overall condition of your birds. Whether you grow chicks or buy started pullets. The type of equipment you use. The production potential of your flock. Your management practices. And other factors that have an effect on your profit potential.

With the aid of computers, we then design a feeding program specifically tailored to your birds needs—a program that can improve your profits by reducing expenses, increasing production, or both.

For example, when we recommended producers switch from a competitive 18% protein feed to an optimum-nutrient density Pennfield feed, there was no loss in production—and this one recommendation has saved as much as $12,000 a year depending on flock size.

There is no cost—or obligation—for this unique service. But you must take the first step by writing or phoning us. Do it today.

Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council

Join your fellow pork producers in supporting pork promotion and production research to keep hogs a profitable farm enterprise. Tell your market or buyer that you want 10 cents per market hog or 5 cents per feeder pig deducted to support these programs. Most markets and buyers will cooperate fully if you let them know.

The PPPC was formed and is funded and directed by producers. There is no Government Agency involved.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 20-26, 1978

The ice crackles like grandma's cackles.

Washington's Day Feb 20, a Monday holiday (his birthday, however, is Feb. 22) President Nixon arrived in China Feb 21, 1972 .. Full moon Feb 22 . Average length of days for the week, 10 hours, 58 minutes . Rotary Club founded Feb 23, 1905 . Mt Etna erupted Feb. 26, 1947 . They who love are but one step from Heaven (James Russell Lowell)

Ask the Old Farmer: Where and when did the expression "foot the bill" come from? TJ, Wheeling, West Virginia

Comes from the word "footing" A very old custom decreed that a man entering a new employment, club, school, and so on, was expected to pay for his footing, or acceptance

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Milder with moderate rain or snow south, snow north; week's end sunny and colder with a chance of snow

Greater New York-New Jersey: Heavy rain and warm to start, end of week seasonal with some sun

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Mild with rain to start, then seasonal temperatures and cloudy for rest of week

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Week begins rainy and cold, then sunny and seasonal through week's end

Florida: Rainy and cool, then clear and very warm weekend

Upstate N.Y.-Toronto & Montreal: Fairly heavy rain and snow for the first half of the week, week's end partly cloudy with light snow

Greater Ohio Valley: Rain with snow in mountains all week.

Deep South: Week begins warm, with intermittent rain, then expect a cold snap at midweek, clear and very warm weekend

Chicago & Southern Great Lakes: Milder with rain or sleet to start, turning cold east, seasonal west, light snow

Northern Great Plains: Week starts with snow east, then seasonal with some sun and snow east for remainder of week

Central Great Plains: Rain to start, last part of week sunny and mild

Texas-Oklahoma: Seasonal, showers and flurries north, then sunny and seasonal temperatures throughout remainder of week

Rocky Mountain: Partly cloudy, cold with light snow northwest, expect clearing and very warm for week's end

Southwest Desert: Clearing and hot throughout week

Pacific Northwest: Partly sunny, milder, chance of showers, weekend promises rain, snow east

California: Sunny and hot, weekend partly cloudy with some showers expected

Livestock market and auction news

Omaha Cattle

Thurs., February 16, 1978

Compared with the previous week's close: Slaughter Steers closed 50-1.00 higher, the greatest advance on relatively clean choice. Heifers were 50-75 higher. A portion of an even more substantial early advance on both classes was lost at midweek. Cows were 1.00-1.50 higher, instances 2.00 up, and bulls closed firm to 1.00 higher.

Four day receipts 11,800 as compared 12,500 previous week and 13,400 a year ago. Weather was again a dominating influence in the livestock trade as the most severe storm of the winter drastically reduced movement early. Prices advanced sharply in a forced trade on shortened supplies, but a part of the early upturn was erased in mid-week trading as marketings expanded. Most reliable demand centered strongly on the available supply of choice steers and heifers which were relatively free of mud. In reflection of weather conditions, more than 50 percent of the four day total arrived on Wednesday. Slaughter steers made up approximately 45 percent and heifers 40 percent with a larger share both classes good to average-choice. Cows made up 10 percent and feeders 4 percent.

STEERS: Load and part load Choice and Prime 3-4 1085-1225 lbs. 47.50, highest locally since December 1975. At midweek, two loads and part loads Choice and Prime 3-4 1172-1415 lbs. 46.75-47.00. Choice 2-4 975-1275 lbs. 45.50-46.50, some at latter price with few Prime, many at 45.50-46.00 carrying considerable mud. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 950-1250 lbs. 44.00-45.50, load 1300 lb. holsteins 41.00. Good 2-3 39.50-44.00. Standard and Good 2-3 38.00-39.00.

Average of LS-214, detailed quotations for Choice 900-1100 lb. steers this week 45.85; Choice 1100-1300 lbs. 46.08. Average weight steers first three days 1136 lbs. as compared 1139 lbs. previous week. Average weight heifers first three days 968 lbs. as compared 992 lbs. previous week.

HEIFERS: Load Choice with End Prime 988 lbs. 45.00 at high time Tuesday. In closing trade, choice 2-4 875-1050 lbs. 43.00-44.25, few loads with end prime 44.50. Mixed good and choice 2-3 850-1000 lbs. 42.00-43.00. Good 2-3 36.50-41.50. Small lots standard and choice 2-3 35.00-36.50.

COWS: Utility and Commercial 2-4 31.00-33.50, some high-dressing 34.00-34.50. Canner and Cutter 27.50-31.50.

BULLS: 1-2 1300-1800 lbs. 33.50-37.50, individual 1 38.00-39.00.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS By DIETER KRIEG, EDITOR

Send a letter while it's still a bargain

If President Carter has his way, readers of Lancaster Farming may have to wait until Monday or even later to receive their issues. The President is favoring the elimination of Saturday mail deliveries in order to cut costs of the Postal Service. And that isn't all.

Since 1972, mailing costs for newspapers and magazines skyrocketed by over 500 per cent. That should help explain why Lancaster Farming had an annual subscription rate of $2 five years ago, and $6 today. Carter wants those mailing costs to go even higher.

The favored higher mailing costs and cutbacks in service, such as the elimination of Saturday deliveries just don't add up. If costs go up that much, one would expect that services be improved. Instead, just the opposite is true.

While the above information is something to be concerned about in itself, more alarming information came earlier this year when President Carter intervened in Congress to prevent postal reform.

Congress has had a bill in its midst -- H.R. 7700, which would help ease some of the problems the Postal Service has had. The bill was designed to keep costs in line while preserving services instead of allowing them to disintegrate. Politicians of both parties give overwhelming support to H.R. 7700.

But Carter doesn't like it.

The President is entitled to his opinion on the matter -- just like everyone else. But Carter went beyond that. He didn't just say he didn't like it. He urged House Speaker Tip O'Neill to keep the bill off the House floor. That effectively sabotaged congressional efforts to upgrade the Postal Service.

The President has pulled quite a few "fast ones" during his first term in office, and this latest one stands as a good example of how he uses his authority to cripple the democratic process. He disallowed a bill to come up for a vote. The end result of the postage reform block means not only are postage rates going to keep inflating -- especially for newspapers and magazines -- services will be cut. And that isn't all.

With subscription costs rising, and services cut, many people will consider forgetting about subscribing to newspapers and magazines. What's likely to be left then is a society which effectively had one of its information and news arms amputated. In other words, freedom of information is seriously affected.

To illustrate how much support postal reform measures have in Congress, consider that the full House Post Office and Civil Service Committee had already approved H.R. 7700 by a vote of 19 to 4.

Furthermore, the House in 1976 voted 399 to 14 in favor of a moratorium on postal rate increases, service cuts, and post office closings. The House also voted 377 to 9 to oppose the cessation of Saturday deliveries.

President Carter, however, who used to make promises of postal reform when he was campaigning, is ignoring the issue now.

Carter often speaks of taking the issues directly to the people.

I think it's about time we start taking the issues to him instead. Send him a letter soon, while you can still mail it for the big bargain of 13 cents.

A SPECIAL PLACE

Lesson for February 19, 1978

Background Scripture:
Psalms 43; 46; 84; 122.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 43.

Just about one year ago I saw one of the most marvelous sunsets I have ever seen. Standing atop Mt. Nebo in what is today the nation of Jordan, I looked across a vast valley to another mountain ridge on the far side. On the valley floor to my left was the shimmering Dead Sea, to my right was the Jordan River, and in the middle was a dark green patch that was identified as Jericho.

But it was on the mountain ridge on the other side of the valley rift that our attention was focused, for a monstrous orange ball began to slip down the far side of the ridge. As is did, its rays illuminated the spires of churches on the Mount of Olives over-looking the Holy City of Jerusalem.

The lovely dwelling-place

In a space of five minutes the sun had completed its daily duty and Mt. Nebo plunged into darkness. Still, our little group stood there, staring into the darkness in the direction of the Judean hills that could no longer be seen. It was with reluctance that we finally walked back to our bus.

The next day it was with that vision of the Holy City in our minds that we began our journey from Jordan across the valley into Israel and started the climb up to Jerusalem. As we climbed ever higher, some of us remembered the anticipation of the ancient Hebrew pilgrims as they made their way up to the Holy City. Although the Temple is long gone and no longer carries contemporary significance for the Jew, let along the Christian, still it was an easy matter to share and understand the tremendous excitement the Jewish pilgrims must have felt as they approached Jerusalem. As we rounded the curve on the road from Bethany to Jerusalem and saw the city spread out before us, we knew in our own hearts why this had always been for so many people a special place.

To dwell in they house

But God is everywhere, the skeptic reminds us. We don't have to go to a sacred city or holy place to find him. We don't even have to enter a church.

No, we don't have to, we can find and experience God anywhere -- and life is richer and fuller when we do -- but nevertheless there are certain places where our experiences of him are deeper and fuller, not because he is limited to those places, but because they have a special meaning for us and we are more likely to be receptive there, more open to his indwelling Presence.

God is certainly not limited to our churches, shrines, and holy places, but because we come to them with anticipation, because we enter them as places of refuge and inspiration where "even the sparrow finds a home and the swallow a nest for herself," these places become "special" to us as with praise and singing we enter not so much into a place, but into a Presence.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO APPRECIATE SNOW COVER...I realize this may not be a very popular though to some people, but the snow cover that we have had since the first of January should be of value to agriculture. When the ground is covered with snow, there is protection to plant roots and to all kinds of vegetation. Also, water pipes will be protected with large amounts of snow cover. This year, unless we have some very cold weather after the snow melts, we should have a good winter wheat and barley crop. Snow keeps these grains from winter-killing. Also, many types of evergreen shrubbery will be protected by the snow cover. These plant roots will not be dehydrated under the snow, as compared to bare grounds and very cold weather. I realize the many hardships and expenses of blizzards and heavy snowfalls, but it is not all negative.

TO PREPARE FOR SPRING...This is a very pleasant thought after so much snow and cold weather, but after looking at the calendar, we must realize that spring is just a month away. Over the years I'm aware that many gardens and tobacco beds have been seeded, or prepared, on or about St. Patrick's Day - March 17. That means that garden seeds and fertilizer supplies should be on hand ready for the season. Farmers who plan to broadcast alfalfa or red clover in their stands of winter wheat should have the seeds on hand. The choice of varieties and of top quality seeds should be much better now than later in the spring when there will be "line-ups" waiting for supplies.

TO PROVIDE SALT AND MINERALS...This time of the year some cattle feeders and dairymen may be running low on the supply of either salt or minerals for their herds. Both of these materials are important for efficient production of either meat or milk, and should be available at all time. No doubt some minerals and salt are mixed into the ration; however, the needs of animals vary and this presents the need of having free-choice elements. This is especially true of salt and it is best if presented in the loose form, rather than by the block. Many cattle will develop sore tongues before they can get sufficient salt. Both salt and minerals are needed for top digestion and for maximum water consumption.

TO BE ON HAND...The birth of little farm animals is quite common at all times of the year, but sheep producers and hog breeders have a lot at stake, if these animals are born into a cold barn. We urge some type of supplemental heat at this time of the year in order to get best results. Most farrowing houses have heat, but the owner of a few sows, and the sheep breeders, should be sure the new-born does not get chilled that first few minutes. To be on hand is the best practice, and make a special effort to get the new animal to nurse the colostrum milk and to be kept warm. To "sleep in the barn" at lambing time, or to check expectant Mothers several times during the day and night is very important. Don't be caught "sleeping" while your new-born animals get chilled and die.

When you shortchange their nutrition, you shortchange yourself.

Looking for ways to cut on down on out-of-pocket feed costs without cutting down on milk production?

Cutting production costs will backfire if you end up shortchanging your herd's nutrition in the process.

But you can cut those costs safely by feeding homegrown grains and grain silage fortified with the right Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mix. These potent pre-mixes contain the proper levels of vitamins, calcium, phosphorus, and other minerals needed to balance your farm's feedstuffs.

Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mixes can be mixed in or metered on any palatable grain or roughage. This lets you change ration content to fit the supplies you have on hand without risking herd performance.

Better herd nutrition means a bigger milk check. Minimum out-of-pocket feed costs mean more in your pocket.

Your figures will prove it.

Dry cow nutrition pays future profits.

Shortchanging your dry cow's nutrition can be risky too. Most problems dairymen experience in getting cows back in the string can be traced to careless treatment during the dry period.

Keep them in top condition until their next lactation. To help you do it, Vigortone has developed unique dairy pre-mixes specially concentrated for dry cow rations.

Now is the time to compare.

See your Vigortone dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's cost-saving dairy feeding programs with any other you name.

"Which Hybrids do I plant? The Senecas—what else!"

Last year, the incredible Senecas, 137, 140 and 149, sold out again for the third year in a row

Big early yields that get safely into the bin, bunk or silo is the main reason Quick come-up fast dry-down cold, wet weather tolerance and fantastic standability are among others All good reasons why you should include the Senecas in your corn program for '78

Sheep inventory told

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Sheep and lamb numbers in the U.S. on January 1, 1978, totaled nearly 12.4 million head, according to the Crop Reporting Board. This was three per cent below a year earlier and down seven per cent from January 1, 1976. The January 1, 1978 inventory value of all sheep and lambs climbed to $638.5 million from $541.3 million on January 1, 1977, as the average value per head rose to a record high of $51.50 this year from $42.40 a year earlier.

The inventory included 10.8 million stock sheep, down two per cent from January 1, 1977. Ewes one year old and older, accounting for 80 per cent of all stock sheep, decreased three per cent to 8.6 million head. Wethers and rams one year old and over accounted for 372,000 head, up three per cent from a year earlier. Ewe lambs, at 1.5 million head, were up six per cent while wether and ram lambs fell 15 per cent to 324,000 head.

The January 1, 1978 estimate for Nebraska includes sheep from Wyoming, Utah and Colorado that are being wintered in Nebraska.

The 1977 lamb crop of 8.6 million head was three per cent below the previous year. Breeding ewes one year old and older on January 1, 1977, were down five per cent from a year earlier but ewe lambs were up five per cent. The 1977 lambing rate was 97 lambs per 100 ewes, compared with 95 in 1976 and 98 in 1975.

Sheep and lambs on feed January 1 for slaughter market in the 26 major feeding states totaled 1.6 million head, down seven per cent from the preceding year and down 14 per cent from the January 1, 1976 level.

Grant praises House of Reps.

PARK RIDGE, Ill. – Allan Grant today praised members of the House of Representatives for soundly defeating proposed legislation that would have created what he termed "a giant" new federal consumer protection agency.

Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the wide margin of the "no" vote (227-189) indicates that most Americans want less control of their daily lives by big government.

"We fought hard to defeat this measure, because we do not think the government can protect every consumer in each transaction without infringing on personal freedoms," Grant said.

"Of course, consumers have the right to know all about products, services and health hazards, but the real effect of the proposed law would have been to strangle Americans in still more federal regulations," the farm leader said.

"Consumers have the primary right to make up their own minds and set the course of their own lives and actions", he added.

"We salute the 227 members of Congress who recognized that right with their votes against creating another federal monstrosity," Grant concluded.

WHAT'S NEW

MINERAL BOWL

The new all cast mineral or salt bowl was developed because of a demand from farmers. There are many benefits of having free choice mineral available to the cows and calves at all times, especially in the Winter. There was a need for a mineral bowl that would stand up under the stress that they receive.

These mineral bowls are coated with a brushed aluminum epoxy that will withstand rust, salt, minerals, and acid. Each weighs seven pounds.

Who's going to pay our oil bill if we bankrupt the farmer

In the federal fiscal year ending September 30, 1977, American farmers exported $24 billion of foodstuffs to help offset the staggering bill for oil imports. Yet, farm income, discounting inflation, is at its lowest level in more than 40 years.

Support the American farmer.

BIG FARM POWER AND EQUIPMENT

HORSEPOWER IS TOO EXPENSIVE TO WASTE

STEIGER PUTS MORE HORSEPOWER TO WORK THAN ANY OTHER 4WD TRACTOR.*

In big tractors, horsepower is only half the story. The other half is weight.

If a tractor doesn't have enough weight to hold the power to the ground, then a lot of those horses will go to waste. It's called traction — and if your big tractor doesn't have it, wheel spin will keep you from using all the horses you paid for.

In recent independent tests, Steiger 4WD tractors demonstrated the highest percentage of engine horsepower delivered to the drawbar pin. Steigers delivered an average 84.08% of the engine horsepower to the drawbar pin.

The competition averaged 75.81%. That's driveline efficiency.

Other categories dominated by these big, beautiful Steigers included fuel efficiency and cab quietness. So if you're looking at 4WD tractors, take a look at Steiger and compare.

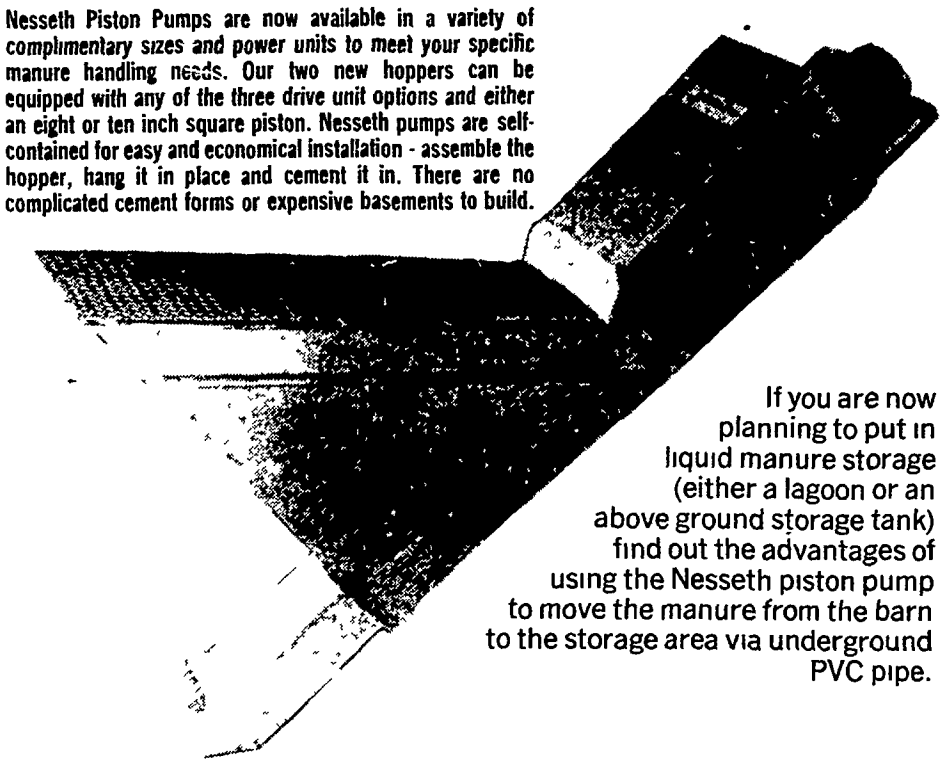
Nesseth piston pumps

Nesseth Piston Pumps are now available in a variety of complimentary sizes and power units to meet your specific manure handling needs. Our two new hoppers can be equipped with any of the three drive unit options and either an eight or ten inch square piston. Nesseth pumps are self-contained for easy and economical installation - assemble the hopper, hang it in place and cement it in. There are no complicated cement forms or expensive basements to build.



If you are now planning to put in liquid manure storage (either a lagoon or an above ground storage tank) find out the advantages of using the Nesseth piston pump to move the manure from the barn to the storage area via underground PVC pipe.

Current grain stocks to affect 1978 plantings

DOVER, Del. - On January 16 the U.S. Department of Agriculture released its final report on grain production for last year. According to the report, the 1977 U.S. soybean crop reached a record 1.7 billion bushels. This was 25 per cent higher than the 1976 crop. U.S. corn production came to 6.4 billion bushels — a new crop record.

Drought-stricken Delmarva farmers don't figure very well in this bumper picture, however. Corn production in Maryland was down 25 per cent from 1976, while Delaware's corn production was off a whopping 40 per cent as a result of last summer's severe drought, reports University of Delaware Extension crops marketing specialists.

Soybean production for the two states did go up slightly last year, with Maryland realizing a 10 per cent and Delaware a five per cent increase in yields over 1976. But considering national averages, this is nothing to shout about, either.

Planting intentions are now out for the coming season. According to a recent USDA report, U.S. corn acreage is projected at 79.3 million acres fro 1978 — a two per cent decline from 1977. U.S. soybean acreage is projected at 63.9 million acres, up eight per cent from a year ago.

Whether farmers actually follow through with these intentions is always a big question, however.

One of the factors affecting planting decisions is the amount of U.S. grain in storage, because the quantity of grains and soybeans still in storage when the 1978 crops are harvested will likely affect prices for them.

Stocks of corn in all positions as of January 1 totaled 5.4 billion bushels — 11 per cent greater than last year. But this is in line with expectations. The USDA estimates that use for the year will total about 6.1 billion bushels. Feed use will be close to four billion bushels, while food and industrial uses should consume another 535 million bushels.

Exports should take care of 1.75 billion bushels (or 28 per cent of the total use), but corn exports will have to increase from the current rate of 29 to 37 million bushels per week in order to reach the estimated 1.75 billion bushels by the end of September, 1978, when the new corn crop will be harvested. If the projected level of exports is attained, ending stocks could be below the one billion bushel mark.

Stocks of soybeans in all positions as of January 1 were reported at 1.3 billion bushels — up 27 per cent from last year. This figure confirms the size of the 1977 crop. Almost every major soybean-producing state has larger inventories than a year ago.

The USDA has estimated soybeans processed for the marketing year at 860 million bushels and exports at 610 million (41 per cent of total use), leaving stocks of 270 million bushels at the end of the crop year. But the rate of use for the first quarter has been above this level, which suggests a carry-over of only 195 million bushels might be possible.

According to experts, one reason corn planting intentions are down from a year ago is that corn prices have been weak, because of the large anticipated carry-over from the 1977 crop. The increase in acreage predicted for soybeans reflects a moderately better market outlook for this crop right now, with quite large export sales and domestic use.

Assuming growers of corn and soybeans go through with their intended plantings, economists says the 1978 harvest could be another big one if the weather is good. And with bulging supplies on hand and generally ample moisture over much of the grain belt,

Comments sought on '78 - crop honey program

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The public has been invited to recommend price support levels and other provisions of the 1978-crop honey program, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

The deadline for receiving comments is March 6, 1978. according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Recommendations are being sought regarding: 1. Price support rates based on color differentials, class and grade; 2. Loan and purchase availability dates and the loan maturity date for 1978-crop honey; 3. Detailed operation provisions necessary to carry out the program. (Regulations providing the terms and conditions for the current price support program are in Part 1434 of Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations.)

Authorized by the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, price support for honey is carried out through loans and purchases to provide a support level between 60 and 90 per cent of parity. Support rates reflect the market differentials under which honey is merchandised. For the 1977-crop, loan and purchase rates averaged 32.7 cents per pound.

Before making these determinations for the 1978 crop, the Department will consider written comments submitted within the comment period to the Acting Director, Production Adjustment Division. ASCS, USDA, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013. All comments will be open for public inspection from 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday, in Room 3630 South Building, 14th and Independence Avenue S.W., Washington, D.C.

Pre-emergence tank-mix combination controls both grassy and broadleaf weeds

a giant first step toward total weed control in field corn

Successful on millions of acres where corn is the major crop the Banvel + Lasso herbicide combination can give you `near perfect (90-100 percent) control of a wide spectrum of grassy and broadleaf weeds when used according to label directions

Banvel + Lasso herbicide is compatible with most fluid fertilizers It needs no incorporation There is no carryover

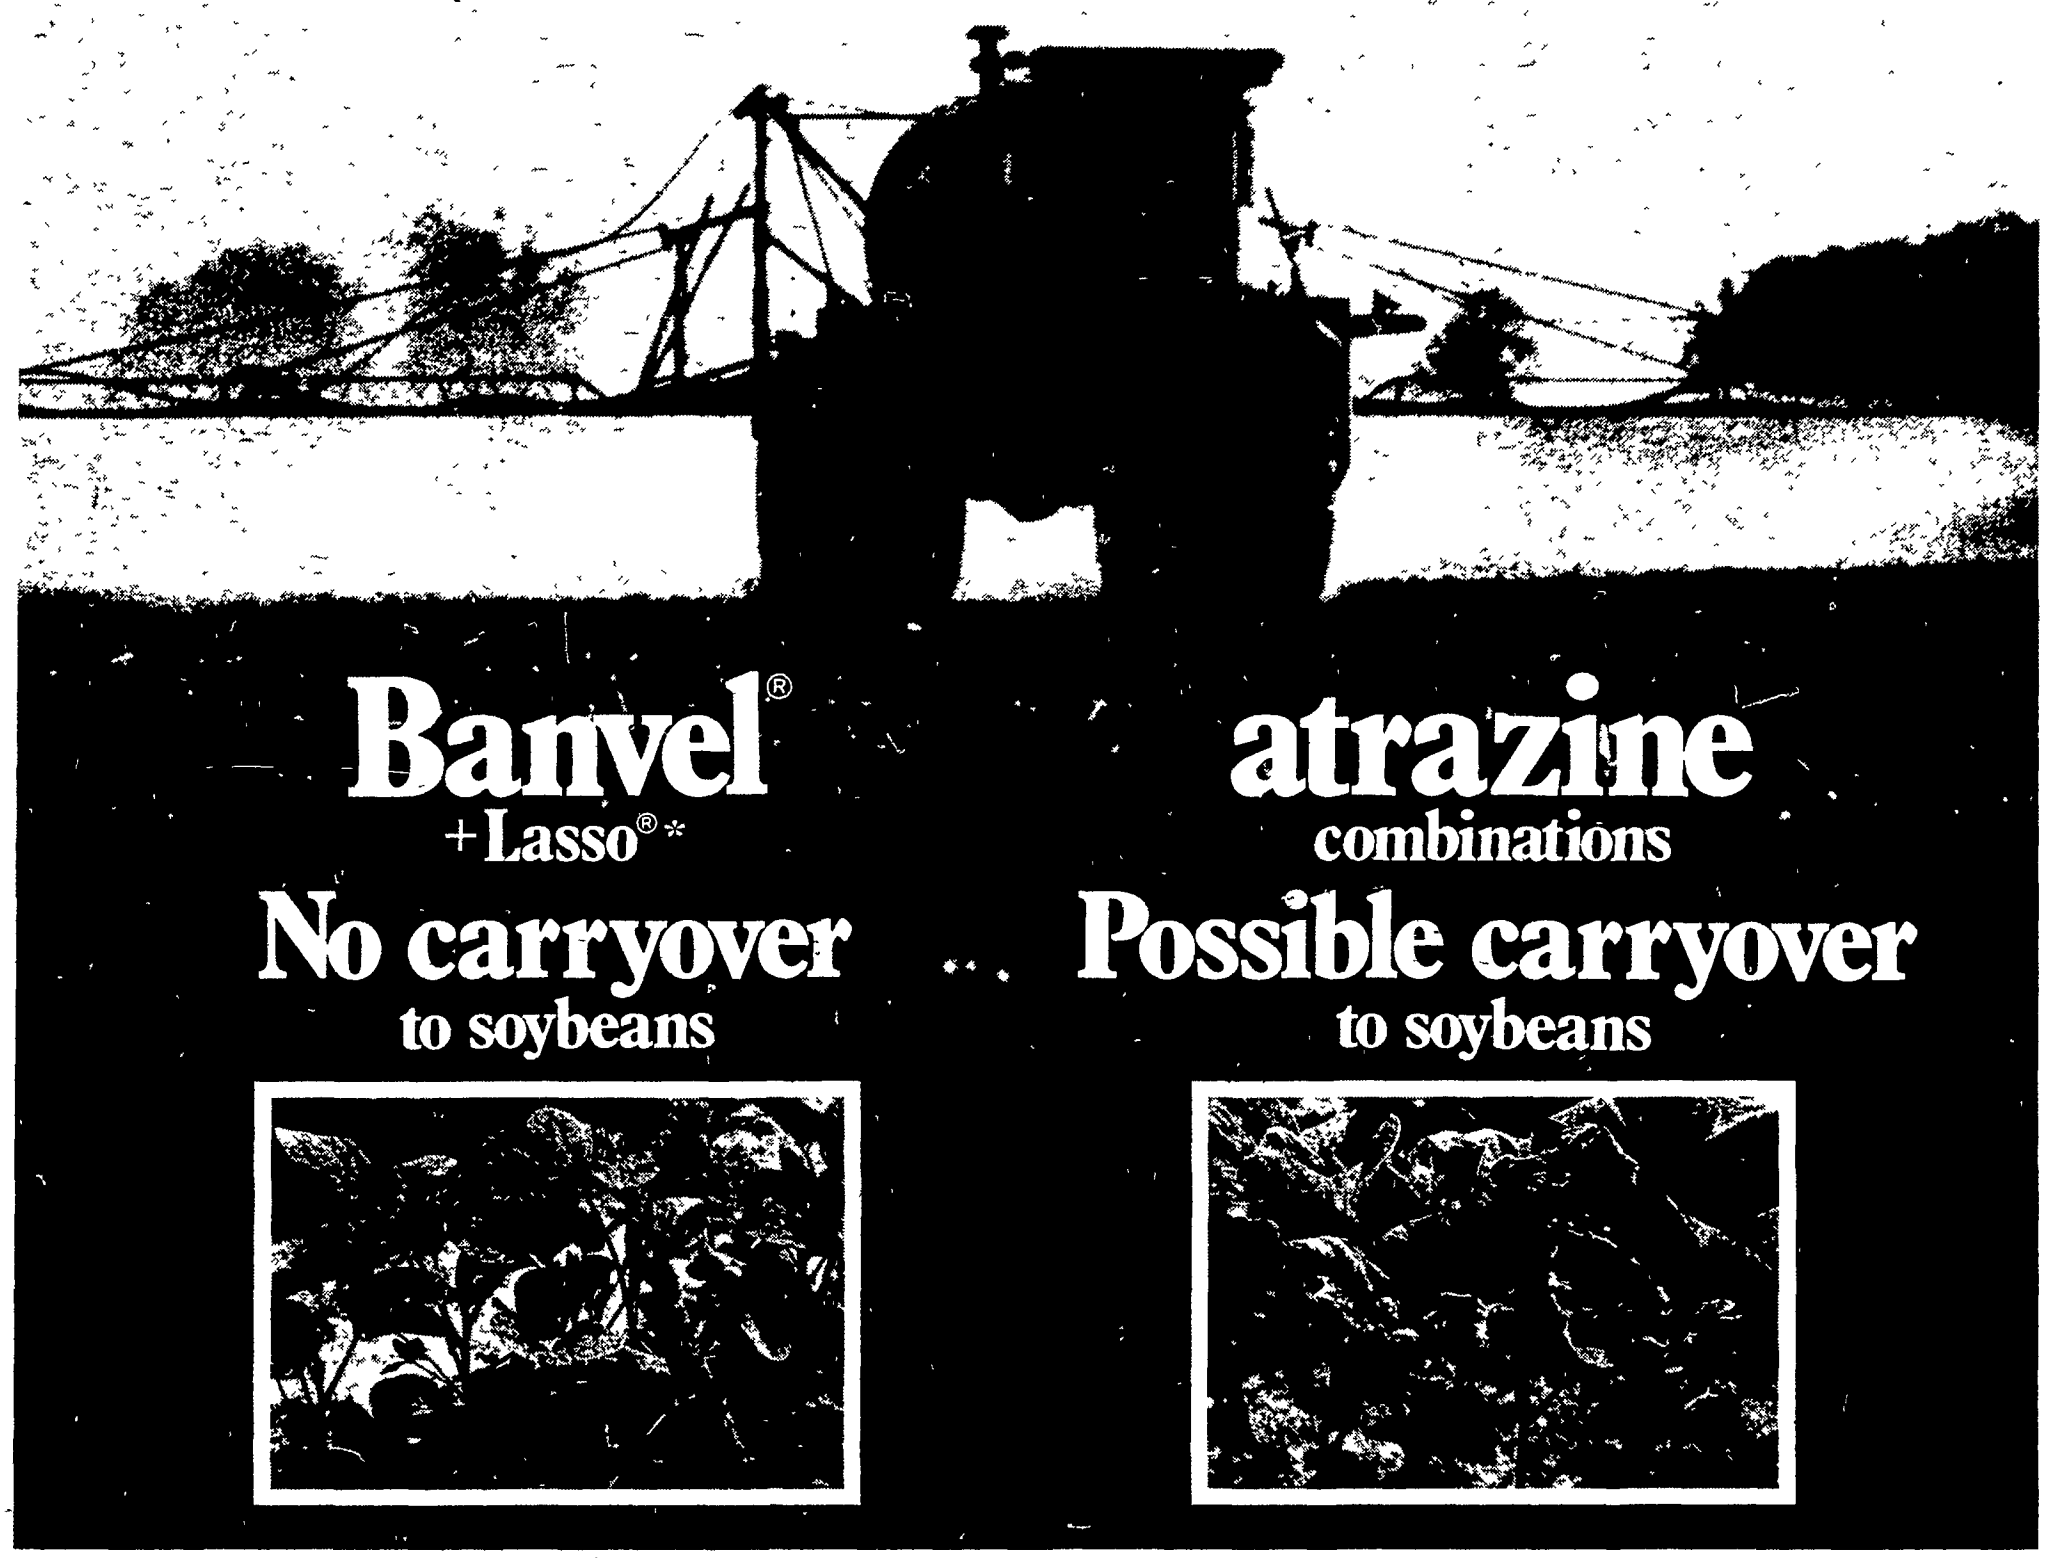
Take a giant step toward total weed control Call about the Banvel + Lasso combination Remember the near perfect herbicide is the one you build starting with Banvel herbicide from Velsicol

The combination is effective on all major soil types except light sandy soils Lasso is a registered trademark of Monsanto Company

To achieve best results be sure to read understand and follow the label

Corn pre-emergence

When it's down to:



Which are you using?

For pre-emergence weed control in corn without carryover to soybeans, it's Banvel + Lasso herbicides . . . in your field working as long as you need them. But not next year . . . when you don't!

Applied any time after planting (NO incorporation!) up until three-inch corn or two-leaf weeds, kills most broadleaf and grassy weeds.

No carryover of Banvel-Lasso. So when you've taken off corn, go to winter wheat or oats . . . or in spring rotate to soybeans.

Works beautifully . . . with no carryover . . . reasons why use of Banvel herbicide for all applications has more than doubled over the last three years.

Adams County cattlemen promote bullishly

LITTLESTOWN – The Adams County Beef Producers Association isn't large. But their promotional programs are big in more ways than one. Last Friday for the second year in a row, they put together a promotional effort which attracted an estimated 200 people. That's roughly four times as many people attending as the group has members. People came from all over Adams County, as well as neighboring counties and even adjacent states. The reason is that the combined efforts of this small group is generating more publicity for the industry than many larger similar units combined.

Steve Trusnovic, John Berg, and Dieter Krieg (left to right) were recognized last week by Adams County cattlemen for their contributions to furthering the interests of the industry. Trusnovic and Berg manage Hardees and McDonald's restaurants, respectively. Krieg edits Lancaster Farming. Making the presentations are Adams County Beef Queen Nancy Reichart and Adams County Beef Producers Association treasurer Don Lott.

Bankers, agribusinessmen, civic leaders, and reporters were on hand for the second annual Beef Ball and Parade of Champions. The gala affair was held at Schottie's Restaurant, here, and featured a beef dinner a dance, and plenty of socializing.

The Parade of Champions consisted of several bulls brought in by area cattlemen. They were brought into the spacious ballroom of the restaurant while the Adams County Beef Queen, Nancy Reichart, offered background information on each animal. Statistics of interest to both farmers and non-farmers were presented.

During the parade of bulls, Frank Darcey exhibited a Polled Hereford owned by his Spring Bottom Valley Farm, Fairfield, and G.D.H. Polled Hereford Farm in Dover. The animal won the 1978 Hereford championship title at the State Farm Show. William Dietz and Walter Laird of Laird Farm in Dover, exhibited a Black

John Purdy

Angus that won them a reserve grand championship in the State Farm Show. Paul Hefner, of Fairfield, exhibited his large Limousin bull. Not able to bring his bull as scheduled originally was Terry Shearer of Pigeon Hill Farm in Abbottstown.

Only in its third year of existence, the Adams County Beef Producers Association has become one of the most organized, active, and productive organizations of its kind. According to ACBPA treasurer, Don Lott, who served as master of ceremonies last Friday night, the association has reached several milestones in that short period of time.

Included among the achievements are the construction of a show barn at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, a Fall steer show and feeder calf sales which for two years in a row ranked as the highest indexing feeder calf sale in Pennsylvania.

Adams County is regarded as prime beef country in more ways than one. Of the 1500 farms in Adams County, close to two-thirds of them are involved in cattle raising. Beef production in the county ranks second only to fruit production, and it trails only Lancaster and York counties in a state-wide comparison of counties. According to Lott, the Adams County beef industry is worth some $13 million annually. That includes operators who are either breeding, raising, or feeding beef cattle.

The progressive group credits much of its momentum to Frank Darcy, a towering man who is skilled in organizing promotional activities. Darcy had served as president of the organization since its formation in November of 1975, but stepped aside recently to let someone else steer the program. The group's new president is

Adams County cattlemen brought their champion bulls into the ballroom of a restaurant last week when they held their second annual Beef Ball and Parade of Champions. The event was attended by cattlemen and townfolk who are interested in learning more about the beef business. An estimated 200 people attended the event. The Polled Hereford and Black Angus champions above were shown by Frank Darcey, second from left, and Walter and William Dietz, right.

Darcy had served as president of the organization since its formation in November of 1975, but stepped aside recently to let someone else steer the program. The group's new president is John Purdy of Gettysburg R2.

Both the present and previous president of the ACBPA are quick to point out that the momentum of their organization stems from the combined and sustained efforts of its members. "It isn't any one guy doing it all," Darcey emphasizes.

Darcey notes that the relatively small size of the organization is what makes it as effective as it is. A man who's quick to assess the situation and take action, Darcey believes good ideas and efforts could get sidetracked or lost if the promotional group becomes too large or is absorbed by a larger association. "It's all a matter of getting on the stick and doing something," the Adams County cattleman said.

Promotional efforts are the key to better public relations and increased sales, Darcy and Purdy agree. The association's philosophy is one of self motivation and self help. Waiting for someone else or the government to take over is definitely not the association's program. In that regard, they're not convinced that a farmer's strike is a positive way to solve economic problems. Rather, the group believes in "beating the drum," watching the markets closely, and adjusting their herd sizes to comply with marketing demands. According to Darcey and Purdy, efforts are beginning

Tomato grower champions named

POTTSVILLE – Several Schuylkill County tomato growers who produced high yields during 1977 have been named Tomato Growing Champions in machine and hand harvest divisions.

According to Robert F. Fletcher, Extension vegetable crops specialist at Penn State, they were honored for their outstanding yields and recordkeeping practices. Each received a tie clasp award.

The winners from Schuylkill County are: Mrs. Marjorie Maurer, Hegins R1; John W. Hetherington, Ringtown R1; and James Rodichok, Tower City.

The latter producers hand harvested between 25 and 50 acres of tomatoes. The following producers hand harvested five to 25 acres of tomatoes: Zimmerman Brothers, Pitman; Kenneth Strohecker, Klingerstown R1; William Adams, Pitman; Janet O. Wehry, Klingerstown; Jack Bensinger, Klingerstown; Robert W. Ramp, Hegins; Leroy Hetherington, Ringtown R1; Lloyd Wehry, Klingerstown R1; Robert Brosius, Pitman; Leonard Adams, Klingerstown; and Lawrence Hetherington, Zion Grove.

The Extension specialist noted that 118 Pennsylvania growers were cited for producing 20 or more tons per acre. The State Tomato Growing Champions recognition program is sponsored by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service and state tomato processors.

Defeat of consumer bill praised

ARLINGTON, Va. – Poultry and Egg Institute of America (PEIA) President Don C. Beaver recently hailed what he termed "grass roots" political action on the part of PEIA members and member state associations to defeat H.R. 6805, a bill to create an Office of Consumer Representation. The U.S. House of Representatives voted 227 to 189 last week against the measure.

Beaver said that PEIA's Board of Directors had unanimously agreed to oppose any such agency when legislative action began on earlier measures several years ago.

"The Institute, for the past several years, has engaged in a strong opposing action with Members of Congress. We alerted our membership and member state associations as these measures moved forward, urging that they alert their members," said Beaver.

"Industry and association members are to be applauded for their strong and swift action. This find of grass roots effort from the poultry and egg industry undoubtedly was a factor, along with the enormous efforts by groups across the country, in bringing about the defeat of this bill," he emphasized.

The same kind of grass roots action is needed now, Beaver said, in opposing S. 1883, the so-called Labor Reform Act. PEIA's directors are convinced it is not the Federal governments's role to aid union organizers.

"As we have indicated to the Senate Human Resources Committee, we believe it is not the function of the Federal government to come to the aid of union organizers faced with a declining membership. We are especially concerned about provisions in the bill which provide for quick elections," Beaver stated. "I am hopeful that the same powerful factions within our industry which helped to defeat H.R. 6805 will rally to prevent passage of this unwanted legislation."

FFA boosted his farming interest

By DIETER KRIEG

STEWARTSTOWN -- Seventeen-year old Dean Miller has an interest in farming because that's what he grew up with. He became dedicated to agriculture because of his membership in the Kennard-Dale High School FFA Chapter.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Stewartstown, young Miller has taken vocational agriculture courses since the seventh grade. He has enjoyed each year of it and is already realizing that he will miss school when he graduates in mid June of this year. FFA has meant a lot to the York County youth. Farming has taken on new meanings because of it.

FFA, according to Miller, is more than education. It's a way of growing up and maturing; of developing character and judgement. It helps to find and refine interests, build careers, leadership, and awareness.

One of the most important benefits Miller has received through the FFA program is the ability to converse more easily in front of groups. As a member of the parliamentary procedures team, he has gained some confidence in speaking, he says. He served his chapter and county FFA group as secretary last year and has also had the office of sentinel.

Miller appreciates the FFA program because of the friends he has been able to make because of it. In addition, he has been able to participate in numerous events, contests, and tours. They've combined fun with education.

The two men who are largely responsible for Miller's refined agricultural development are Ralph Travis and Charlie Wright, vocational agriculture instructors at Kennard-Dale High School. Aside from the usual courses of learning, Travis and Wright have included field trips in their students' study programs. An example is a visit to various test plots put out by commercial or research interests. Students thereby have the opportunity to see first-hand how various crops, chemicals, fertilizers, or soils perform. They also learn why performances differ and how they might apply different techniques to their individual operations.

A bonus in the FFA progarm is that there are opportunities to travel to faraway places such as Kansas City and even abroad. Although Miller hasn't had the chance to take part in the FFA exchange (student) program, he has been to Kansas City for the National FFA Convention.

While a member of the parliamentary procedures team, Miller and company placed first in the county, area, and region. A variety of complications just prior to the state contest caused the big state prize to slip out of the team's reach.

The young man has also been on the meat judging team, placing as second high individual in that contest last year. Some of his experience for that event has come from his interest and work with both beef cattle and hogs. During 1977 he fattened 41 market hogs. The family raises steers as well, with many of the caretaking responsibilities falling on the Kennard-Dale senior.

A former delegate to FFA Week at Penn State, Miller has also had projects in corn and sows. He has kept records on all of his projects and his efforts were recognized this month by the high school when he was named senior of the month. His agricultural record figured strongly in that reward.

A year ago, when his FFA chapter held their annual awards banquet, Miller was the recipient of the scholarship and crop production honors.

Miller's parents farm approximately 800 acres in southern York County, and in years to come, Dean hopes to become the operator of his own farm. Until then, he's figuring on continuing to work with his father. A close-knit family, the Millers have all of their immediate family members within just a few miles of them.

When the day comes that young Miller will strike it out on his own, crops, steers and hogs will probably figure uppermost in his inventory. That's what he's involved with now and he likes it enough to want to keep at it. He thinks he'll also follow his father's footsteps when it comes to planting crops. That would mean mostly corn, with smaller acreages of wheat, barley and soybeans. The way Miller has it figured, he would like to raise the crops he needs to feed his livestock, and then sell whatever is left over.

Miller believes that the current farm strike won't get too much accomplished. While admitting that prices aren't "excellent," he maintains they're sufficient to get by on. He looks to his agricultural future with enough optimism to want to face the risks. He says he's not looking for big profits, just enough to live on. There are other rewards to farming besides money, the young man believes. The rewards he finds in farming include the privilege of being your own boss, living close to work, being out in the country, and working with FFA has given Dean Miller of York County the opportunity to develop casual interests at home into what he now knows for sure he wants as a career.

Some dozen agricultural leaders, spokesmen and agribusiness people met with Senator John Heinz Thursday afternoon to give and receive information which may help the agricultural community. The senator called the meeting to receive input from agricultural people and indicated he would like to hold regular meetings of this kind in the future. With the Pennsylvania politician are, left to right, Jack Dreibelbis, Ivan Yost, and Galen Dreibelbis. The meeting was held Thursday afternoon in the Federal Building, Harrisburg.

Senator Heinz wants better communication with farmers

HARRISBURG – Senator John Heinz told Pennsylvania agricultural leaders and spokesmen on Thursday that there are an awful lot of farmers in the nation's capital right now, but not a single one from Pennsylvania has come to see him. The striking farmers are mostly from the Midwest and South, he indicated during a meeting here at the Federal Building.

Heinz called the meeting to receive and give information which could be of possible value to the rural communities in this state. He noted that Pennsylvania has the largest rural population of any state in the country.

Asking the 15 people present what some of the major concerns of rural areas were at the present time, the common consensus was that labor law reform (S.B. 1883), the Panama Canal treaty, and road conditions were uppermost in their minds. Pennsylvania's rural population opposes forced unionism, and the give-away of the Panama Canal, Heinz was told. They also want better road maintenance, including snow removal.

Moving on to more specific agricultural topics, the session considered agricultural trade, regulatory programs by ASCS, USDA, OSHA and EPA, the minimum wage law, and credit availability.

Heinz says that he will have two of his staff people keep a file on agricultural matters and emphasizes that he wants a good line of communications with farmers.

"Kick" up corn profits with Unipel® Starter Special 13-34-10.

This is the "corn-popper" special .the most imitated pop-up fertilizer on the market As part of a Unipel corn fertility program, it suits perfectly the young corn plant's immediate craving for nutrients to develop a good root system, the starting point for top yields

Yet, it's also a complete fertilizer with these key nutrients available in each Unipel pellet

* quick-acting, non-volatile nitrate Nitrogen that starts working immediately, even in cool, wet, early-season soils,
* slow-acting ammonic Nitrogen that provides continued feeding through the growing season,
* both quick and slow acting Phosphorus to resist fixation, team with Nitrogen to become more efficient and feed plants for solid growth, help develop strong root systems,
* vital Potash to furnish young plants with building blocks for strong roots, tough and hardy stalks to resist weather and stress of pests and disease

We can recommend to you the program details for a sound Unipel fertility program —which, on Starter alone, has returned over $30 an acre above fertilizer investment more than blend "bargain" programs to pay off. Cattlemen are coming in from various parts of the country to check out Adams County beef.

But no one in the organization wants to let it go at that. The group has more planned for the future, including youth programs, sales, and promotional efforts such as the Beef Ball and Parade of Champions last week.

The ACBPA held a similar event in 1977 which was termed a success. This year's affair, however, was 50 per cent bigger than the one the year before. Organizers are optimistic of bigger and better events in years to come. Increased performance and participation has also been registered at the South Mountain Fair, due to the work of the ACBPA. The group has a Big Brother type of program with youths who take an interest in beef cattle The big brothers will work with younger members personally, helping them to learn and achieve. A field day held last Summer was primarily youth oriented, Lott explained. Another way ACBPA members help youth programs is by lending substantial buyer support at auctions. This enables the youngsters to take home premium prices for their project animals.

Aside from the dance, dinner, and parade of champion bulls, the Adams County cattlemen also gave recognition to two business establishments and a farm reporter which they felt had helped considerably in promoting the beef industry. Singled out for their contributions were Hardees and McDonald's restaurants of Gettysburg and Lancaster Farming newspaper editor, Dieter Krieg. Accepting the awards for Hardees and McDonalds were Steve Trusnovec and John Berg, respectively.

The Adams County Beef Producers Association is open to anyone interested in the beef industry, says Lott. Individuals need not be active farmers, and they don't have to be Adams Countians. One of their aims is to create a better understanding and knowledge among those who aren't well acquainted with beef production.

Dance planned

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN – The Blue Mountain Young Farmers' Association will hold a country dance on February 25, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the dining hall of the Blue Mountain High School.

Elwood Staudt will provide the music and call the figures. Members of the Schuylkill County 4-H Clubs and Senior Extension Service are invited to attend. Instruction will be given so inexperienced dancers are urged to attend. There will also be square dances, reels, taps, and mixers.

Cumberland 4-H'ers win engraved pewter plates

By DIETER KRIEG

MECHANICSBURG — Five Cumberland County 4-H'ers received handsome pewter plates or plaques Thursday night as a reward for their achievements in the Baby Beef Club. Sponsoring the event, which was held at the Citizen Fire Hall, here, was the Mechanicsburg Area Chamber of Commerce. It was the 52nd year in a row that the Chamber sponsored the recognition dinner.

Going home with the largest pewter prize was 20-year old Larry Yorlets of Carlisle. The engraved platter was representative of his two championship places at the round-up last November. Yorlets exhibited the reserve champion steer of the show and was the senior champion showman.

Karen Fought, 11, was honored by the 250 people at the dinner for having exhibited the grand champion steer at the show. Her entry was a Simmental-Angus crossbred which weighed 1130 pounds. At the Farm Show, the Carlisle area girl showed the same animal to champion honors in the medium weight division.

Cheryl Fought, 16, also of Carlisle, received an engraved pewter plate for being the junior champion showman at the round-up.

Receiving the Senator Wade Plaque, which is given annually to the youth who best displays the ideals of 4-H Club work, was Robert F. Otto, Jr., 18, of Carlisle.

Ten-year old Sandy Hopple of Mechanicsburg won a trophy — the Brindle Memorial Award — for having had the steer which showed the most gain from start to finish.

Identification bracelets for all club members were presented by the Chamber with the compliments of Kraly's Senior Citizens Homes and the Commonwealth National Bank.

In deciding to switch from the more conventional trophies to engraved pewter plates this year, Chamber

Greg sees no clouds on his horizon

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

BERNVILLE — Gregory Koenig, Bernville, is a dedicated 17 year old senior of Tulpehocken High School. He is president of his FFA chapter and a hard working farmer as well.

Like many of his counterparts, Greg has been active in his chapter and on the county level ever since he joined FFA. He has been secretary and vice-president of the Tulpehocken FFA in past years and is now serving as Berks County Treasurer.

Greg has been active in dairy judging and land judging teams, participating in this past year's Summer convention at Penn State as a diary judging team member, and earning top honors at the county soil judging contest held last year. Of all his experiences in FFA, Greg stated the trip to Penn State was one of the most enjoyable, explaining that the campus and Agricultural Research Centers impressed him a great deal. This year also, when he received his Keystone Farmer Degree.

This young man finds time for all his FFA activities even though he also works full time on a dairy farm, which includes milking every day of the week, morning and evening.

To accomplish this and go to school also, Greg starts every day at 4:45 a.m. getting the feeding and milking finished before he is due at school, and going right to work after classes are over. Farm work is nothing new to this student. He was raised on a farm and was responsible for feeding the herd for several years while at home.

Greg is presently working with a great-uncle, John Luckenbill, and has hopes of eventually taking over the farm when his uncle retires. Farming has always been Greg's primary interest and is what he is looking forward to once out of school.

"I think people who feel young people can't get started in farming these days are wrong," Greg stated, adding that he thinks it can be done. "There is money to be made in farming," he continued, "if you change with the times and keep an open mind to allow for a needed change." "But," he added, you have to keep at the profitable end.

There doesn't seem to be any phase in dairy farming that this ambitious young man likes better than any other. "I have always liked field work," he explained, "better than working with cows until I got more involved with the milking." Now he has more interest in cows and enjoys tham as much as the field work.

Gregory Koenig

Greg enjoys the mechanical end of farming also. "I like to see how things work," he smiled. If he wasn't so involved with farming he remarked, he would like to work in a mechanics shop, learning how to work on Diesel engines.

The ever present problems involving surplus milk in the dairy industry has not dimmed this man's view on farming. "If farmers would

In recent trials...
Seven veal feeding programs were compared... and you've got the winner!

In total gains, rate of gain and conversion rate, one program stood out above all others. That's the one on which new Agway Veal Pre-Starter, Starter, and Finisher are based.

The group on the winning program started at an initial average weight of 111.1 lbs. And finished at 349.00 lbs. An average gain of 237.9 lbs. With a feed conversion rate of 1.66 pounds of feed per pound of gain.

New Agway Veal Pre-Starter, Starter and Finisher are made from top quality products. From top quality protein, 100% derived from milk products. From 100% animal fat. Because Agway knows that protein quality and fat source are where performance is. As the trials showed... quality pays off. Every time.

Every veal grower knows that prime veal depends on the quality and vigor of the calves, on proper housing, feeding management and sanitation. Do all of them right, and the new line-up of Agway Veal Feeds can do a superior job for you.

For more information on a most profitable way to get into a most profitable market, call your local Agway.

cull the cows they should, and wouldn't expand unnessarily, there wouldn't be a surplus," he stated. Greg also expressed his thoughts on government supports. There shouldn't be any, the government shouldn't get involved, he said. "The government can't bail out every business which is losing money," he remarked.

Greg has already decided on a few changes he would make if he takes over his great-uncle's farm. He plans to keep better records, improve on the feeding of the herd, and establish and maintain better hay stands as a start. He would also like to try to move towards a registered herd, explaining that there is a better market for young stock availabke, and would concentrate on breeding cows for larger size and better conformation.

Greg also believes he would diversify if possible. He would raise beef cows or pigs to put extra grain into, and to act as a cushion for the constantly changing markets. "That's what's wrong with the striking farmers," Greg remarked. They wouldn't have such problems if they were diversified he feels.

This young man also has strong feelings on the family farm. "If the farmily farm was threatened, it wouldn't be here today." It has something a corporation doesn't, Greg explained. People work harder when they are working for themselves and families are better off as a whole if they are on a farm. "I just couldn't work five days a week," he added after a pause.

Participating in FFA has also helped Greg to be what he is today. "FFA has helped me express myself better in front of people and has shown me how to get people motivated," he said. Going to leadership conferences he added, was a big help.

Build a home greenhouse

UNIVERSITY PARK – Wouldn't it be nice to have some of Summer's bounty to harvest in January or hyacinths for Easter? Home greenhouses may be the answer, says R. A. Aldrich, Penn State professor of agricultural engineering in his correspondence course on the home greenhouse. This six lesson course is designed to help the beginner or the experienced hobby greenhouse operator.

Plans are included for various types of greenhouses, and lessons discuss location, construction, heating and ventilation, and equipment. Plastic and sash greenhouses for temporary use are also discussed. One lesson is devoted to managing the greenhouse and another to a few favorite plant materials and their propagation.

To get a copy of this course, send a check for $3.50 payable to Penn State, to "Greenhouse," Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802.

Stockyard

Administration began overseeing rates. Terminating the rates charged by posted livestock markets would leave no agency to investiage complaints of excessive charges and discrimination between large and small buyers and sellers."

PFU notes that most livestock produced and sold in this area is done so by relatively small producers marketing limited numbers of livestock at a time. Deregulation would open the possibility of conspiracy, refunds, rebates, and kickbacks to large buyers and sellers.

Farmers Union members will strongly oppose any move to weaken or eliminate the authority of the Packers and Stockyards Administration to protect the best interests of livestock producers. The regulatory authority exercised by the Secretary has been beneficial to the Nation's producers and fair to the marketing industry, the statement concluded.

The hearing in Lancaster was the last of seven held throughout the United States to determine the future of stockyard rates. Twenty-five people from this are presented their views at the meeting here.

A decision will be made by USDA in the near future.

Advertising dollars explained at co-op meeting

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

MOUNT JOY – Members of Interstate Milk Producers Cooperative District 7 met Thursday for their annual meeting at Hostetters Dining Service in Mount Joy. The dairymen learned how their federal order advertising money is being spent and elected officers and delegates for the three locals who make up the District.

Featured speaker Richard Norton, manager of the Advertising and Promotion Agency for the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area, said the agency is working to expand the market for daiy products which will in turn increase the return to dairymen.

The advertising and promotion budget in 1978 will be $3.2 million, with one half of this budget being used for what Norton called "hard-core advertising." There is a total of 19 million people in this area to-sell milk to, amounting to 17 cents per capita for advertising and promotion. "We need to be extremely efficient," Norton said.

Norton discussed the dietary goals which have been set by the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs and expressed concern that four of the seven stated goals for the country will affect the dairy farmer. One goal states: "substitute non-fat milk for whole milk." Norton said that in many schools, where USDA pays for 49 per cent of the lunch, two per

"Trouble with Trash" speech wins top honors

By KENDACE BORRY

LANCASTER – Maxine Messner, a junior from Garden Spot High School, won the Lancaster County Conservation District's Public Speaking Contest, held February 16 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. The 17-year old FFA member, who prefers to be known as Max, spoke on "The Trouble with Trash" as her topic.

The youth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald White, Leola. For her presentation, she was awarded a $25 check as first prize. She related that she plans to use the money towards college as she someday hopes to become a veterinarian.

A member of the Sparten Conservation Club at Garden Spot High School, Max related that she chose her topic because she feels the issue is important today and needs to be brought to the public's attention.

Kenneth Depoe, organizer and director of the Lancaster County Conservation District's Public Speaking Contest awards Max Messner her $25 check for winning first place in the contest.

prospects for prices of the new crops would not be very encouraging.

This could be particularly true in the case of corn, the leading feed grain. The odds favor good yields again this year. Subsoil moisture is mostly adequate to surplus in the Corn Belt now, so timely rains this summer will be less critical than they were last year. This could spell another bumper crop — perhaps the fourth straight record. Under the circumstances, the prospect for stronger corn prices isn't very bright right now. New crop corn furtures on the Chicago Board of Trade have been running between $2.26 and $2.31 a bushel since early January, which means a farm price of around $2.

With this weak feed grain price picture, some growers may still decide to participate in the government's feed grain set-aside program which includes income supporting target price payments and insurance against prevented planting or production disaster. This would be one way to recover at least part of a farmer's production expenses. The 1978 target price for corn has been set at $2.10 a bushel. In order to be eligible for this target price a grower must be a participant in the set-aside program.

Farmers have until May 1 to sign up for this program at their county ASCS office. Uncertainty as to how many will decide to participate is another reason why it is difficult right now to predict just how much acreage will actually be planted in corn and soybeans this year.

into a corn crib, and "made a mess" of the hay mow says the farmer.

The Bureau of Animal Industries of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is conducting an investigation on the matter. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is also getting involved.

Some people close to the issue admit, however, that it's tough to make a case out of the alleged neglect on the Angelaras farms. Still others, including one official in the Bureau of Animal Industries, claim that the situation could be corrected by the SPCA or law enforcement agencies. What it'll take, they say, is public testimony.

Angelaras owns several farms in Adams County, including a large dairy farm about which complaints have also been received. Both the Pennsylvania and Maryland dairy sanitation divisions of the respective agriculture departments recently gave the dairy a clean bill. Milk from Angelaras' 180 milking cows goes to Sealtest in Baltimore.

According to a report in the Feb. 2 edition of the Gettysburg Times, Angelaras has also failed to meet lease agreements he had with the government that required mowing of pasture lands, fertilization, and liming, proper fence maintenance and acceptable maintenance of buildings. The land Angelaras used to lease is under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service. The Gettysburg National Military Park and the Eisenhower Farm are within just a few miles of some of Angelaras' properties.

The Gettysburg Times carried the initial story about Angelaras' animals and farming situation on page 1 of the January 31, 1978 edition. It was complete with photos of dead animals.

The owner of the animals, said the Times, was in Saudi Arabia during the time the animals were found dead.

Advertising dollars

cent milk is served exclusively and in some cases juice is being substituted.

A major thrust of this year's advertising budget will go to reach children from age 2 to 12 who consume 37 per cent of the milk volume. "We're losing in this group, and experiencing a two per cent decline per year," Norton said.

He stressed the importance of getting the message of drinking milk to children. The "magic cow" program has been expanded, with actual "magic cow" heads available to be worn for mall and fair promotions. The agency has also prepared an eye-catching display, complete with barn and sliding board to get children's attention during dairy promotions.

Norton pointed out that 70 per cent of at-home eating is now done on an informal or individual basis or in "mini meals." And because 51 per cent of the women are now employed, there is no mother at home to supervise much of the eating. "Women put the milk in the refrigerator, but not on the table," he observed.

Half of all meals are now eaten away from home, and the number of meals eaten out is growing by 10 per cent annually. With the food service industry growing by 3.4 per cent annually, the dairy industry must get involved.

"Meals away from home mean meals away from milk," Norton said.

Advertising money is also used for a "dairy department management program" which offers instruction in working with dairy products in retail stores. Norton detailed instances of abuse in retail outlets with milk sometimes being allowed to reach 60 degrees Fahrenheit because of improper handling. Often milk is not properly stored in the dairy case or in refrigerated storage before reaching the case. Incidentally, Norton noted that only 57 per cent of the so-called dairy case is actually allocated to dairy items.

In the election in the Lititz Local, Ray P. Bollinger, Stevens R1, was elected president; Noah Kreider, Jr., Manheim R5, vice-president; and Nelson E. Martin, Ephrata R1, secretary-treasurer. Delegates will be Mervin Sauder and Paul S. Horning, with alternate delegates Daniel Martin, Jr. and Earl C. Stauffer.

In the Lebanon County Local Donald G. Hoffer, Lebanon R4, was elected president with John H. Hartman, Newmanstown R1, elected vice-president. Howard Kopp, 1597 Colebrook Road, Middletown, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Two delegates were elected: Arthur E. Brandt and Dale Kennedy. Donald K. Bomberger was chosen as alternate delegate.

Daniel S. Stoltzfus, Mount Joy R2, was elected president of the Donegal Local. Vice-president is James F. Brubaker, Mount Joy R1, and secretary-treasurer is Earl N. Landis, Manheim R7.

Galen N. Benner, John S. Wenger and Clair M. Hollinger were elected delegates and Elvin K. Breneman, Robert H. Kauffman and Donald L. Hershey will be alternate delegates.

Interstate Director Daniel L. Martin said milk production is continuing to increase. Nationwide it is two 3/10 per cent higher and among Interstate members it is five per cent higher. He said there will be no deduction for surplus milk for January. "Beef prices have been good and it would be a good time to move out borderline cows."

As part of the twice yearly review of support prices by the Secretary of Agriculture, Martin said it is possible there will be a 25 cent per hundred increase in April.

Martin reported that the Food and Drug Administration has withdraw the new standards which would have allowed sodium caseinate and whye powder substitutes to be used in the production of ice cream.

"We don't have the threat of substitutes at this time."

Martin urged members not to send milk on the market if there is a possibility that it contains any antibiotic residues. He said modern equipment can pick up residues of one part per billion. If milk must be dumped at the farm and it is done under Interstate's supervision, the Cooperative will pay one half the value of the milk. "Penalties will be given when the problem continues", Martin said.

Fieldman Andrew Marvin concurred with Martin that dairymen should be certain there are no contaminents in the milk.

"If the market loses sales because of poor quality milk, everyone will suffer," he added.

There is now proposed legislation in Pennsylvania which would establish a milk producers' security fund to be held in escrow against the possibility of failure by the dealer as has happened in the past and left dairymen without milk checks. Under the proposed law, producers will fund the program. Martin said that Interstate feels the funds should come from dealers since it is to their benefit to have the fund so they don't need to post the costly bonds now required. He urged members to contact their legislators and their farm organizations with their views on this legislation

Martin said that the Holly milk plant will be in operation by May 1.

Lancaster County Extension Agent M. M. Smith told the dairymen they should get heifers in production "earlier than you might think." Research has shown that heifers who freshen from 20 to 22 months produce better than heifers who don't freshen until 26-32 months. "Don't let them loaf too long," was the county agent's advice.

Smith said the first hour of a calf's life can make the difference between a healthy calf or one which has problems all its life.

"Make sure the calf is born in good, clean, warm, sanitary conditions," he said.

He reminded dairymen not to feed silage too close to milking, saying that it takes just 30 minutes for the flavor to get into the milk. He said quality milk must be made high priority and said silage should be fed no closer than three or four hours before milking.

He suggested that more emphasis be put on growing forage crops and alfalfa, adding that it might pay better than corn which nobody seems to want.

Delegate Harold Brubaker reported on the 60th annual meeting of Interstate and said that the seven per cent increase in production and the one per cent increase in demand for milk caused the co-op some problems during the past year. Mrs. Harold Brubaker reported on the women's activities at the annual meeting.

John Bartsch, Bethel R1, told about the Young Cooperator program in which he and his wife participated during the year.

Lancaster County's Dairy Princess Twila Brubaker spoke breifly, and vocal music was provided by Kim Buchen accompanied by Sheri Buchen. Chairman of the program was Clyde M. Buchen.

Fertilizer is expensive — don't waste it!

Studies show that less than 50% of your fertilizer can do its job in very acid soil (5.0 pH). Fertilizer efficiency increases dramatically as pH rises — 67.31% at 5.5 pH, 80.33% at 6.0 pH, 100% at 7.0 pH.

Fertilizer efficiency goes up as soil acidity goes down. And reducing soil acidity is the job of Baker's Ag-Limestone.

Baker's agricultural limestone is available in two types — high-magnesium or high-calcium. Both sweeten acid soil, raise pH and unlock vital plant nutrients. For fast, efficient delivery, call your dealer or Baker.

"Trouble with Trash"

"America the beautiful can become America the ugly," the girl related in her speech. "The volume of trash is expected to double within the next 15 years. The cost of refuse removal is enormous."

Proving the problem existed, Max then went on to show some ideas of what she believes can be done to help the situation.

Focusing on the re-use of salvaged raw materials, she explained how aluminum, paper, and glass are now being recycled. She urged more people to become involved in the recycling of materials and charged that America has become a "throw-away" society, where it is easier to buy something new than repair the old item.

If nothing is done about this crisis, she added, the alternative will be a congested planet that has turned into a polluted trash heap.

"Garbage isn't pretty," the youth concluded. "That's the trouble with trash!"

Second place winner in the contest was Carol Brenna, a senior from McCaskey High School. Her topic for her presentation was "Restoration of a City", and she spoke of the projects that had been done in downtown Lancaster.

Third placing went to Larry Burkholder, a member of the Cloister Chapter FFA at Ephrata Senior High School. The intense youth spoke on "Pollution, It's Everyone's Problem." Claiming that water and air pollution affect every person, he stressed that each individual must make an effort to solve the problem.

Fourth place and honorable mention went to Liz Brandt, Lancaster Mennonite School. Coming from a farm family, the girls' topic was "Save Farm Land or Else". While admitting that she was not sure what the solution to the problem of farm land being lost to other uses might be, she stressed the seriousness of the dilemna and urged for answers to be found soon.

The contestants were judged on both the written content and the oral presentation of their speeches, with composition, voice, stage presence, and power of expression being stressed.

The contest is an annual event, open to any student in Lancaster County in grades nine thru 12. Director for the even is Kenneth Depoe, Urban Director of the Lancaster County Conservation District.

AFBF prescribes relief measure

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The American Farm Bureau Federation has presented Congress with a four-point program designed to ease the financial strain on the American farmer

Farm Bureau called for more effective use of the 1977 Food and Agriculture Act, more dynamic steps to increase exports, improved farm credit measures, and immediate efforts to slow inflation and balance the federal budget.

Appearing before the House Agriculture Committee, John C. Datt, director of the Farm Bureau's Washington office, called for more effective use of the set-aside program. Datt said Farm Bureau recommends that USDA offer participants the opportunity to set aside additional land in return for per-acre performance payments.

Datt pointed to expansion of exports as vitally important in efforts to improve farm income. He called for liberalization of restrictive trade barries and aggressive marketing promotion and development activities.

Farm Bureau is actively supporting the Poage-Mathis bill (H.R. 10434), which would establish up to 25 agricultural trade missions, set up a medium-term commercial credit program, mandate the appointment of an undersecretary of agriculture for international affairs, and upgrade the role of U.S. agricultural attaches.

Datt said the Farm Bureau will also look favorably on bills to enhance our competitive export position, such as the measure introduced by Congressman Findley and the late Senator Humphrey to allow CCC loans to nonmarket economy countries, including the People's Republic of China, the Soviet Union, and nations in Eastern Europe.

The Farm Bureau spokesman announced that the organization is drafting a marketing and bargaining bill for presentation to the committee to "allow farmers to organize themselves to bargain and negotiate for better prices, terms of delivery, and conditions of sale."

In the area of agricultural credit, Datt said, "Farmers and ranchers need a variety of credit facilities to finance operating expenses and the purchase of farm equipment. Farm Bureau encourages nongovernment suppliers of agricultural credit ... to provide credit services to meet those needs."

animals, crops, and equipment.

Agriculture is not without its problems, Miller readily admits. While he looks forward to a rewarding career as a farmer, he also wants to participate in community activities which will help his neighborhood. One way he believes this can be accomplished is by joining the Young Farmers group.

Agriculture's biggest problem, says Miller, is the lack of interest that exists for agriculture among city folks. He'd like to see agriculture get more publicity. A way that might be done is to encourage more students from town to take at least one basic course in agriculture.

Education is the key to a lot of things, the young man has learned. Education has sharpened his interest in agriculture. The FFA program has been a big influence in his life.

Farmers

"Do we want to pay more for energy through deregulation and thereby encourage increased supplies, or do we want to pay more for energy through taxation while offering no incentives for the development of new energy," Goodling asked.

The farmer gets hit from several directions when it comes to energy use and planning, the legislator claimed. Examples are gas, gasoline, oil, fertilizer, plastics, and even clothing. "We're pretty much an oil economy, Goodling explained.

The York Countian acknowledged that "it is extremely important that we reduce energy consumption" and that additional and alternative energy sources be found to reduce the flow of American dollars to foreign lands. "This is a serious problem, one which could destroy us," Goodling warned.

Noting that this nation's trade deficit last year was the highest on record, Goodling stressed the importance of agricultural exports to help balance the lopsided trade situation. Agricultural products are this country's single most important group of exports. They're in demand abroad and American farmers produce plenty of it. What's needed, says Goodling, is new markets. "We must sell what we have in abundance and get those dollars back into our country," he affirmed.

Trading of agricultural goods isn't as easy as it may sound, the representative acknowledged. He stressed the need for measures which would prevent men such as AFL-CIO leader George Meaney from dictating export policy. Another problem is competing with subsidized imports from abroad. In some cases, products are important into this country which are produced abundantly by American farmers, members of the audience claimed.

The House of Representatives' Agriculture Committee is one of the most popular to get on, Goodling continued. But, he says, it is composed mainly of people who represent either consumer groups or big money interests. Neither group has much knowledge of agriculture, in Goodling's opinion.

Agriculture's intersts are further jeopardized in Congress becuase of the budget cuts reorganization of USDA which President Carter has ordered, says Goodling. He charges that three-quarters of USDA's funds have in the past been earmarked for food stamp and welfare programs. That figure will increase at the expense of true agricultural interests. The way Goodling sees it, USDA is swaying more to consumer, nutrition, and related interests, at the expense of the farmer's interests

Talking briefly on subsidies for agricultural commodities, Goodling agreed with questioning Young Farmer members that Congress is very likely to expand subsidy programs. Much of that, he says, can be attributed to various specific interest groups joining together to support each other. It's a matter of "you vote for me, I vote for you." The results are that a good number of bills receive support which they would not have received otherwise.

Goodling concluded his talk after an unlimited time for questions. Assisting him in his telephone presentation was aide Charles H. Walters. Congressman Goodling was unable to attend personally because of a congressional commitment which didn't end until nearly an hour after the Young Farmers had started their banquet. The drive from Washington would have taken up an additional three hours.

Earl Stauffer, vice president of Region II for the Pennsylvania Young Farmers, was on hand to give a brief review of major PYFA activities, including the PYFA convention held in Lancaster last week. But the Ephrata area farmer also looked ahead to years to come. It is hoped, for example, that Pennsylvania will be able to host the National Young Farmers Institute in 1981. Also, the PYFA is looking for a chapter willing to host the annual Summer picnic in 1978.

Serving as toastmaster for the banquet meeting was John Marsteller of Stewartstown. A well-known beef producer, Marsteller served as president of the Kennard-Dale Young Farmers Chapter this past year. His successor for 1978 is James Cooper of Delta R1. Other officers for 1978 are Mervyn Marsteller, of Stewartstown, vice president; Elwood Krick of Delta, public relations officer; Don Wilson of New Park, secretary; and Dan Buttorff, New Park, treasurer.

The group honored one of its members and his wife – David and Barbara Stewart of Delta – with their Outstanding Community Service Award. The recognition was accompanied by a $25 check from the York Bank and Trust Company.

Advisors to the grup are Chalie Wright and Ralph Travis, vocational agriculture instructors at Kennard-Dale High School.

THERMA•STOR

Heat Recovery System

Designed to fit any existing system, the THERMA•STOR HRS is the ultimate example of energy conservation.

The THERMA•STOR HRS will produce all of your dairy hot water needs, without the use of electricity or fuel.

Conventional cooling systems use fan cooled condensers to remove the refrigerant heat. This wasted heat can now be saved with the use of the THERMA•STOR HRS. By replacing the fan cooled condensers with a THERMA•STOR, the heat from the hot refrigerant is transferred to cold water, which in turn becomes hot water. This process will heat about 1 gallon of water to about 110° for every gallon of milk being cooled. In addition, the THERMA•STOR produces and stores 1/3 of its capacity in Hot Water from 150° to 190°. (The precise temperature of water reached in this section is dependent upon total compressor H.P. and running time, see Chart for more details).

The THERMA•STOR HRS is available in two sizes: a single condenser, 100 gallon; or as a dual condenser, 170 gallon model. Both come equipped with male Areo-Quip fittings for use on existing systems or for use with a Tecumseh or Heavy-Duty Copelametic compressor.

Water does not go through the compressor. The water is heated by the refrigerant gas from the compressor. Your existing compressor can remain outside.

WHAT'S NEW

VAL-CUP

Val-Cup Products announces the availability of its new poultry cage watering system. This unique system does not require training or triggering and losses from dehydration are greatly reduced. The water level is controlled by four precise settings and the valve is activated by the weight of the water in the cup.

Constructed of Noryl and stainless steel coupled with precision manufacturing techniques, this system is said to be effective and trouble free.

For more information, contact Larry Martin, Val-Cup Products Box 96, Marietta, Pa. 17547 Phone 717-426-2139.

Farm emergency program approved

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The United States Senate has approved a resolution urging the Carter Administration to implement immediately a five-point farm emergency program proposed by Senator Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia.

The Senate interrupted debate on the Panama Canal treaties to consider the resolution. It was adopted by voice vote after a 30-minute debate.

Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, spoke in opposition to the resolution, stating that the Talmadge proposals could "bust the budget" for agriculture in the 1978 fiscal year.

Talmadge said the cost of his proposals were estimated at between $3.5 and $4.5 billion for the fiscal year depending upon the degree of success of his "centerpiece" proposal – 50 million acre land diversion program.

Talmadge said if the cost of his proposals is a "problem" to the Carter Administration, he would propose trimming back the President's proposed $25 billion reductions in corporate and individual income taxes in order to underwrite his plan

"No segment of the economy is in greater need of stimulus than agriculture," Talmadge said. No segment would respond more dramatically.

"To me it makes good sense to attack the economic ills of our country where they clearly exist and where the need is most urgent. These conditions certainly prevail in the agriculture sector today."

In addition to the land diversion program, Talmadge has urged the Administration to increase price support loans on wheat, feed grains, soybeans, and non-quota peanuts for the 1978 crop.

N.J. packer court-ordered

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Eastern Dressed Pork, Inc., North Bergen, N.J. a meat packer, has been ordered to cease and desist from violating payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The firm, with corporate offices at Sommerville, N.J. purchased hogs for slaughter in Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. The firm was charged in June 1976 with failing to pay for more than $677,000 worth of livestock, including issuance of insufficient checks totaling $65,000.

It consented to the order and waived oral hearing. The firm, which is not purchasing livestock at this time, neither admitted nor denied the charges filed against it.

A USDA administrative law judge ordered Eastern Dressed Pork, Inc., and its officers, directors and employees to cease and desist from: Issuing checks or drafts in payment for livestock purchased in commerce without sufficient funds to cover payment when due; and Failing to pay the full purchase price of livestock and meats purchased in commerce.

The cease and desist order, like a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the Act.

Lanc. Co. Crops and Soils Day to be Feb. 21

LANCASTER – The 18th annual Lancaster County Crops and Soils Day will be held February 21 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, from 8:30 a.m. until 3:15 p.m. The program will include appropriate and timely topics relating to crop production for 1978.

The program includes time to visit exhibits and displays of farm seed, lime, fertilizers, and agricultural chemicals of farm suppliers. At 9:30 a.m., there will be a county crops report and outlook by Arnold G. Lueck, County Agricultural Agent-Agronomy.

John Yocum, superintendent of the Southeast Field Research Laboratory of Penn State, at Landisville, will present a talk on fitting in double cropping practices. Next, Dr. Wayne Hinnish, Extension agronomist from Penn State will speak on providng the lime, fertilizers and micronutrients for today's agronomic crops.

At 11 a.m., the topic will turn to a small grains update and also focus on soybeans as a more profitable crop. Dr. Elwood Hatley, Extension agronomist, Penn State, will be the speaker.

Farmers will have the opportunity to learn the newest in farming methods at the Lancaster County Crops and Soils Day to be held at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster on February 21.

Starting the afternoon off at 1:30, Dr. Joseph H. McGahen, also from Penn State, will talk on corn production practices and concepts. There will be a soil survey and soil conservation update next, given by Boyd Custer, soil scientist and Reginaod Speir, soil conservationist.

Last speaker of the day will be Jack M. Beideman, representing Ciba-Geigy. His topic will be herbicides, dual and tolban.

There will be coffee and donuts available. Noon lunch will be furnished, half of cost, courtesy of the National Central Bank.

The program is an educational meeting by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service of Lancaster County for farmers and those working with and advising farmers.

Poultry course available

UNIVERSITY PARK – Within the borders of Pennsylvania, more poultry and eggs are produced than in any other northeastern state. Today, Pennsylvania's poultry industry is composed of 1000 farms that have several thousand birds, which gross between $5900 and three million dollars per year per farm.

H.C. Jordan and O. D. Keene, poultry scientists at Penn State, have compiled a correspondence course on poultry keeping for those interested in working in the industry. Lessons detail characteristics and useful qualities of more common breeds of poultry; location, construction, and care of buildings; incubation, brooding, and diseases; selection and care of eggs and rearing stock; feeding for egg production; artificial illumination; and approved methods and practices in marketing.

This comprehensive course is available by writing "Poultry", Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Send your check for $6.50, payable to Penn State

Dale Witwer wins PCIA corn contest division

By JOANNE SPAHR

BOWMANSVILLE -- Seventeen-year-old Dale Witwer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Witwer, Bowmansville, recently won a top placing in the Pennsylvania Crop Improvement Association's one acre corn contest. The Grassland FFA member is a sophomore at Garden Spot High School this year under the direction of Clifford Day, vocational agriculture instructor.

Entered in the 600 to 700 series division of the four-seasonal-maturity group contest. Dale's winning entry of Northrup PX76 yielded 211.3 bushels per acre giving him a profit of $291 per acre.

In fertilizing his acreage, Witwer used 400 pounds of 10-10-10 as well as three tons of steer manure. He used no limestone since this substance had been applied in 1976.

The rows were spaced 36 inches apart with the row length for the contest plot measuring 21 feet and nine inches long. The computed population was 26,000 with ear weight in pounds coming to .564. The moisture content was 25 per cent.

Witwer, who rents two acres of land from his neighbor, John Hoover, said that the last crop harvested off the land was tomatoes, and that three years ago the owner applied chicken manure to the field.

The Grassland FFA'er also applied no sprays.

His comments on the crop were that the weather was nice, that he had no problems from insects or diseases, and that the stalk stand was good.

"It had real big ears on it and made good silage," reported Witwer.

This was his first year to raise corn, and Witwer was pleased with the outcome, saying he plans to use the same corn variety next year since "it was a good variety."

The same type corn won him a second placing in the Ephrata Fair 30-ear corn contest.

"Next year I want to get involved in some extra projects including four acres of corn," says Witwer. At this point, his only other project is rabbits, however, he is thinking of raising 10 feeder pigs next year.

Although Witwer won maturity level III, a classmate, Brian Hess, Leola, actually had the highest yield of the 104 contestants entered in the contest. Hess had 213 bushels per acre compared to Witwer's 211 bushels per acre. However, Witwer made the largest profit, which set him ahead in the contest.

The seeds were given to all contests and Witwer's variety was distributed by Stanford Seed Co., Denver.

WHERE QUALITY HAS BEEN FOR OVER 60 YEARS

John and Abe Barley chat with Bob Butera.

Butera visits farm

WASHINGTON BORO – Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Butera visited a Lancaster County farm this week, chatted with farmers, and even tried his hands at milking.

John Barley, dairyman and director of grass roots organization for the Lancaster County Republican Party, hosted the gubernatorial hopeful at his farm near here. About 25 other farmers from the area took advantage of the opportunity to meet with Butera, who served as minority leader of the State House of Representatives until mid-December of last year.

Butera told the group that he didn't know the farm business but was wanting farmers to give him some input.

"You had better have a voice in my administration," he told the gathering," and I would intend for you to haveone. You are the ones who would have to make your voice heard."

The meeting on the Barley farm served as an occasion through which farmers and Butera could exchange views, Barley explained. Some of the questions farmers asked of Butera concerned his views on agriculture secretary qualifications, the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board, the loss of agricultural land, public employee strikes, welfare monies, and farm financing.

Butera told his audience that he would look for someone who has worked on a Pennsylvania farm to serve as secretary of agriculture in his administration. He also emphasized that he would want the farmer to have a stronger voice in the agriculture department, claiming that the department has become too consumer oriented in its present form.

The former legislator, who first took public office in the legislature in 1962, went on to say that farmers and developers must work together for controlled growth of residential areas. He also wants the Milk Marketing Board to give more weight to farmer interests, promising fair representation for farmers.

Definitely So?

Ability has been called what will get you to the top—if the boss doesn't have a daughter or a son. A balanced meal, on the other hand, is one from which the diner has a 50-50 chance of recovery And a divorce is currently being called a splitting headache president John M. Hulse said the youths would have something which would be of value and use to them for the rest of their lives. While such prizes are considerably more expensive, Hulse said the expense was worth it. An insurance agent specializing in farm insurance, the Chamber of Commerce executive presided over the banquet on Thursday night.

Cumberland 4-H'ers

John Cope, manager of Ashcombe Farm Dairy, provided the group with a slide show and commentary on Soviet agriculture. Making comparisons between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. economic systems, Cope repeatedly emphasized how fortunate Americans are to have a free enterprise system where progress isn't stifled by government.

Contributions towards the trophies and prizes were given by the following Mechanicsburg area businesses. J&R Ford Tractor Sales, Keefer's I.G.A. Foodliner, Agway, and the Cumberland Valley Co-op Association.

Other businesses which contributed, through donation of money or services were: The First Bank and Trust Company, John M. Hulse Insurance, Bumberland Printing Co., D.N. Biddle and Son, Susan Walmer, and Mary T. Brougher, past executive secretary of the Mecahnicsburg Area Chamber of Commerce.

Penn State offers flower course

UNIVERSITY PARK – Beautiful gardens just don't happen. They are planned. To teach flower growing for home gardens, Penn State University offers a correspondence course on home floriculture. W. R. Fortney, associate professor of floriculture Extension and author of the course, outlines the cultural needs and choice varieties of annuals, perennials, roses, bulbs and house plants.

For example, columbines enjoy partially shaded areas in rocky, moist, yet well-drained soil. Tall bearded iris want well-drained soil with their rhizomes exposed to the sun. Roses need mid-Summer's sun before flowers open. To learn how to grow a variety of flowering plants, enroll now in home floriculture. Study at your leisure and be prepared when Spring arrives to put your garden plans into action.

To order a copy of this nine-lesson course, write "Floriculture," Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Make your check for $5 payable to Penn State.

Flowers featured at Longwood Gardens

KENNETT SQUARE – The informal use of flowers to brighten daily living will be the subject of a lecture-demonstration at Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square, on February 22. Kenn Stephens, noted floral designer, will present "Living Everyday with Flowers" beginning at 8:30 p.m. in Longwood's ballroom. Admission is $2.

The lecture-demonstration at Longwood Gardens will illustrate the informal use of flowers indoors, with special attention to the selection of unusual containers.

Longwood's conservatories open at 7:30 p.m. and remain open for one hour after the conclusion of the lecture. On display in the 3.5 acres of heated gardens are thousands of spring bulbs, masses of golden acacias, and hundreds of cymbidium orchids.

Across the Azalea House from the ballroom are the 1978 Example Gardens. Featuring balcony gardening, they contain dozens of ideas for apartment and townhouse dwellers. One section is devoted to indoor gardening under lights, another to window sill gardening.

Longwood Gardens is located on U.S. Route 1, twelve miles north of Wilmington, De. The gardens are open every day of the year.

Stained glass artwork becoming popular again

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff correspondent

QUARRYVILLE —— Stain glass craftsmanship is an art of oscillating appeal -- at one time it was popular, only to become unpopular, and today, it is, once more, returning to public esteem. Brightly colored hanging objects such as birds and fruits called "sun-catchers," jewelry, jewelry boxes, lampshades, partitions, and windows crafted in the stained glass tyle are presently enjoying a revival.

The beauty of light, natural or artificial, as it is displayed through brightly colored designs in glass is attracting an increasing number of potential craftspersons. Lancaster Farming spoke with Philip Allamong, Quarryville in Lancaster County, who operates a glass and mirror company, to find out what is involved in this endeavor.

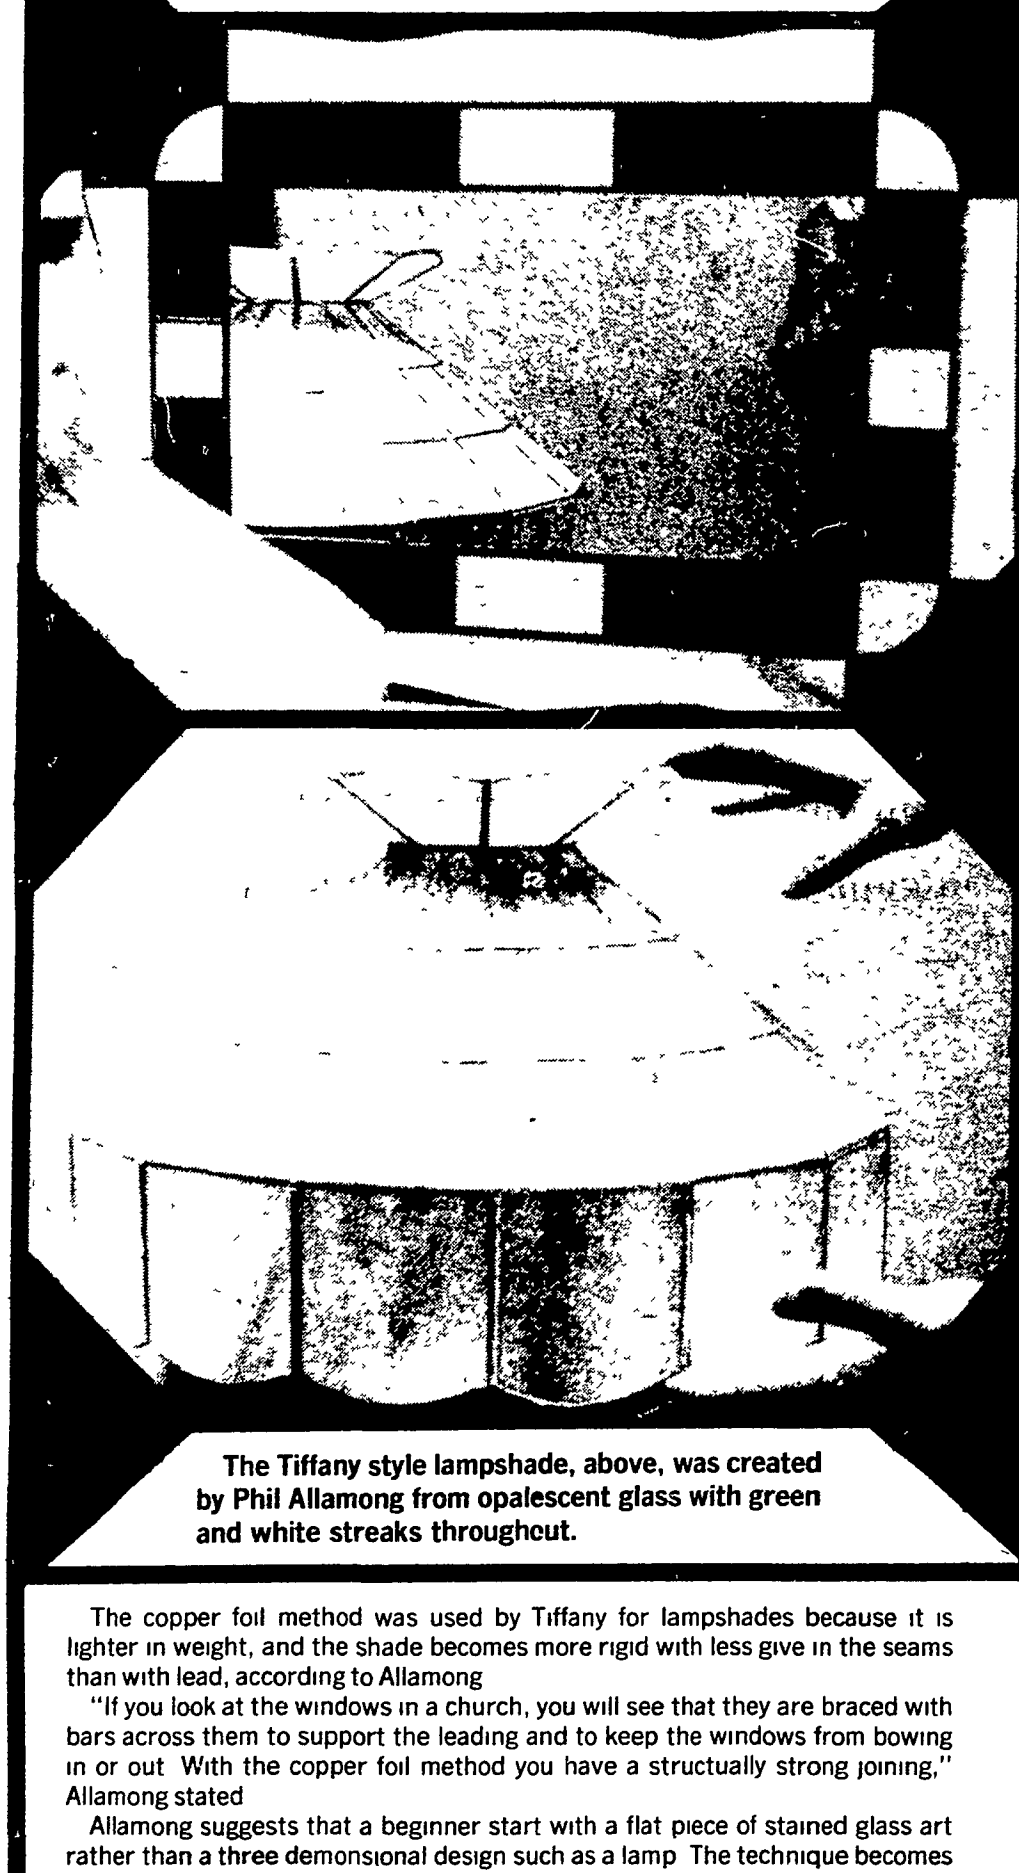
"The prevailing trend now is toward creating Tiffany lamps," says Allamong. "This type of craft requires a lot of patience and time. Once you have mastered the techniques of glass cutting and soldering, though, the rest comes much more easily," he added.

Allamong teaches the copper foil method which was perfected by Louis Comfort Tiffany to produce the lamps for which he is known.

"The copper foil method differs from that used in creating the stained glass windows found in churches," says Allamong The church windows are made by using lead "cames" (H- or U-shaped strips of lead) to join the pieces of glass together.

"In the copper foil method," he explains," thin strips of copper foil are placed over the glass edges. Then the pieces of copper are soldered together."

Although the picture below is black and white, it is easy to imagine the ruby red cathedral glass and white opalescent combinations.



Phil Allamong wrapes a copper foil strip around the edge of a piece of cut stained glass with assorted tools displayed around him.

Phil holds a pattern piece for dark glass (above). The actual-size copy of the stain glass master plan is beneath the cut pieces of glass.

The copper foil method was used by Tiffany for lampshades because it is lighter in weight, and the shade becomes more rigid with less give in the seams than with lead, according to Allamong

"If you look at the windows in a church, you will see that they are braced with bars across them to support the leading and to keep the windows from bowing in or out With the copper foil method you have a structually strong joining," Allamong stated

Allamong suggests that a beginner start with a flat piece of stained glass art rather than a three demonsional design such as a lamp The technique becomes more complicated when working with more than one plane, he explained

By way of showing the difficulties in creating the lampshades, Allamong sketched the basic steps in creating a piece of stained glass art in the copper foil method

"You must first select or make a pattern," Allamong began The pattern or "cartoon" is drawn to exact size, then reproduced two times One copy is cut up to make the patterns for each individual piece of glass The second copy is used as a working drawing on which the glass pieces are placed after cutting

"If you make a new pattern, it may be wise to make a mock-up out of heavy cardboard to make sure it works Stained glass is expensive," he cautioned

The second step after completing the pattern and two copies is to find the right glass Allamong says this glass is not easy to get Philadelphia and New York have distributors of both domestic and imported stained glass, but there may be up to a year's delivery delay, he added.

Stained glass starts at a price of $2 50 a square foot The reds and deep blues are higher priced colors according to Allamong.

There are several types of stained glass to choose from, including "cathedral" and "opalescent." Cathedral glass, used in church windows, especially, is a clear, textured colored glass which allows one to see shapes through it. Opalescent glass is non-transparent, opaque It diffuses images seen through it and generally has streaks of two colors in the glass

"The opalescent glass diffuses the light over the lampshade and you can not see the bulb or fixture. If you use the cathedral glass, you will see the bulb or fixture through the glass," he explained.

"It is best to select your glass by looking at it in daylight as well as artificial light," he continued. "The color changes in effect under various lighting conditions," he cautioned.

Twenty to 30 per cent waste is expected when ordering glass. If the design area has many large curved shapes, 50 per cent waste is more likely. There is less waste in cutting regular shapes like rectangles Matching the exact color in different purchases or orders may be impossible

Stained glass

The third step in creating the finished object is to cut the glass into the desired shapes for the cartoon or master pattern.

"You are not really cutting it; you are causing a fissure," Allamong explained. Stained glass is made by fusing sand, soda and lime at a high temperature. Various chemicals, metals, and metallic oxides are added to produce the colors.

"Cutting the glass is the worst obstacle," Allamong stated. "Practice on clear glass will help avoid expensive mistakes," he added.

After the pieces are cut, they have to be washed with soap and water to remove the oil and kerosene solution used in the cutting process.

The next step is to wrap a thin strip of copper foil around all the edges of all the pieces of glass. A tool called a "fid" is used to fold the foil over the edges and down the sides of the glass. The foil comes in various widths ranging from 3/16 to 1/2 an inch and on rolls 36 yards long.

The foil has a self-adhesive back which adheres to the glass in a permanent bond. The foil must be applied so that the overlap on each side is even.

Once foiled, the pieces are soldered together, first on the outside; then the inside seams must be made.

After the soldering is completed, the excess flux (chemical applied during soldering process) has to be removed by applying dry plaster of paris on the glass and working over the surface with a soft brush. The plaster absorbs the flux and is then washed off the object.

A patina may be used to give the soldered seams a different appearance. The patina is a chemical which changes the color of the silvery solder to black or dark grey or antique copper tones. Finally the entire project is polished with glass wax.

This method used by Tiffany is structurally stronger than the lead came method. It is lighter in weight and it is waterproof while leaded glass requires a tedious puttying process to render it waterproof.

"All the kits I have heard of are lead method," Allamong said. To master the cutting and soldering techniques, the encouragement found in a class would be helpful, noted Allamong.

Allamong, himself, will be teaching a series of classes in stained glass art beginning February 27, running two hours one night a week for eight weeks.

Phil Allamong is working on a stained glass window to be placed in the door at his shop along Route 222 just north of the Quarryville borough. He says he would like to make several lamps to keep and hang in his shop but he estimates the time spent on one would run 50 hours. Allamong's time is spent primarily on plate glass and mirrors, but his creative interests, and those of a lot of other people lately, lie in stained glass art.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We've had so much snow this Winter and so many days off from school that the children will probably be attending school until all the hay is made in June. I suppose that there isn't much we can do about it. We might as well enjoy our frozen and canned food and also the forced forsythia blossoms in the kitchen.

The other day at the dinner table we got to talking about serenading newly married couples. Sometimes the Pennsylvania Dutch call it a "Callithumpian Band". I told our children about the 16 folks who came down our mile long lane one dark night and surprised us with much clanging and banging. My brother-in-law had made a contraption of metal gears that needed electricity to run it and so it was quietly plugged into a summerhouse outlet. Afterward, there was a lot of fooling around and my sister was forced (flat on her back on the kitchen floor) to eat a dish of chocolate pudding which she had just ruined by putting several teaspoons of black pepper in it. We were surprised to see which relatives and friends came.

My husband had a story or two of his own to add to the discussion. He remembered the time that Max Smith, Lancaster County Extension agent, was serenaded at his home near Bainbridge. Sleighbells, metal tubs with a rosined string or even two cook pot lids can be used.

His second story, which amused me, was one that took place about 75 years ago. It happened when his uncle and aunt were serenaded near Donegal Springs. They hit an old wheel spoke on the rain barrel and also used a bull fiddle. When the din got too bad the grandfather went out to examine the bull fiddle, which was a two by four board drawn across a big empty wooden box. Unbeknownst to the serenaders was the fact that he had a fistful of lard and when he examined their makeshift gadget, he ran his hand over the wood and greased it and so made it inoperable. Enough is enough.

MAPLE WALNUT CAKE

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1⅓ cups granulated sugar
½ cup shortening
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon maple flavoring
2 eggs
½ cup chopped English walnuts.

Sift baking powder, salt, and sugar into mixing bowl. Add room temperature soft shortening. Add milk and maple flavoring. Beat two minutes by electric mixer. Keep sides of bowl scraped. Add eggs and beat two more minutes. Stir the chopped walnuts in by hand. Put batter into two eight-inch buttered cake pans, dusted with flour. Bake 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes or until done. Cool on rack. When cool, ice with maple frosting.

Maple Frosting

½ cup soft butter or margarine
1 egg
½ teaspoon maple flavoring
Pinch salt
3 cups (1 lb.) confectioners sugar (sifted)
2 tablespoons cream

Beat all these together until creamy and smooth. Ice cake all over and use extra walnut halves to decorate cake.

NUT TASSIES

Dough

½ cup butter
3 ounces cream cheese
1 cup flour

Filling

1 egg
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon melted butter
Dash salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped pecans

Cream butter and cream cheese, together in small bowl with mixer, and add flour. Blend thoroughly. With fingers, shake dough into balls, 1½ inches in diameter. Place each ball of dough in bottom of a 2¼ inch greased muffin pan. With floured thumb and finger, press dough against bottom and sides, lining pan evenly. In small bowl blend with the mixer the egg, brown sugar, melted butter, salt, and vanilla. Fold in ¾ of the chopped nuts. Spoon filling into lined muffin pans. Sprinkle remaining nuts over filling. Bake in 350 degree F. oven for 15 to 18 minutes. Reduce oven to 250 degrees F. and bake 10 minutes more. Cool in pans. Serve with whipped cream if desired. Makes nine. They freeze well for a make-ahead dessert.

STRAWBERRY GLACE

½ cup nuts, finely chopped
2 packages strawberry gelatin
1 (8 oz. package) cream cheese, softened
1 pint whole strawberries lightly sugared OR
1 large package frozen strawberries
2 cups boiling water
2 cups cold water

Dissolve gelatin in hot water; add cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Shape cream cheese balls; roll in nuts. Alternate cheese balls and strawberries in nine-inch ring mold. Cover with a layer of gelatin. Continue making layers. Chill until firm. Fill center with pineapple sherbet, if desired. Yields six to eight servings.

NUT WAFERS

1 heaping tablespoon butter or margarine
1½ cups finely chopped nuts
1 cup brown sugar
2 heaping tablespoons flour
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter or margarine, and sugar. Add unbeaten egg. Stir in flour and nuts. Add vanilla. Place by the teaspoonful three inches apart, on lightly buttered cookie sheets and bake in 400 degrees oven 10 minutes. Remove from sheets while still hot. Makes about 60 waters.

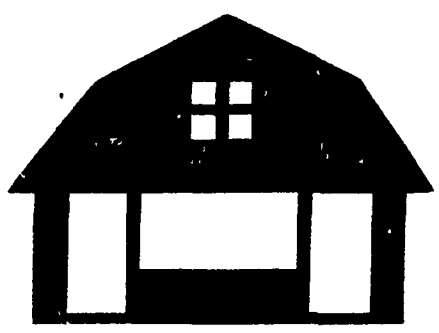
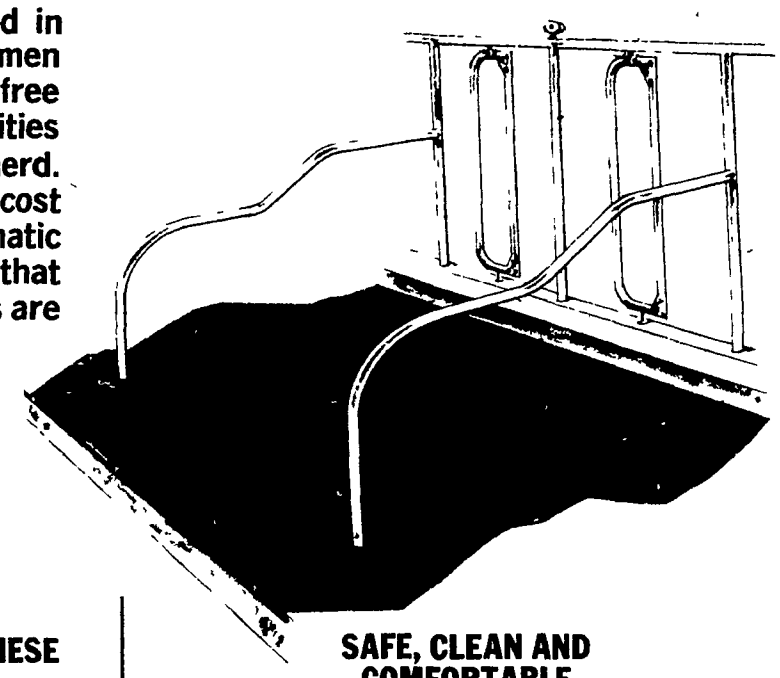
Why and How RED BARN Rubber Mats can reduce costs, cut injuries

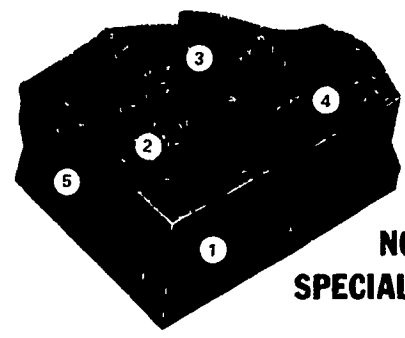


RED BARN floors are 100% vulcanized rubber. They were first manufactured and installed in 1968, and have proven their worth to dairymen ever since. Whether these mats are used in free stalls or stanchion barns, their non-slip qualities provide both comfort and safety for your herd. Dairymen everywhere report bedding cost reductions of 80% and more, and a dramatic decrease in clean-up time. Slips and falls that result in swollen hocks and stepped-on teats are all but eliminated.



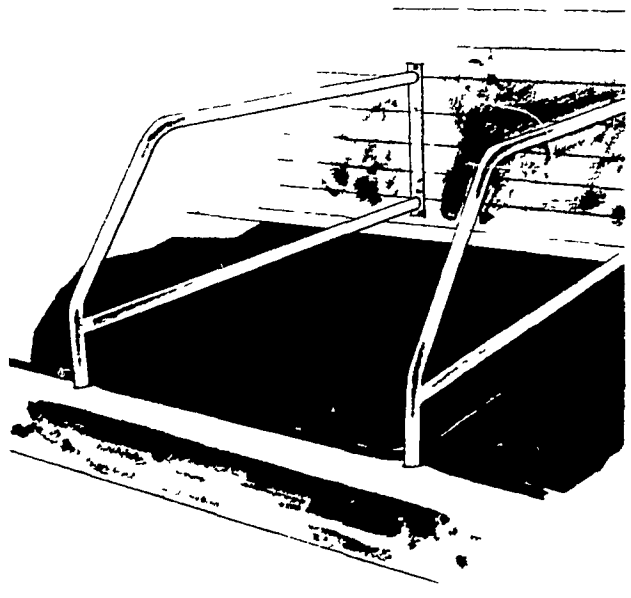
LABOUR COSTS CUT DRAMATICALLY

RED BARN rubber flooring cuts free stall cleaning time to a minimum. One dairyman with 165 stalls averages only 15 minutes per day to keep ALL stalls clean (testimonial on request). Because RED BARN mats are tough, depressions cannot develop that require filling, as is often the case with other types of flooring. Broken dividers causing animal injury are also avoided.



NOTE THESE SPECIAL QUALITIES

1. RED BARN is the thickest mat there is, measuring over ¾".
2. Surface has a grained, pebbled texture for easy cleaning and non-slip qualities.
3. Surface is resilient for comfort, yet springs back to original form.
4. TOUGH. Each mat contains over 100 pounds of vulcanized rubber. NO WIRE, METAL OR CLOTH BONDING MATERIALS ARE USED.
5. RED BARN is non-absorbent.



SAFE, CLEAN AND COMFORTABLE

Ideally suited for use in stanchion barns, RED BARN flooring provides a protective insulation from the cold cement floor and gives comfort and security to standing or resting animals. This vulcanized rubber flooring also eliminates the danger of slipping and injury that often occurs on concrete. With RED BARN flooring, your stanchion stalls will stay clean and dry with little effort. A small amount of bedding can be used in the gutter to facilitate the handling of manure. Many dairymen use inexpensive electric cow trainers in conjunction with RED BARN flooring to eliminate stall bedding entirely.

RED BARN soft, tough mats save costs and protect animals

ALMOND CRESCENT COOKIES

1 package (10 oz.) whole almonds
1¼ cup flour
¼ cup sugar
1 cup butter (not margarine)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup powdered sugar

In blender, grind fine the almonds. Mix flour, sugar, and ground almonds. With fingers, work in butter and vanilla and flour mixture until the mixture cleans bowl. Chill about one hour. Roll dough into balls (about 1¼ inches), then into rolls (about 3½ inches long), then form into crescents. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in 350 degree F. oven for 12 to 15 minutes until lightly browned. Cool about 10 minutes. While still warm, roll in powdered sugar. Makes 25 to 30 crescents.

Mrs. Doris Huddle
Boyertown, Pa.

RICE FLOUR COOKIES

1 cup rice flour
½ cup oil
5 tablespoons honey
¼ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, beaten
1 cup nuts, ground (almonds and walnuts)

Blend all ingredients thoroughly. If mixture isn't stiff, add extra rice flour. Chill several hours or over night. Roll into balls the size of walnuts. Arrange on well oiled cookie sheet. Press flat with bottom of glass. Bake at 350 degrees F for 12 minutes

PRUNE NUT BREAD

2½ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons salad oil
½ cup milk
¾ cup prune juice
1 egg
1 cup finely chopped nuts
1 cup drained, chopped, cooked prunes

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease and flour 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pan or two 8¼ by 4½ by 2½ inch loaf pans. Measure all ingredients into large mixer bowl; beat on medium speed for ½ minute scraping side and bottom of bowl constantly. Pour into pan. Bake for 55 to 65 minutes or until wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean. Remove from pan; cool thoroughly before slicing.

MOLASSES STICKY BUSN

¾ cup milk
⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup margarine
1 teaspoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
⅓ cup lukewarm water
1 egg
4 cups sifted flour

Scald milk. Stir in sugar, ⅓ cup margarine, and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast on lukewarm water; stir to dissolve. Add yeast, egg, and one cup sifted flour to milk mixture. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed until smooth (about two minutes.)

Gradually add enough remaining flour to make a soft dough that leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth, for about eight to 10 minutes. Place in a lightly greased bowl; turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about one to 1½ hours. Meanwhile, combine ¼ cup molasses, ½ cup brown sugar, and ⅓ cup margarine. Heat until butter melts. Spread mixture in two greased nine inch round cake pans. Sprinkle with ½ cup walnuts or pecans in each pan.

Combine one cup brown sugar and one teaspoon ground cinnamon. Divide dough in half. Roll each half into a 12 by 8 inch rectangle. Sprinkle with half of brown sugar mixture. Roll up like a jelly roll; cut into 12 slices. Arrange in prepared pans. Let rise until doubled – about one hour. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Invert pans on plates and remove pans. Cool. Makes 24 rolls.

BAKED APPLE CRISP

¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter
¼ cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
6 cups sliced and pared tart apples
1½ teaspoons lemon juice

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Lightly grease 8 by 9 by 2 inch baking dish. Combine flour, cinnamon, salt, white and brown sugars into medium-sized bowl. With pastry blender, cut in butter to form a crumbly mixture. Stir in nuts and set aside. Toss apple slices with lemon juice and cloves in large bowl. Then turn into baking dish. Spoon crumbly mixture over apples covering them completely. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until apples are tender and top is nicely brown. Serve warm. Makes six to eight servings.

NUT/SEED MIX

Equal parts of:
Almonds (whole, unblanched)
Cashews (Raw)
Sunflower Seeds (Raw)
Raisins
Walnuts
Brazil Nuts
Raw Peanuts
Pumpkin Seeds

You can mix or match according to your own prefernce. Try using first four ingredients as a basic and go from there.

ELABORATE NUT MIX

⅔ cup peanut butter
⅔ cup sesame tahini
½ cup oil
7 cups sunflower seeds
4 cups pumpkin seeds
1 cup sesame seeds
6 cups soy nuts
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon ginger
1 ounce vanilla
½ cup honey
2½ cups raisins

First, mix together peanut butter, sesame tahini, and oil Then, mix together in a separate container, sunflower seeds, pumpkin seeds, sesame seeds, and soynuts. When these are mixed, combine the two groups and stir fry in large pan. Then, add a mixture made up of the cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger, vanilla, honey, and raisins Mix everything together in a bowl or pan. Serve warm or cold. Very more-ish

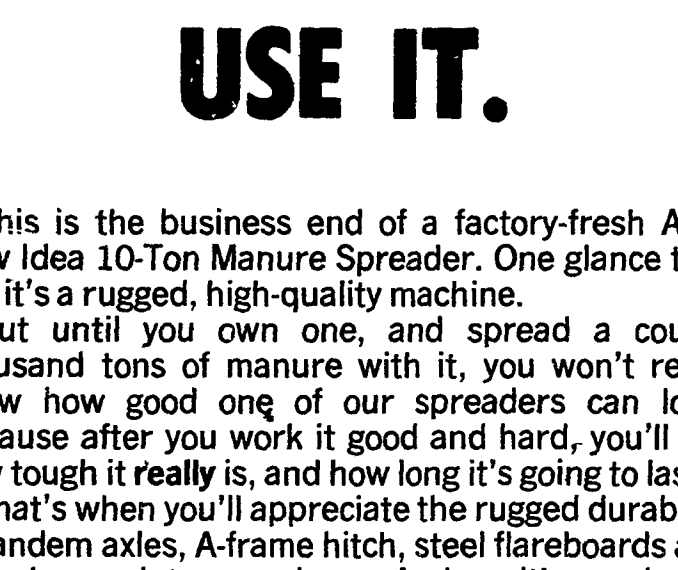
LOOKS EVEN BETTER AFTER YOU USE IT.

This is the business end of a factory-fresh Avco New Idea 10-Ton Manure Spreader. One glance tells you it's a rugged, high-quality machine.

But until you own one, and spread a couple thousand tons of manure with it, you won't really know how good one of our spreaders can look. Because after you work it good and hard, you'll see how tough it really is, and how long it's going to last.

That's when you'll appreciate the rugged durability of tandem axles, A-frame hitch, steel flareboards and extra-heavy-duty gearbox. And, with exclusive Penta-treated wood box and five unloading speeds, our spreader's bound to look better when you look for real value.

Especially after you've spread a few years' worth of manure with it.



Avco New Idea's a leader in spreaders for other materials, like fertilizer and seed. And they're just as tough as our big manure spreaders, for the same kind of long-life service.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

I suspected something strange as I answered the knock at the front door.

"I'm a government agent from the Bureau of American Nutrition, BAN for short," growled the sinister looking man with the beady eyes.

"BAN, huh?" I inquired. "That's what the government wants to do with everything these days, isn't it?"

"Don't be smart, lady," he snarled. "This is an official visit. I'm here to inspect your food supplies."

My heart sank to my stomach and I began nibbling my fingernails–until I remembered that fingernail nibbling had been banned.

Opening the door of our well-stocked refrigerator, he began making nasty big black checkmarks down his long list.

"Milk! Butter! Cheese! Eggs! Steak! Pork Chops! Bacon!.....Good night, lady, don't you know the government has decided that you should not eat this stuff?"

"Stuff-schmuff!" I argued. "Our family has always eaten these wholesome nutritious foods, and we're some of the healthiest people I know; we hardly ever even get cavities. Incidentally, why is it, do you suppose, that farm people who as a group have always consumed a diet like this, have an overall picture of better-than-average health?"

"That's out of my department. Check with the statistics people," the agent directed, dismissing my question.

"I'll tell you why, buster," I shouted, getting angrier by the moment. "It's because they get lots of exercise, chasing cows and keeping ahead of government agents, that's why! If the government really was concerned about people's health, they'd ban television so Mr. Average Citizen gets off his fat chair and outside in the fresh air. Or have they banned that, too?"

"Well, they are considering banning fresh air," admitted the bureaucrat. "A committee has been appointed and hearings scheduled to set up a new Bureau to set up guidelines for reduced breathing schedules."

"I guess that's logical," I conceded, now that water has been banned because a few people drown in it and cars are banned because drivers hit each other. "Ya' know, though, if the government really wanted to do some good for all us poor little guys out here, they'd ban bureaucratic agents."

"You'll be hearing from us," he warned as he slinked back out the door.

"Watch that patch of ice," I called out as he picked his way across the frozen yard. And I added, under my breath, "Make sure you don't miss it."

Boy, was I glad when the alarm went off and woke me up.

Q.
What herbicide combination really controls quackgrass?
A.
Princep plus AAtrex 4L.

Princep® plus AAtrex® 4L. It's the answer to corn acreage infested with quackgrass, because both Princep and AAtrex 4L control quackgrass. And that's pretty tough to beat.

Princep plus AAtrex 4L. It's less expensive than the combination you're probably using.

And now Princep is available in liquid form, too, to go along with Liquid AAtrex 4L.

Kendy's Kollumn

by Kendace Borry

"All right, sheep, rise and shine. This is lambing season and I'm not leaving this barn before I get a full report from everyone. I want to know who lambed since the last check, and any other major developments here in the stable area Hey, you wooly in the corner, are you listening?

Everybody up for exercise! This is no time for loafing. You really don't think I'm going to give you lazy creatures all your hay in here, do you? You know the routine. Grain in the barn, hay in the field. Otherwise I'm afraid some of you would never see the light of day

Now who is this little creature nibbling on my jeans? Yes, little lamby, what is your problem? Don't tell me your mother doesn't pay enough attention to you. If you'd stick closer to her side instead of running all over creation with the rest of that crew of miniature troublemakers, you wouldn't have to suddenly realize you were all alone and miles away from mama.

Please, no pushing and shoving, gang. There's enough feed for everyone Whoever invented the saying, gentle as a lamb, never saw this pack of moochers at feeding time. Take it easy, or I'm going to get trampled in the rush. And I do not appreciate little hoofprints up my back.

How are things here in the lambing pen? Everybody getting enough to eat? Heat lamps working satisfactory? Come on, ewes, I want to see you all try to qualify for mother of the year None of this slacking off or forgetting the children.

Now, let's see. I've done hay, grain, water, and head count, checked for new arrivals, and listened to everyone's complaints about the snow. Anything else? No? okay then, see you walking fleecies this afternoon. I don't want to hear of any misbehavior problems then either. Be good and keep off the ice."

Well, somebody has to keep the livestock in order, don't they?

Junior Cooking Edition

This week's Junior Cooking Edition features recipes that are made with either a fruit or vegetable used as an ingredient. Offered for you to try is carrot salad, apple c 'offee cake, refriger date cookies, gelat esert (made with carrots), carrot cake, instant pumpkin pie, pineapple dessert, and Roy's fruit cocktail cake.

Keep those recipes coming to: Lancaster Farming, Junior Cooking Edition, Box 366, Lititz, Pa., 17543. Please include your name, age, address, and phone number, and be sure your recipe is complete with directions and a list of ingredients.

CARROT SALAD

2 pounds carrots
1 can tomato soup
1 cup granulated sugar
¼ cup vinegar
1 cup vegetable oil
1½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon mustard
sweet onions
1 red pepper
1 green pepper

Slice and cook carrots until barely done. Cool. Marinate remaining ingredients. Beat with egg beater until slightly thickened. Add carrots. Slice sweet onions in rings, add to mixture. Cut one green pepper and red pepper in strips and add to carrots. Let stand in refrigerator for 24 hours.

xxx

APPLE CHIP COFFEE CAKE

1 egg
½ cup milk
¼ cup vegetable oil or melted shortening
1½ cup sifted flour
½ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup finely chopped pared apple

Streusel Topping

2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons butter

Heat oven to 400°F. In mixing bowl, add beaten egg, milk, and melted shortening. Sift all dry ingredients into bowl, add liquid ingredients. Stir all ingredients until moist. Avoid beating. Add apple to mixture. Spread batter in a greased 9 inch square pan. Sprinkle with a streusel topping. Bake 25 to 30 minutes.

To make streusel topping, blend ingredients until crumbly.

xxx

REFRIGERATOR DATE COOKIES

½ cup butter
¾ cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ pound dates (chopped)
½ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cream butter and add brown sugar and one-half cup white sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition. Mix and sift all dry ingredients and add. Blend thoroughly. Add vanilla. Make up into a ball and chill in refrigerator.

Combine dates, the remaining ¼ cup sugar, water and lemon juice, and cook until thick. Cool. Then remove dough from refrigerator, divide dough into two parts and roll out to ¼ inch thickness: spread with date filling, and roll up like a jelly roll. Return to refrigerator and chill thoroughly. Then slice ¼ inch thick and bake in a moderately hot oven until done.

GELATIN DESSERT

1 small box lime or orange gelatin
1¼ cups grated carrots
1 can crushed pineapple (minus the juice)

Mix gelatin as directed on box. Pineapple juice can be used in place of water, if desired. Add carrots and pineapple to mixture, mix well. Refrigerate until serving.

CARROT CAKE

3 cups grated raw carrots
1½ cups vegetable oil
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups granulated sugar
2 cups flour
4 eggs

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Pou into a greased and floured 9 x 13 inch pan and bake at 350°F. for about 45 minutes. Cake can be frosted with a cream cheese icing.

Ladies Have You Heard

By Doris Thomas
Lancaster Home Economist

READY FOR A FINANCIAL EMERGENCY?

It seems that financial planning is just like a New Year's resolution Everyone talks about doing something about it, but most of us never do. And putting this off can hurt in times of family emergencies

How would your family manage financially . . if they were suddenly left alone? Here are some ideas that can make things easier later on. Perhaps they'll work for you.

First of all, seek the help of a professional – like a financial adviser, bank manager, stockbroker, insurance agent or mutual fund representative They're familiar with the trust and estate laws. They'll check your family financial goals and see what you can do towards meeting them.

Second, a separate savings or checking account should be kept by wives. This permits a family to pay daily expenses immediately after a husband's death. Social Security and other benefits can take awhile to arrive.

Third, prepare a will now. That goes for both wives and husbands. Wills aren't only for the wealthy or the elderly. A will provides that your property will go to the people you want to receive it. Even if you only have a savings account or some jewelry, that's considered property, you need a will.

Fourth, keep all records and investments up-to-date. Family circumstances and employment changes will affect financial plans

And fifth, write down a location list Where are insurance policies, bank books, tax returns, stock certificates kept? A family emergency is no time for more worries.

Of course, the best advice is to carry out these steps right now. It's not just a husband's responsibility to see that his wife is taken care of. It's a job that should be shared. A woman should plan for her own financial security too.

DECORATING WITH HOUSE PLANTS

Plants provide a simple economical way to solve interior decorating problems. They add texture and color, soften the harsh lines of interiors and provide a fresh atmosphere. You can also use them as decorative accessories or as unusual or dramatic window and wall treatments – whether you hang them from the ceiling or put them on a table or shelf.

The following tips are on using plants to solve some difficult decorating problems:

- Use plants to hide architectural problems such as unsightly radiators and spaces where furniture won't fit.
- Use plants to separate a large room into different activity areas.
- Use plants in a planter to provide additional wall space for placing furniture.
- Use a grouping of plants along an end wall to visually change the shape of a long narrow room.
- Use plants to add interest to an empty corner.
- Use plants to decorate windows when basic treatments won't work because of size or location.

4-H club

MANHEIM – The first meeting of 1978 of the Boots and Saddles 4-H Horse and Pony Club was held on February 10 at the Farm and Home Center. The following members were elected to office: President, Lashon Bussell; vice president, Doug Fellenbaum; secretary, Lori Sammons; treusurer, Sandy Hamilton; and news reporters, Nichole Brewer, Pam Sammons, and Lashon Bussell.

Other business discussed was the 4-H Expo at Park City to be held from March 15 to the 18, and the club's Open Horse Show to be held on April 22 at the Lower Hopewell Horse Center. Committees were picked for these activities.

The next meeting will be held on March 10 at the Hempfield High School.

Variety offered in seed catalogs

MEDIA – Gardeners who take their vegetable growing seriously and like to experiment with a wide variety of vegetables will have a larger choice if they buy their seed from a catalog rather than a seed display rack. The seed racks are usually stocked with the most popular varieties for quick sale and not the unusual varieties. Catalogs also supply important information such as variety descriptions, disease resistance, and number of days to maturity which should be read very carefully before selections are made.

Disease resistant varieties are marked by code letters. A cucumber with an SR means this variety is "scab resistant." A VF indicates a given tomato variety is resistant to Verticillium and Fusarium wilts. However, not all vegetables will be coded since it has not been possible for plant breeders to transfer resistance to disease to every kind of vegetable.

The number of days to maturity indicates the approximate time fruit will ripen and the difference between varieties. This number should be used as a guide when planning the garden. Weather conditions play an important role in determining maturity. For example, the catalog lists "Little Marvel" peas as a 62-day variety. Because of the cold spring in 1976 this variety required 85 days to produce a crop.

According to experts, gardeners who plan to extend their growing season into the fall by successive planting should order all the seed they need in the Spring of the year when the supply is plentiful. The seed supply is usually exhausted by late June. Most seedsmen are trustworthy and offer high-quality products. However, gardeners should realize that variety descriptions usually stress the good points about the vegetables that are offered. Many seed catalogs are free for the asking. It is not unreasonable for the seedsmen to expect an order in return for their complementary copies.

All-American vegetable winners named

MEDIA – Home gardeners interested in the latest vegetable varieties and hybrids should consider the All-America winners for 1978, say experts. These new vegetable varieties, submitted to the All-America Selection Committee by plant breeders, are tested by seed companies, agricultural experiment stations, and private horticultural organizations throughout the country and evaluated for productivity, quality, resistance to disease, color and plant type. The three award-winning vegetable varieties for 1978 have been tested in Pennsylvania for their suitability for our gardens and they are as follows:

Floramerica hybrid tomato - This tomato was developed in Florida and grows four to five feet tall, produces fruit three and one-half to four inches in diameter and weighs between six to 12 ounces. The flavor is good and the flesh is solid. This hybrid will probably do best grown in a wire cage (wire fencing formed in a cylinder about two feet in diameter and three to four feet high). However, it also produces well grown on the ground. The Floramerica is resistant to some diseases and tolerant of others and should prove to be a good midseason tomato for Pennsylvania gardens.

Liberty cucumber - This hybrid is best for making pickles. The fruit is blocky and has good resistance to two devastating diseases - scab and cucumber mosaic. The plant spreads three to five feet and takes about 54 days to produce the first fruit. Gardeners who keep their plants growing vigorously can expect six to eight harvests.

Sweet Favorite Watermelon - Although this hybrid proved to be a superior melon when tested in other parts of the country, it did not do well in the test plots in nearby N.J. and is not recommended. However, gardeners should keep in mind that testing in one locations is not indicative of the real potential of this watermelon. Weather conditions, different locations and various types of soil will alter results. The fruit weighs about 20 lbs. and the vines are a little too long for small gardens.

the city and county of Lancaster. The aim of the Association, according to Mrs. Hoeninger is "to help people stay in their own home as much as possible."

Mrs. Hoeinger also stressed that anyone can refer a person to the agency, and a home visit will be made to determine the extent of services need by the individual. She noted that the nurses are trained to assist people in learning what resources are avilable to help them in their needs.

According to Mrs. Hoeinger many services are provided by home health aides who are trained by the nurses to take over where professional nursing care is not needed.

Since 1975 the agency has been providing homemaker service to those over 60 years of age through a contract with the Office of the Aging. These services include light housekeeping, grocery shopping, cooking and other household services.

It was decided to send a donation to the Visiting Nurse Association.

In other business, President Mrs. E. Clair Witmer announced that the Spring Rally will be held May 17 at the Hershey Convention Center, hosted by the Lebanon County Society of Farm Women.

Society 22 agreed to continue to support a child through the Christian Childrens Fund.

The next meeting will be held March 14 at the Willow Street United Church of Christ at 1 p.m. Society 11 will be entertained and the speaker will be Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, of the Lancaster County League of Women Voters.

York Co. Society 1

York County Farm Women Society 1 met recently at the home of Mrs. Alverta O'Neal. Twelve members and one visitor attended.

Mrs. Pauline Rishel, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Several upcoming activities were announced. Spring Rally will be held May 17 at the Hershey Convention Hall. On May 19 and 20, the York Hospital Fete will be held at the Hork-Fairgrounds. The County Farm Women picnic will be July 26.

The next meeting of the group will be on March 1, at the home of Mrs. Ethel Baker, York. At this time, the society will celebrate its 48th birthday, anniversary.

York Co. Society 12

The first meeting of 1978 was held recently by York County Farm Women Society 12 at the home of Mrs. Helena Stover, York. Sixteen members and their visitors attended.

President Janet Kohler conducted the business meeting. It was decided to contribute $15 to the March of Dimes and $10 to the Conservation Society of York County.

Mrs Thomas Warner, one of the oldest members of the society, at 90 years of age, was given a pendant by the Pa. Society of Farm Women.

Program for the meeting was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boyer, York, who displayed and talked of their collection of crosses from around the world.

The February 28 meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Romaine Shelly.

York Co. Society 15

York County Society 15 met recently at the York Bank, Shiloh. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Goldie Emig.

A report was given by Ethel Maul and Violet Hanlocken on the State Farm Women's convention. Valentines were exchanged by all the ladies.

Special guests at the meeting was Mr. and Mrs. Luther Miller, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Miller is a member of the society.

The next meeting of the group will be held February 27 at the home of Dolly Fink, York.

Quilting taught in York

UNIVERSITY PARK — While you were snowed in the last month, did you wish you had a needlework project started? Quilting can be a creative pastime, excellent for those snowbound days. You can learn a variety of quilting techniques in the quilting classes being sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Penn State University. Two classes are scheduled for March 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, and April 5 at 9:30-11:30 a.m. or 12:30-2:30 p.m. at the Farm Credit Building, 3301 East Market St. York. Techniques of patchwork, applique, and lap quilting or traditional quilting, and the cathredal quilt will be taught.

For information on registration contact the Extension Office in the York County Court House.

Conestoga
a new name in alfalfa that delivers the goods.

Like the famous Conestoga wagon that opened the West, there's a new alfalfa—Conestoga—that "delivers the goods" in spite of today's rough and intensive alfalfa crop management.

No wonder Conestoga Alfalfa had the largest first-year sales in Hoffman history. It has shown high-yield potential under eastern conditions. Vigorous first-year growth Early maturing Comes back quickly after cutting Conestoga has a high level of Anthracnose and wilt resistance to help maintain long-lasting stands. Wayne Feeds rewards J. Balmer

CHICAGO, Ill. – James Balmer of Manheim was one of nearly 160 Wayne feed dealers and their wives who recently attended the Allied Mills 1978 President's Marketing Council business seminar at Mullet Bay, St. Maarten, Netherlands Antilles. Each dealer was presented with a plaque for outstanding marketing service during the past year.

Balmer operates Balmer's Wholesale Specialty Feeds in Manheim. He and his wife were recognized by Wayne Feeds for their contributions to livestock and poultry production in Lancaster County.

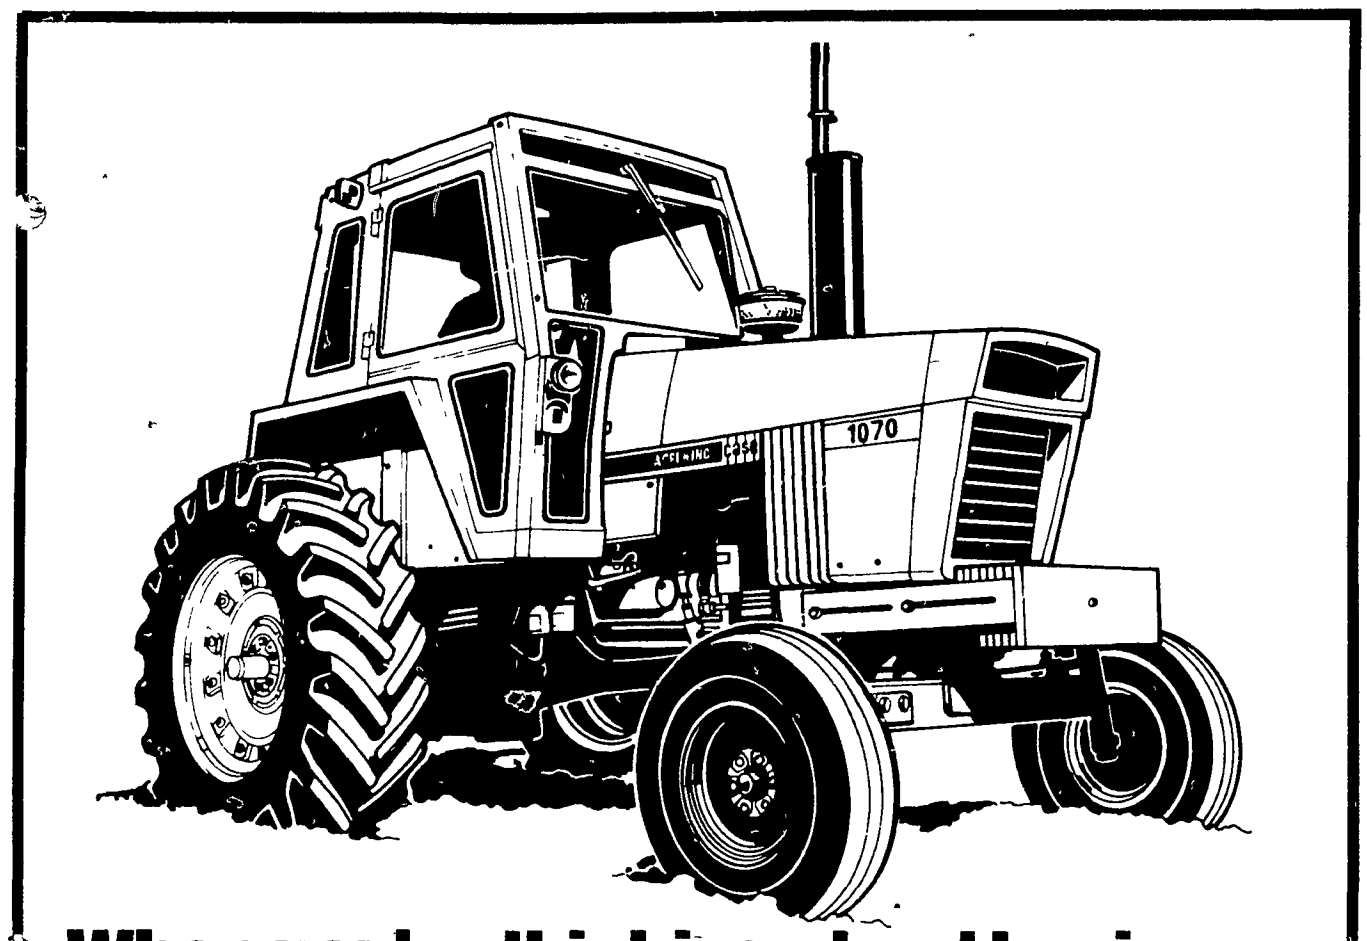
Susquehanna water regulations up for discussion next month

LANCASTER – Irrigation water needs in Lancaster County will be the subject of a dinner meeting, scheduled for March 8 at the Good 'n Plenty Restaurant in Smoketown. Sponsoring the meeting is the Lancaster Conservation District. Dinner is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. with ·discussions following.

Amos Funk

According to Amos Funk, Irrigation Committee chairman, Pennsylvania is developing a State Water Plan. The Lancaster Conservation District believes "it is most important to have included in that plan sufficient water for all agricultural use, including adequate water to irrigate those crops on which irrigation can be used effectively."

The present regulation on this matter, according to Pennsylvania Department of Agriculturer Secretary Kent Shelhamer "would make irrigation in the Susquehanna River basin economically infeasible, if enforced. We need to have a clarification on this regulation," he says.



When you're thinking about buying...
THINK ABOUT SELLING

It pays to invest in tractors that hold their value Figures in the Spring 1977 Tractor Pricing Guide showed that a used 1976 Case 1070 returned a higher percentage of original new price* than did corresponding 1976 models of two major competitors That should tell you something!

Why? Because of Case built, custom-matched power train components, great fuel economy, superior drawbar rating and a 12-speed range powershift with 3 on-the-go speeds in each of 4 ranges Value that endures.

By JOANNE SPAHR

SCHAEFFERSTOWN — Holding their traditional yearly banquet, the Lebanon County 4-H livestock club awarded 29 trophies to its top members on Tuesday evening at the Schaefferstown Fire Hall, here. One hundred-fifty members, leaders, and guests arrived to take part in this dinner partially funded by the National Central Bank.

Of the 29 trophies handed out to the teenagers, one individual earned seven. Jay Bomgardner, Annville R3, the president of the club, showed the grand champion Lebanon Fair roundup hog, the reserve grand champion Fall roundup hog, as well as the champion buddy steer at the Fall beef roundup. In addition, he earned both swine showmanship honors for the Summer and Fall shows and was selected to take a beef and swine project to the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January.

Other multiple trophy winners included Thomas Arnold, Lebanon R7, and Scott Eckenrode, Rexmont, who garnered four awards apiece.

Arnold earned laurels for showing the grand champion

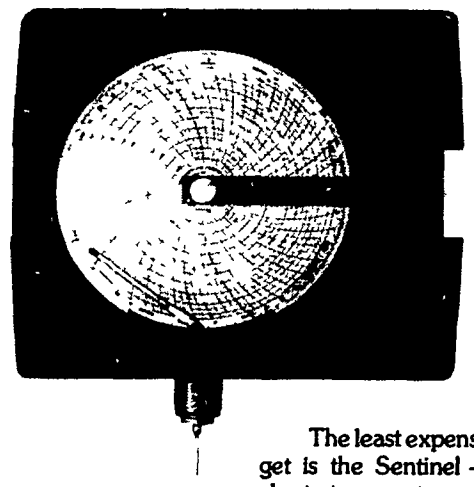
WHO'S MINDING THE MILK?



If you depend upon your milk check for a living, who's minding your milk?

The least expensive, one-shot insurance you can get is the Sentinel — the 10-inch recorder which charts temperature of your milk-cooling or holding tank. Here's what it provides:

- Permanent proof that proper temperature was maintained.
- Record of cooling equipment efficiency.
- Cleaning temperature recording on the same chart.

The Sentinel is also available with provision for actuating an alarm or warning light if pre-set temperature is exceeded.

Remember — if it prevents the loss of only one tank of product, the Sentinel has paid for itself. It minds your milk.

Eckenrode took most of his glories in sheep projects, earning the grand champion ram, champion pair, and champion pen titles. A swine showman, as well, in December Eckenrode was selected as one of four club members to take his hog to Farm Show.

Bonnie Arnold, Lebanon R7, and Julie Bow, Annville R1, shared the spotlight, earning two trophies, apiece. In December Miss Arnold showed a Charolais/Angus crossbred to the beef title of the Fall roundup. At that roundup, she was also chosen to take her hogs to the Farm Show.

Miss Bow earned both of her awards with her sheep projects. In that division she showed the grand champion ewe and was named the champion fitter. Other honors in the sheep division went to Miss Bow's sister Melanie for champion showman; Cathy McFeaters, for reserve grand champion ram; and Nicole Emrich, for reserve champion ewe.

In the swine division, the awards were rounded out when trophies went to Jodi Kreider, Prescott Road, Lebanon, for champion fitter; Michael Brajkovich, Grantville R1, for champion Fair hog fitter; and Thomas Seaman, Grantville R1, for showing the reserve grand champion Fair hog.

Danita Layser, Myerstown R1, garnered two awards at Tuesday's banquet for the reserve grand champion steer and champion fitter of the beef dividion. Other beef honors went to Patric Gerdes, Lebanon; and Jed Hoffer, Lebanon R1, for Farm Show steer selections.

Lebanon Valley National Bank and Mark C. Hershey, Lebanon R5, were also awarded trophies for purchasing the grand champion animals of the various roundups.

Prior to the awards ceremony Darvin Boyd, director of agri-finance for National Central Bank addressed the assembled group, acknowledging that National Central will be sponsoring the 4-H program in Lebanon County at the cost of $1200 for the fiscal year.

NEW YORK, N.Y. – A Shillington, Pa., meat plant operator was found guilty Feb. 2 in the U.S. District Court in Reading, Pa., of assaulting three federal inspection officials with a deadly weapon and forcibly interfering with official inspection at his plant.

Harvey Nathan, owner of Salsburg Quality Meats, Inc., faces up to 10 years in jail and fines of up to $10,000 for chasing a compliance officer and two meat inspectors from his plant with a loaded rifle as they attempted to conduct official inspection last Aug. 10. Federal Judge E. Mac Troutman delayed sentencing until a pre-sentence probation report is prepared on Nathan, who is now free on a $10,000 bond.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman said this is the second time action has been taken by the USDA against the same plant for physical violence involving Food Safety and Quality Service officials. Meat grading services were withdrawn from the plant until May 5, in an administrative action on Nov. 26, 1977. Ms. Foreman said at that time that physical violence or gross verbal abuse of federal personnel attempting to carry out their official duties would not be tolerated.

Jan. food baskets cost down

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania's average retail food basket cost the consumer slightly less in January than in December, according to the monthly Food Basket Survey Report released today by State Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer.

The statewide average of 14 food products sampled in rural and urban stores was $10.49 in January, an eight cent decrease from December's average retail cost of $10.57. This is a continuation of a downward trend in food prices in the commonwealth which began in July 1977.

Shelhamer said that consumers were benefitting from lower food prices, but "our farmers are still losing money to inflation and the marketing spread. While our farmers are getting two per cent more for their crops than last January, they are paying five per cent more in production expenses. And the farm-retail marketing spread continues to widen. Farmers are receiving only 38 per cent of the food dollar."

The survey is conducted by the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Rural Affairs. Shelhamer noted that the survey was intended only to provide an on-going indicator of trends in food prices. Consumer coordinators in six agricultural regions of the commonwealth visit rural and urban stores and record storebrand and namebrand prices for the same list of 14 regularly purchased commodities. The survey has been in operation since August 1974.

The average food basket price in January was highest in the southwestern region of the state at $10.95. Lowest prices in the state were recorded at $9.75 in the southeast central region of the state. Regional averages were generally lower in January as five regions showed declines in the food basket average. Variations in the food basket cost ranged from a ten-cent increase in the northeast region to a 47-cent decrease in the southeast central section.

The survey showed that rural food shoppers paid an average of three per cent more for the sample food items than their urban counterparts. The food basket cost an average of $10.40 in urban stores compared to $10.80 in rural stores.

The spread between namebrand and storebrand products declined from 13 per cent in December to 12 per cent in January. A comparison of eight of the 14 food basket items showed the average price of storebrand items to be $6.88 while the same namebrand items cost the consumer $7.83. December figures had shown a $1.05 difference between storebrand and namebrand varieties.

The items which declined in prices were potatoes, from 11 to 10 cents a pound; chicken, from 58 to 57 cents pound; eggs, from 82 to 79 cents a dozen large eggs; and American cheese, from $1.66 to $1.62 a pound.

Cabbage led price increases, going from 19 to 22 cents a pound. Fresh pears at 46 cents, sugar at 23 cents and ground beef at 97 cents, all increased one cent per pound.

Canned peaches, canned corn, shortening, coffee, bread and cornflakes all remained about the same in price during January.

New revolving credit plan available to farmers by CNB

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Farm and Power Equipment Association and Commonwealth National Bank, Harrisburg, have introduced a revolving credit plan to service the account receivable needs of the association's member merchants and their agricultural customers.

Believed to be the first of its type in Pennsylvania, the plan is known as PACE which stands for Pennsylvania Association Credit Exchange. PACE is available to individual farm or farming related customers of the Association's member merchants throughout Pennsylvania.

The PACE plan is owned and operated by Commonwealth National Bank which will process the credit transactions through its Master Charge department in Harrisburg. Marketing of PACE is being coordinated by the Association, its member merchants, and the bank.

Although quite similar to other revolving credit plans, PACE was specifically developed by Commonwealth National Bank and the Association to relieve the Association's member merchants of individual credit matters. In essence, the merchants are discontinuing their in-house credit programs and placing charge purchases through the PACE plan and Commonwealth National Bank.

The two main differences between PACE and other revolving credit plans are: (a) the farmer designates Association member merchants with whom he does business to keep PACE card on file for him to use when making a charge purchase at the merchant; and (b) the repayments are based on a 12-month schedule instead of 36 months as for most consumer revolving credit card plans. These provisions were designed to meet specific credit needs of farmers.

PACE is not intended for the purchase of large equipment but for the everyday type of purchasing needs of farm and farming related customers.

As of mid-February, nearly 90 of the Association's member merchants across Pennsylvania had signed up as PACE merchants.

WANTED:

tractor dealers to make and sell profit!

Case Franchises Available In The Reading & Everett, Pa. Areas.

When you're selling farm machinery, your customers rightfully demand products that will turn them a profit And being a businessman, you in turn expect a profit from your services

You both profit with a Case tractor franchise As a Tractor Specialist, you will sell 14 sizes of farm tractors and a line of heavy-duty tillage tools Period You needn't scatter your selling power over the full range of farm machinery Your service shop is expert on one commodity farm power Your parts inventory is cleaner and more financially manageable Your used equipment lot consists largely of faster moving used tractors

Light construction power too if the Case utility tractor franchise is available in your territory Call or write us We'll be glad to outline the full potential of a Case franchise in your area

YEAR ROUND MARKETING PAYS OFF

Besides speeding harvest by eliminating some dependence on other people our farm storage pays its way in higher prices. Table shows that if you had sold your crop in November every year, you would have received the lowest price of the year 13 out of 27 years. Highest prices were heavily concentrated in May through September and not once did lowest price of the year fall during this 5 month period!

HOW ABOUT A SWAP?

In the boxes on the left are machines we have that you might be looking for, and the corresponding boxes on the right have the items that we're looking for in exchange. Phone or write us with details of your deal. We can arrange trucking.

WE HAVE THESE ITEMS	WE NEED THESE ITEMS
1940 Farmall H, inoperative, but good for salvage. One excellent rear tire.	John Deere "B", "A", or "40" tractor.
1961 Farmall "460" diesel fully rebuilt engine & injection pump, fast hitch, tires about 50%.	JD 630 or 3010 tractor, especially utility type.
AC "D14" with loader, runs good, power steering, decent tires.	JD 430, 435 or 1010 tractor.
1957 Farmall "350" tractor, fast hitch, Ind. PTO, fair.	JD 420, 430 or 530 tractor.
5 btm. automatic reset, Ford #142 plow, spring type. Very good condition.	JD 4 btm. #345 or #350 auto-reset plow, or JD tractor.
JD Grain Drill, #FB137, with grass seeder, on rubber. Generally good, but needs some minor repairs.	JD "M" tractor or Brillion 8' cultipacker-seeder, or 3 btm. JD pull type plow.
Case #950 self-propelled windrower, 10' cut, in poor condition, but worth repair.	JD 24T Baler, 894 or 640 side rake, or other JD equipment.
NEW John Deere #100 Stack wagon.	Late series (1970-71-72) JD 3020 or 2030 diesel tractor must be in top condition.

Master Mix complete hog feeds, also "AAA rated."

Master Mix complete feeds are also formulated to the Available Amino Acid concept, proven in feeding trials with 10,000 hogs. These high potency feeds produce pigs with less back fat—an important factor to producers marketing on a grade and yield basis.

AAA Pig Grower.™ Feed from 50 lbs. to 150 lbs.

AAA Swine Finisher.™ Feed from 150 lbs. to market weight.

Primer 1™ Baby Pig Pre-Starter. Supplements sow's milk with energy, rather than duplicating the protein/energy in sow's milk. Promotes early feed consumption that results in heavier pigs at weaning. Lowers cost of gain. Produces more uniform litters. Also reduces baby pig scours. Mini pellet form was preferred in tests with baby pigs 4 to 1 over larger sizes. Feed while pigs are nursing starting at 5-7 days until weaning or until 6 weeks old.

Primer 2 Pig Starter. Also in preferred mini pellet size. Capitalizes on early growth foundation provided by Primer 1. Encourages further growth and development. Feed from weaning to 50 lbs. body weight.

AAA Gest-Aid.™ Formulated for the breeding herd to provide proper nutrition to gilts, sows and boars during their reproductive life. Controlled energy levels are seasonally varied to meet energy needs of the breeding cycle. Feed 4 lbs. per head per day 11 days after breeding to one month prior to farrowing. Then increase to 6 lbs. Feed 6 lbs. until one week prior to farrowing.

AAA Lact-Aid.™ Feed 6 lbs. per head per day starting 7 days before farrowing and during lactation. After farrowing, gradually increase to full feed for remainder of lactation. Feed 6 lbs. daily 7 days prior to and until 10 days after breeding.

Ask your feed dealer if your present rations are formulated to the AAA concept. If not, it will pay you in many ways to investigate all Master Mix swine feeds.

IFYE tells of New Years ritual in Swaziland

Editor's Note: The following newsletter was prepared by Mark M. Wilson, Biglerville R1. Wilson is spending one year in Swaziland in the International 4-H Youth exchange program as part of the youth development project.

During December and January each year the most sacred of the Swazi ceremonies, the Incwala, is performed. The Incwala, or Ceremony of Kingship, renews the strength of King Sobhuza II, King of Swaziland, and prepares the nation to meet the new year.

The ceremony is divided into the Little Incwala, which lasts two days, and the Big Incwala, which lasts six days. In the interim period between the Big and Little Incwala, sacred songs of the Little Incwala are performed in certain villages throughout the country.

At the new moon of the month before the Incwala the "People of the Sea" set out for the seashore near Maputo, Mozambique, to collect foam from the wavetops. They also collect water from the major rivers and dig sacred plants from the Lubombo Mountains to strengthen and purify the king. From all strangers who cross their path they demand a small fine which is burnt on the last day of the Incwala ceremony.

While I was in the Iubombe Mountains, I encountered one of the "People of the Sea". Luckily, I was with one of the Swazis who translated his demand of 10 cents. I gave him 10 cents and he continued on his way to the Indian Ocean.

The Little Incwala begins when the sun reaches its southern summer solstice and the moon is dark. Sacred songs and dances are performed in the open cattle pen at the royal residence. At dawn of the second day the ceremony is repeated. Afterwards, warriors go to weed the queen mother's garden (mother of the king), for which service they are rewarded with a feast of meat. The Little Incwala is over, and the men return to their homes until the moon is full.

The Big Incwala begins on the night of the full moon, December 26th this year. Youths from all over Swaziland meet and are sent to cut branches from a magic tree with which to enclose the king's sanctuary. As the full moon rises, each boy cuts the largest branch he can carry and returns to the royal residence at Lobamba. The youths are expected to be pure, and it is said that the leaves will wither if cut by anyone who has made a girl pregnant or violated the moral code.

I watched the moon rise that night of December 26th. It was a beautifully clear night, and it seemed as if the moon shone brighter than normal with a mystical sort of radiance. Or was I just imagining it?

On the morning of the second day, the branches are placed around the king's sanctuary.

On the third day the youths catch a specially selected black bull, throw it to the ground, and kill it with their bare hands. Parts of the animal are used for royal medicines, and the remainder is used as an offering to the ancestors.

The main Incwala ceremony takes place on the fourth day in the royal cattle pen. Visitors are allowed to attend this climax of the Incwala ceremony, but pictures are not permitted to be taken except by special permit, and women are prohibited from wearing slacks. Men must enter by the front entrance and women by the rear entrance.

The ceremony begins in the afternoon with the warriors dancing, dressed in full Incwala costumes – oxen tails, leapard skins and bird feathered headdresses – with the king in their midst. Towards sunset the king leaves, and all members of the royal Dlamini clan and all foreigners (seen as potential enemies) are ordered from the cattle pen.

The king re-emerges clothed in a fantastic costume of green grass, a headdress of large black plumes and a belt of silver monkey skin. He dances a dance that it is said only a king can improvise. The king eats part of a pumpkin and tosses the remainder to his warriors. This is a sign that the new crops may be eaten by everyone. Before this time it is forbidden to eat certain crops.

The next day is a day of seclusion and no physical activity.

On the last day a ritual fire is lit and objects used throughout the ceremony, and which represent the old year, are burned. I wonder if my 10 cents were there ...

Rain must fall to put out the flames, or the people fear a year of misfortune. This year it rained for the next seven days.

'77 FCS lending tops $38 billion

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The cooperative Farm Credit System loaned more than $38 billion to farmers and their cooperatives during 1977 and had nearly $42 billion in loans outstanding at the end of that year, Donald E. Wilkinson, governor, Farm Credit Administration, reported today.

Total money loaned during 1977 was up 11.1 per cent from 1976; and loans outstanding at year-end, up 13.4 per cent, Wilkinson said.

While the $38.5 billion loaned during 1977 and the $41.7 billion outstanding at year-end are records for the Farm Credit System, the rates of increase both in lending volume and loans outstanding were less than a year before.

Total Farm Credit System lending during 1976 was up 15.0 per cent over 1975; loans outstanding at year-end were up 16.2 per cent.

Volume of long-term mortgage lending by Federal Land Banks increased dramatically during 1977; their loans outstanding at year-end were up by a slightly higher percentage than the year before. But short- and intermediate-term lending and loans outstanding of Production Credit Associations had smaller percentage increases than the year before; as did loans to farmer cooperatives by Banks for Cooperatives.

Wilkinson attributed the increased Federal Land Bank lending to more land sales at higher prices and a big jump in refinancing. PCA lending increased at a slower rate mainly because farmers bought less machinery and equipment; that of BCs, mainly because farmers stored more grain on their farms.

Most of the System's lending is to farmers and ranchers and farmer cooperatives. Under the Farm Credit Act of 1971, units of the System now also finance commercial fishermen, private businesses providing services to farmers, and nonfarm single-family rural housing.

While some companies look for ways to build bins cheaper, we find ways to build bins better. Bins that will last longer, look nicer and protect grain better.

That's why we use only prime high-tensile steel. And precision form and punch each piece.

No, we won't cut corners. Because in the long run, cutting corners would just cost you more money.

Lancaster Co. Extension elects board members

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

"The greatest challenge facing us today is restoring our homes to their rightful place of respect, honor and responsibility in the community." Speaking to the 180 persons attending the 65th annual meeting of the Lancaster County Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Association, the Rev. William Miller, Myerstown, said, "Unless we get our homes in order our future is not too bright."

Calling the home the basic structure of any civilization and the oldest institution we have, Miller said, "The saying is true, 'as the home goes so goes the nation.' " Miller is chaplain for Quaker Alloy Casting Company and served 15 years in the parish ministry of the United Methodist Church.

"We have a duty and responsibility to our children. Although we live in a materialistic and affluent world, your children do not want material things. Your children want your time, patience, leadership and understanding. Our children are dependent on us to train them as best we can. We have a responsibility today to save our homes."

Miller said he is bothered by the attitude of pessimism and cynicism which is prevalent, with people feeling that nothing is worthwhile and are therefore only interested in themselves.

In comparing American society with the society of Rome described in Gibbon's book The Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire, Miller gave statistics which show that 81 million people are living off the tax dollars paid by 70 million people. He noted, "In 1929 it took 52 minutes out of an eight hour day to pay taxes. Today it takes two hours and 39 minutes. Perhaps our government is costing too much, and perhaps it is too big."

Miller noted that the pleasure seekers of the Roman empire enjoyed the "circuses" in the Coliseum.

"Rome had its circus and we have our television," he said. "We are pleasure seekers." Citing a study by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Miller said that the alcohol problem in this country costs $25 billion annually, and according to information released by Senator John Heinz, the United States spends more money on pornography in a year than the government spends on elementary and secondary education. Pornography is a $2 billion industry, and is growing, Miller said.

The challenge of restoring homes to respect is the most important one facing us today, he reminded his audience. "If the home fails, the nation fails."

In the business meeting, five new members were elected to serve three year terms on the Board of Directors. They are: Mrs. Albert Fry, Manheim R7; Mrs. Jesse Balmer, Lititz R4; J. Robert Kindig, Conestoga R1; Kenneth Meck, Beaver Valley Pike, Willow Street; and Carlton P. Groff, Kirkwood.

President Mark Bushong, who himself will retire from the Board, thanked those outgoing members who have fulfilled their terms. They include: Mrs. Harold Rodman, Columbia R2; Mrs. Mark Nestleroth, Manheim R5; Herbert Myer, Lampeter; and Floyd Hershey, Kirkwood.

In a special slide presentation, County Agent Max Smith honored Lancaster County's 1978 Master Farmer Donald Hershey, Manheim R6. Hershey is the seventeenth Master Farmer from Lancaster County in the 50 years the program has been operating, Smith said. The program showed the Hershey family in their work on the farm, which is a diversified operation including 90 Holsteins, 31,000 layers, and a steer and hog feeding operation.

Marion R. Deppen, capital region Extension administrator, commended the Lancaster County extension staff for its programs but brought news of budget woes from Penn States. Deppen noted that 30 positions have been cut back throughout Pennsylvania in county work, and said that the Extension program will be operating under the same budget for the current fiscal year. The delay in passing appropriations cost Penn State $456,000 in interest, and since the appropriation was only partial when finally passed, the total interest payments could come to $600,000 or $700,000. Despite budget cutbacks, Deppen said the Extension service will continue to meet the needs of the people as best as they can.

Home Economist Aggie Arnold-Norman and Extension Agent Arnold G. Lueck presented reports on the work of the county Extension staff. Aggie described the total family living program offered by the home economics staff as well as the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program.

Chaplain William Miller, Myerstown

Lueck discussed traditional agricultural programs but stressed that the extension service is involved in land use planning, farm safety and energy conservation. He also led the audience in a stirring rendition of "Happy Anniversary" to the Extension service's 65th year of service to Lancaster countians.

Instrumental selections were provided by the Warwick High School Ensemble directed by Dale Weller, and piano selections during the banquet were played by Yvonne Eshelman.

FDA wants your comments on medicated animal feeds

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration announced recently that three public hearings on its recent proposed restrictions on penicillin and tetracycline drugs would be held to receive grass-roots information on the effects of the proposal. The hearings will be held in Ames, Iowa; Raleigh, N.C.; and Dallas, Tex.

FDA proposes that animal feed premixes containing penicillin and tetracycline be limited to feed mills that hold approved medicated feed applications which permit the mills to manufacture such medicated feeds, and to restrict further distribution of such feeds to producers of livestock and poultry subject to the order of a licensed veterinarian. Interested parties will have until April 20 to file comments on the proposal.

The three aforementioned hearings will be held as follows: March 3 at Iowa State University, Ames; March 30 at North Carolina State University, Raleigh; and on April 6 at the Northpark Inn, Dallas, Tex. Each of the hearings will begin at 9 a.m. and time will be allocated to spokesman who register with the FDA prior to March 8.

FARM CREDIT HELPS GROWING FARM FAMILIES

The needs of your family are never-ending. Equipment. Home appliances, Feed and seed and fertilizer. Doctor bills, College educations. Trucks and tractors. Remodeling the house.

The people at your Production Credit Association understand farm families and their special needs. After all they've been working with families like yours for nearly 40 years. They work with you to help you reach your goals. And it's good to know that you believe in constructive credit ... the kind that helps you get further ahead instead of deeper in debt.

So the two of you don't have to go it alone. Not when there's a PCA man who's a real professional when it comes to helping farm families like yours.

LMA urges riddance of P & S rate regulations

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – The Livestock Marketing Association (LMA) is urging that the Packers and Stockyards division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture eliminate all regulation of marketing service rates and charges, saying that this concept is "outmoded, antiquated and outdated."

In testimony at seven hearings on alternatives to the present P&S program of rate regulation, officials of the marketing sector's leading trade group stress that "No one in today's livestock marketing sector enjoys a monopolistic position." The current concept of regulating marketing businesses like public utilities, they say, is no longer valid.

The LMA officials say there are "over 2000 posted stockyards, nearly 14,000 registered dealers, and a variety of other methods, in the form of cooperatives and otherwise to merchandise cattle."

And, they point out, today "livestock markets handle less than 45 per cent of all livestock volume and merchandising transactions. This strongly suggests that the monopolistic tendencies which prompted the 1921 (Packers and Stockyards) Act no longer exist, and rate regulation is no longer required."

The trade group, which provides business services to some 1200 livestock marketmen, dealers and brokers in the U.S. and Canada, is testifying that "livestock marketing businesses, like the vast majority of small businesses of this country, should be permitted to operate in a free and competitive open environment.

"Our entire economic system is based upon the concept of freedom of choice. A livestock producer may choose from a variety of marketing alternatives, including selling at posted stockyards.

"In other words," the officials are testifying, "if left alone to operate in a free and competitive fashion, livestock marketing businesses will respond in accordance with the dictates of the marketplace in a business-like fashion and in a competitive manner." Rates and charges, LMA says, will be based on the economic unpredictability of a free market.

Furthermore, the officials say, "If a livestock marketing business chooses to price itself out of business, it has the constitutional right to do so, although it would be foolish to suggest that any prudent marketing businessman is going to do so."

The testimony also notes that there is a "congressional movement afoot to eliminate tariff regulation" of posted stockyards, through the "Freedom in Livestock Marketing Act," introduced last November by Sen. James O. Eastland, (D-Miss.) and the various bills introduced by Rep. Ray Thornton (D-Ark.)

4-H conservation club to organize

LANCASTER – The 4-H Soil, Water, and Wildlife Conservation Club will hold an organizational meeting on February 22 at the Shutz House Environmental Center in the Lancaster County Central Park. The meeting, originally scheduled for February 8, was rescheduled due to the bad weather.

Anyone interested in learning more about preserving the environment and conserving the soil and Wildlife resources is welcome to join. Club members will hlep plan activities and work on a project of their choice. The club will meet every other week for six meetings.

Leaders for the club will be Scott Eberly, Ephrata, 717-733-7876; Bill Franz, Lancaster, 717-569-6889; and Tim Breneisen, Conestoga, 717-872-5665; who can be contacted for further information.

Small farmer still has a place

By JERRY WEBB
University of Delaware

DOVER, Del. – Can a modern farmer still find happiness on a small farm? This is a question that many farmers must be asking themselves as they remember their drought-stunted, rented cropland and wonder if they'd come out ahead doing a better job of farming only the home place.

The census reports tell us that farm size has increased dramatically over the past several years. Farmers have purchased and rented more acres and, on the average, their size of operation has grown tremendously. But many of those large farmers are farming someone else's land and right now they may be seriously reconsidering the economics of large scale farming.

Those who have already made huge investments in big machinery may find it difficult to cut back. On the other hand, the finance company may solve that problem for them. Farmers who were on the thin edge anyway may find it particularly difficult to meet large production expenses with a very small 1977 farm income.

So what happens to the farmer who still owns the 240 acre home place and figures he can't afford to rent those high priced additional acres? If he's crop farming only, he's apt to be in a bad way. Small prices on a small farm don't add up to much. But on the other hand, there are ways to stretch that small farm.

Despite the trend toward bigness there are still thousands of profitable small farms. And the economists say some of them have definite advantages over larger ones. Labor and machinery costs per acre tend to be lower on big farms, but the economists believe small operations can compete successfully if they are well managed. Included in that management is a willingness to produce high value crops and labor intensive livestock.

It's very difficult to make much more money growing just corn and soybeans on 240 acres. But the 240-acre farmer who grows forage crops and feeds them to his own high-producing dairy cows may not be such a small farmer after all. The small farmer who has the financing can make several additions that increase his farm size rather quickly. Obviously, going into the dairy business is a major reorganization, one which most crop farmers are not willing to do. But what about the hog business? Or maybe a broiler house, a few acres of strawberries, or other high value crops.

The addition of irrigation equipment, if properly managed, can effectively double the crop-producing potential on many farms. And of course double cropping or even triple cropping where practical does a lot to expand production.

Here are some examples of small farmers who are making it big. They're borrowed from The Furrow magazine and show the diversity of agriculture that's possible:

• Kind Mahoney of Blue Mounds, Wisc., is buying a 150-acre farm and renting another 120 acres. He and his wife do the farming and have no outside employment. They depend on 42 high-producing Holstein cows for their income.

• The Boss Brothers of Orrville, Ohio, depend on 400 hogs and 10,000 layers on their 450-acre farm. Three families, two brothers and their father, get all of their income from this relatively small operation. The livestock doesn't take much space and the brothers go for top yields on their crop acres, buying additional grain as needed to satisfy their feed requirements.

• Wilbur Patrick of Westport, Ind., crops 160 acres and makes a living for his family without off-farm employment. Patrick says moderation is the key to his small farm success.

"We simply don't invest as heavily as people on a bigger place, but we don't pay as much interest either." He double crops where possible, and uses the best technology available to him. Patrick minimizes off-farm expenses by doing most of his own repair work, hiring no outside labor and buying equipment very sparingly. He makes do with what he has so he won't have to accept part-time off-farm employment just to pay the bills.

The list of small successful farmers goes on and on.

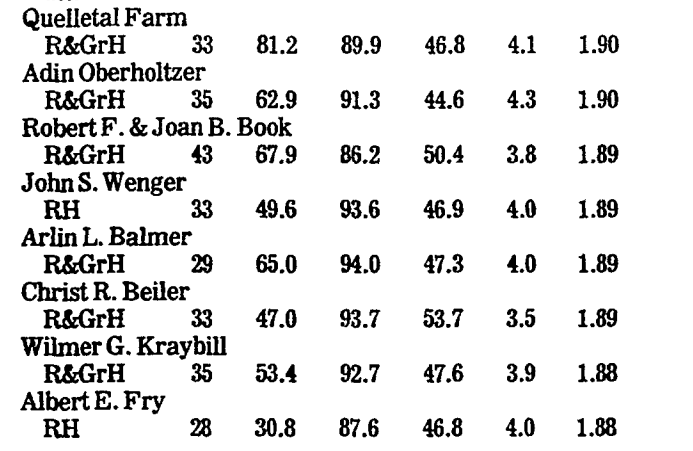
High Density Work



VINYL DROPPING SHIELDS

eliminate the headaches of dropping boards and dropping board scrapers. Manure slides off the dropping shields and into the pit.

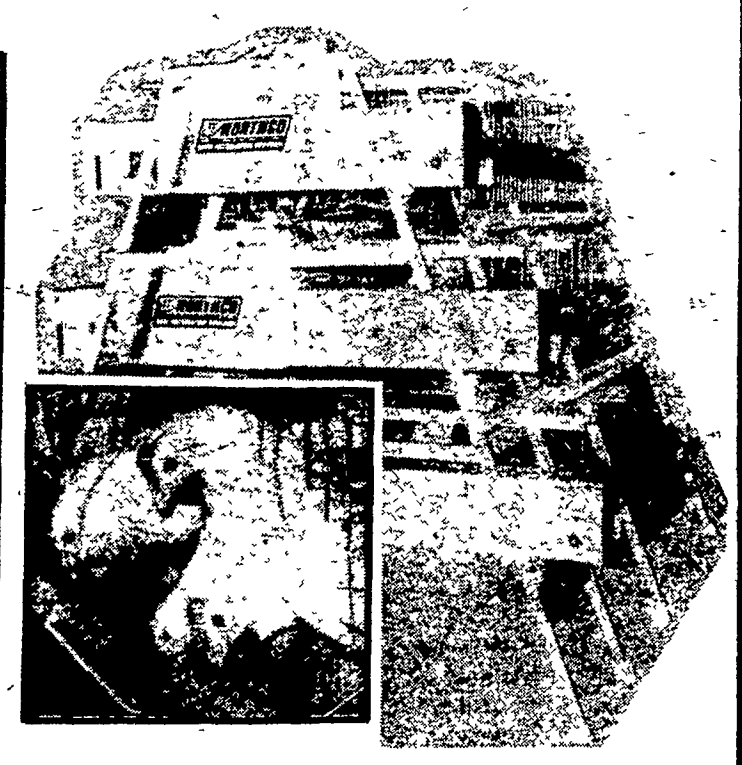
NORTHCO EGG GATHERING uses plastic coated contact surfaces to move eggs from the cage to processing equipment, gently and efficiently.



THE RELIABLE FEEDER

FEED MIXING ACTION Northco's exclusive core auger mixes feed along the entire feed line to help prevent feed separation. There are no hang-up spots where feed can become stale. Uneaten feed is carried back to the hopper and mixed with fresh feed.

LESS WEAR The core auger floats on a cushion of feed There's virtually no metal-to-metal contact which means less wear

LESS WASTE A specially designed "feed-saver" trough maintains a feed level that is easily accessible to the birds from billing feed out of the trough

VERSATILE Northco's Cage Feeder can be adapted to fit nearly any cage or cage arrangement .. even vertical or wall-row operations.

IT'S A TOTAL SYSTEM

Owners of present Northco Slant-Back Systems are impressed with the way all components of the system work together to increase the efficiency of the total system.

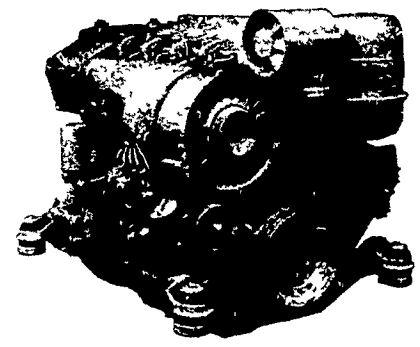
COST



CUTTER

The cost of diesel fuel has jumped nearly 80 percent since October, 1973 and it's still about three cents a gallon cheaper than gasoline. Higher fuel costs call for a closer look at total operating costs when you buy engines. Deutz air-cooled engines use 20 to 40 percent less fuel than most water-cooled diesel engines - far less than gasoline engines. And they are competitively priced. So hadn't you better buy or specify the cost cutter - Deutz? 10 to 500 bhp.

Facts for dairymen

By Alan Bair
Assoc. County Agent
Lancaster, Pa.

This morning Andy Martin was in my office, and I made the mistake of asking him what some of his current problems are. Next to the fact that he couldn't keep his hair combed with all the wind we have been having, one of the basic problems he has to deal with is low quality milk as a result of dirty long-haired cows. As a dairy sanitarian for a large cooperative, Andy knows that long hair on udders and flanks is not only against the rules, but makes the production of high quality milk very difficult.

Clipping cows goes beyond just keeping your "milk inspector" happy. The length of hair on the udder, tail, flanks and topline can also greatly influence the amount of mastitis and other herd health problems that you can experience.

No, I have not come up with a new form of "long hair" mastitis. But consider what happens when you try to wash an udder with a lot of long hair on it. To get the udder clean and stimulated you must wash it. To wash the udder obviously you must get it wet. Therein lies the problem.

Attaching milking machines to wet udders is asking for mastitis problems. Not only will you get more machine damage to the udder, but when the teat cup is removed, a drop of bacteria laden water collects on the end of a wide open teat - Bingo, coliform mastitis. I think you will agree, well clipped udders are easier to wash and dry.

Clipping can also go a long way towards controlling other winter health problems such as lice and barn itch. These very little critters can cost you a lot of milk because they generally weaken the cow and make her uncomfortable. Our local veterinarians tell me that each winter they treat numerous cows for udder injuries that were sustained when the cows were violently scratching against some piece of equipment. Clipping cows will help you control these diseases.

Neatly clipped clean cows have one other advantage over their long haired dirty sisters – they are more pleasant to work with. As a dairyman, you better like to work with cows. Your attitude is still the biggest influence on milk quality and herd health. Make your cows, the milk sanitarian, and yourself happy – clip a cow today.

Save Energy and get FREE HOT WATER... with the revolutionary...

MUELLER FRE-HEATER™

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

Rather than using noisy, dust-creating fans with fragile, dirt collecting air-cooled condensers, the refrigerant is routed to a specially designed condenser/heat exchanger and its heat is transferred to the water

A thermostatically controlled valve delivers 145° F water to a storage tank.

In addition to the thermostatic valve, a mixing valve is provided to permit "prepping" temperature water

Tests indicate the Fre-Heater consumes 10% less power than an air-cooled system . . . and you get Free Hot Water!

ELIMINATES REFRIGERATION SERVICE PROBLEMS!

The most common causes of slow cooling in bulk milk cooling systems are related to the air-cooled condenser

The Fre-Heater eliminates these problems because:

- There is no air-cooled condenser.
- The Fre-Heater is installed indoors.
- There are no noisy fans to fail.
- The head pressure is very stable — assuring longer compressor life.
- There are no cold weather starting problems, plus . . . the Fre-Heater conserves energy and produces Free Hot Water!

HOW MUCH WATER CAN BE GENERATED?

There are many variables, so this question cannot be answered directly, however, a rule of thumb is that a Fre-Heater operating on 60° F. well water will produce a volume of 145° F. water similar to the amount of milk produced during a milking

Examples are everywhere. But the trend in agriculture is toward bigness. There is the general feeling that a farmer must get bigger or get out. Depending on the method he chooses for getting bigger, that may not be the answer. In a dry year when low crop prices prevail, the big farmer may be worse off than the small, diversified farmer who's getting his income from a variety of enterprises, including livestock.

My dairy farmer friend near Reading, Pa., who has dairy cows, fruit trees and a strawberry patch is considered by some to be a small farmer. But right now he's not worrying about low corn and soybean prices. He feeds the crops he produces and supplements the milk check with a substantial income from strawberries, apples and peaches. Last year was a pretty good year for him. In fact, most years are pretty good with that kind of diversification. His is a complicated farm to run, requiring some outside labor, year-round work, and long days during certain times of the year. His progress has been steady with a minimum number of disaster years.

There is a place for the small farmer – small in acres but big in management know-how and big in the willingness to operate a complicated agricultural enterprise.

Robert Walker will speak at conservation dinner

LANCASTER – The annual banquet of the Lancaster County Conservation District is scheduled to be held at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, March 16, at the Good 'n Plenty Restaurant in Smoketown. Tickets are now available at the District Office at the cost of $5.00 each.

The guest speaker will be, U.S. Representative, Robert S. Walker.

Seeking re-election for a second term in Congress, Walker intends to be only a part time candidate in his campaign. His first job he says is to be a full time congressman throughout the year. He won his first term as the 16th District congressman in 1976. During his first bid for office, he faced 11 other opponents in the Republican primary. To date, no other candidate has declared to oppose Walker.

Robert Walker

Reservations for the Annual Banquet can be made by calling before March 10th at the District Office at 299-5361, Monday through Friday between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Tool up here for a great future in the hog business

Buss addresses Dover Young Farmer banquet

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff correspondent

DOVER – The Dover Area Young Farmers sponsored their annual family banquet at the Dover Fire Hall on February 10, with about 200 in attendance.

Dr. Neil Buss, deputy secretary of agriculture for the Commonwealth, was the featured speaker for the evening. A former Extension agent from Lehigh County, Buss received his doctorate in animal science from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and had been a research analyst to the House Agriculture Committee in Harrisburg.

"When prices are good, anyone can farm," Buss said. "When times turn bad, only the very best managers can make a living; it's survival of the fittest."

Concerned over some future problems of the agriculture industry, he warned of three areas that will need special attention from farm people.

Energy will remain a big headache for agriculture, with alternate forms still not economically competitive with conventional fuels. Buss advised farmers considering building to look into the alternate ways of heating structures, but added that changing over old buildings to new forms of energy may cost more than any savings gained.

As profit margins narrow, the deputy secretary warned that slightly less production from lower cost inputs may be one way a farmer can save slightly on his expenses. He reminded producers that they should shop around before ordering their machinery, seed and fertilizer and determine where they can buy most economically.

Finally, Buss told his listeners that they must stay aware of current market price fluctuations and prices paid for commodities at different locations.

"Can you afford to haul your cattle to an auction 100 miles away, just for a penny a pound more?" he asked.

Awards were presented during the program to several winners of the chapter's hay and forage show. Joseph Stump, York R 10, won the grand championship of the show, capturing four first places and two second slots.

Winner of the trophy for corn improvement competition was Lester Sunday, York R 1, with a test yield of over 160 bushels to the acre.

Other winners of the corn yield contst were: Ralph McGregor, East Berlin R 1, second and third place, Roy Berkheimer, Dover, fourth place; and Charles Rauhauser, Dover, fifth place.

New officers of the Dover Young Farmers are: Fred Hotchkiss, Dover, president; Wayne Myers, Dover, vice-president; Clark Dalheimer, Dover, secretary; Lester Sunday, York R1, treasurer; and Walter Laird, Dover, reporter.

Following is a complete list of hay and forage show winners: Timothy and Clover, first cutting - 1. Mike Hoffman; 2. Joe Stump; 3. Fred McGhee; 4. Crist Shearer; 5. Glenn Myers; All Clover, second cutting - Joe Stump; Timothy - 1. Fred McGhee; 2. Paul Jacobs; 3. Leon Grove; Alfalfa, first cutting - 1. Joe Stump; 2. Ash combe Dairy; Alfalfa, second cutting - 1. Morton Buildings Do Double-Duty

BUY AND BUILD NOW — BE READY FOR HARVEST

A Morton Machine Shed with bulkheads installed is the most innovative idea in government approved flat grain storage. The sidewall bulkheads are 6' high designed to withstand pressures with grain peaked to trusses. The sliding door bulkheads withstand grain pressures when in place, yet are easily removed for access to building by equipment and machinery. Regular grain storage bins cannot be used for machine storage when empty, but your Morton Machine Shed can . . . it does Double-Duty!

County officer sees FFA as top youth program

By JOANNE SPAHR

BLUE BALL – "I think FFA is one of the best youth organizations going right now," believes 18-year-old Daniel Witwer, East Earl R3, president of the Red Rose Chapter of the Future Farmers of America in Lancaster County. This county association president, who has been active in the Grassland Chapter at Garden Spot High School for four years, has great respect for the organization, which he believes has helped to shape his character.

"I'd have to say that my greatest benefit from FFA revolves around leadership," he reflects, pointing out that he is more natural and at ease in front of groups thanks to his FFA experiences.

That same philosophy stems into his personal life, as well, he acknowledges, saying that he now has adopted the belief that people will have to accept me for what I am." For a person who has the tendency to be self conscious, as Dan admits he is, this philosophy is a real step forward in personal growth.

"FFA does a lot to open you up," Dan continues, referring to public speaking contests as well as judging competitions and other activities. "Not only that, but you make friends as you travel, which is another big benefit."

After four years of active participation in FFA activities, Dan knows what he's talking about.

In 1977 he developed his elocution skills to the point that he placed third in the state public speaking contest, which did much to give him poise in front of an audience. Some other merits to his name include being a member of the first place meat judging team in Lancaster County, in which he placed fifth individually. He was also a delegate to PAFC which was held at Shippensburg State College last Summer. As a freshman, he was president of the 9th grand FFA chapter at Garden Spot. He has also been a foundation award winner in crops, sales, and service as well as a silver medal winner in the state small engines contest. In the regional electrification competition held in Springfield, Mass., Witwer placed fourth.

Just last month he was also named a Keystone Farmer for 1977, the highest state honor a Future Farmer of America can earn. For Dan, this degree meant more than any other recognition he had ever won previously.

"The Keystone Degree encompasses everything you've ever done," explains Dan, "All things lead to it, really, so it's quite an honor."

However, there is one other state honor which Dan hopes to achieve. At present this high school senior is grooming himself for a shot at state office – the summit of his present ambitions.

"I plan to run for state office this June,'" explains Dan. "I've always admired the skills of the state officers and I would like to develop my abilities to that level."

Fortunately, Dan enjoys public speaking and the challenge of getting up in front of an audience – two points which will be assets as he seeks his position. A third factor in his favor is that he believes in the organization whch he hopes to represent.

"FFA has a very well organized program" stressed Witwer, "the people that planned it developed it so well at the county, state, and national levels that there's little I could think of to change."

But, his concept of FFA hasn't always been the same, he admits.

"I initially thought of it as an organization for farm boys – for them to get out and enjoy themselves," he states. "But, the more I get involved, the more I realized that the most important thing about it is leadership and getting people involved. If you want a good organization, you have to accept responsibility." This year he accepted the position of secretary in his home chapter.

A rural, although not farm, boy, Witwer's involvement with agriculture began as a child when he visited his grandfather's farm. Then, to add to the enticement, his friends in fourth and fifth grade had steers – an asset which Dan envied. After a move to his present home on Frogtown Road near Blue Ball, his neighbor consented to Dan's raising a steer in his barn, and Witwer's agriculture career was launched.

Today he rents 23 acres of land on which he grows 17 acres of corn which he picks for grain, and six acres of hay. He also has a farrow to finish operation with three sows. At present he is planning to buy extra feeder pigs to supplement his operation.

Dan's hog operation is farrow to finish with three sows.

Dan notes with a laugh that his interest in hogs began quite accidentally when he won an SCS pig chase in 1975, although he'd been convinced prior to the chase that hogs were a good investment.

After graduation Dan has plans to go on for Bible college and ag school training following which he hopes to work abroad in agriculture.

"I feel missions and agriculture go together," states Witwer. Although his plans are still gelling at this point, he has always entertained the hopes of working in Latin America in his chosen field of endeavor.

In addition to his FFA activities, Witwer was named to Who-s Who Among American High School Students for 1976-77 and is president of the youth group at Terre Hill Bible Fellowship.

Manheim FFA'er learns ag mechanics on the job

By KENDACE BORRY

MANHEIM – Agricultural mechanics is the main interest of Jay Gainer, Manheim R4. The Manheim Central senior and president of the Manheim FFA Chapter is involved in a work study program in which he gets to practice and perfect his farm machinery mechanical skills.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Gainer, he has excelled in many areas during his FFA career. Besides serving his club as president, he has also been chapter reporter. In 1976, he won first in the county small gasoline engines contest, and placed third in the state. And during 1977, at the Pa. mechanics contest, he placed fifth out of 40 contestants. In project book competitions, he received gold and silver awards at the county level, as well as silver at the state.

Jay has carried swine breeding and fattening projects along with his work experience. Presently he is working at Messick Farm Equipment Inc., near Rheems, in Lancaster County. Throughout the school year, his time is divided between attending classes and acquiring on the job experience at work.

Thinking about the ag mechanics job, Jay stated that he always enjoyed working with engines and thus choose to go into that

(Turn to Page 125)

Showing some of the trophies he's earned through FFA is Jay Gainer, president of the Manheim Chapter. The trophy on the left he earned in 1976 for his first prize placing in the small gasoline engines contest, while the larger trophy was awarded to him for winning the Star Red Rose degree.

G. Washington honored by FFA

ELVERSON – Everyone knows that George Washington gave seven years of his life without pay to command the Revolutionary Army and eight more to serve as the new country's first president. What isn't so well known is that he would have been much happier "under his own vine and fig tree."

By his own admission, George Washington's first interest was farming.

It was because of his interest in farming and his accomplishments as a successful farmer that FFA is celebrated during the week of George Washington's birthday. In addition, George Washington has been labeled the patron saint of the organization and has come to symbolize the FFA Treasurer.

Actually it was a small inheritance that launched Washington's career as a farmer; he was 11 when his father died. According to custom, Lawerence – as the oldest son – got most of the estate including Mt. Vernon. Washington's small inheritance was only a 280 acre cherry tree farm plus a share of land at Deep Run.

Washington started accumulating land with money he earned as a surveyor. At 16, George had bought 550 acres.

Washington resigned his military commission when he was 26 and soon married Martha Custis, a wealthy Virginia widow. At the time he owned about 5,000 acres of land which included Mt. Vernon's 2,500 acres inherited from his brother Lawerence.

Washington began to take farming seriously. He had a keen business mind, an eye for detail, and a searching curiosity about anything new.

Washington divided his huge estate into five farms. Each farm's overseer made weekly reports which Washington used for his notes, diaries, and account books. He made exacting notes on planting, harvest, and sales – a trait that is recognized in the FFA.

As early as 1766, Washington realized the error in continued tobacco cultivation. He practically abandoned tobacco, the major colonial crop.

Some have called Mt. Vernon one of the earliest "experiment stations" in America. It's true that Washington tried various manure and water applications under controlled conditions. He experimented with countless new seeds, fertilizers and management practices.

Washington called the life of a farmer "most delectable." "It is honorable. It is amusing, and, with judicious management, it is profitable," he said.

Perhaps his far-reaching vision and love of farm life are best expressed in his eighth address to Congress: "It will not be doubted that with reference either to individual, or National Welfare, Agriculture is of primary importance. In proportion as nations advance in population, and other circumstances of maturity, this truth becomes more apparent; and renders the cultivation of the soil more and more, an object of public patronage."

Twelve dairymen rewarded

QUARRYVILLE -- Southern Lancaster County area diarymen were honored for having high producing herds this past year at the fourteenth annual District 5 meeting for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative members held February 14 at the United Methodist Church, here.

Those receiving Certificates of Merit, and their DHIA production averages are as follows:

Curtis Akers, Quarryville, 57.7 cows, 17,940 pounds of milk, 694 pounds of butterfat; Gusty Crest Farm, Lancaster, 31.5 cows, 17,421 pounds of milk, 687 of butterfat; Robert Kauffman, Jr., Peach Bottom, 81.7 cows, 17,775 pounds of milk, 678 of fat; John Harnish, Lancaster, 135.9 cows, 17,227 pounds of milk, 667 of fat; Jonas Zook, Quarryville, 35.1 cows, 17,528 pounds of milk, 666 of fat; Glenn Book Lancaster, 36.1 cows, 17,865 pounds of milk, 665 of fat; Paul Nissley, Holtwood, 17,381 pounds of milk, 664 of fat; J. Clayton Charles, Lancaster, 44.8 cows, 16,710 pounds of milk, 659 of fat; Parke Ranck, Ronks, 57.8 cows, 16,338 pounds of milk, 657 of fat; LeRoy Weaver, Strasburg, 43.3 cows, 17,662 pounds of milk, 654 pounds of fat; Edgefield Farm, Quarryville, 60.3 cows, 17,295 pounds of milk, 651 of fat; and Don Ranck, Paradise, 53.3 cows, 17,334 pounds of milk and 618 of fat.

All herds were at least 15 per cent above the state average for milk or butterfat production last year, while at least two-thirds of the cows in these herds are progeny of Atlantic sires. Awards were presented by C. P. Brantley, Atlantic's field supervisor for this area.

Several members were also cited for their assistance in using young sires this past year, as the cooperative continues its extensive program of testing the true genetic merit of some 30 bulls per year through random matings in many different herds.

Reports by District 5 director James Kreider of Quarryville and management representative David Yoder, Lancaster, informed members that 1977 was a very successful business year for Atlantic. Service Technicians provided nearly 300,000 services and semen sales continued to be profitable. Atlantic sires maintained their rating among the nation's best for transmitting profitable traits, Yoder said.

A 25-minute movie was shown to help members understand the importance of sound type traits for both production and reproduction. The application of this principle through Atlantic's Mate-Rite program was also explained as an aid to breeding improved cattle.

Atlantic members who were patrons in 1965 recently received a cash refund totaling over $56,000. New equities have been issued to members active in 1977, amounting to 9% of gross revenue for the year.

Members present voted for District representatives for the coming year. Election results will be announced in the next issue of the Cooperative's monthly newsletter, since more than one meeting is held in most of Atlantic's 16 Districts.

Honored by Atlantic Breeders Cooperative this week for outstanding dairy production records were, left to right, Henry Leaman of Gusty Crest Farm, Paul Nissley, Robert Kauffman, John Harnish, Glenn Book, and Amus Rutt of Edgefield Farm. The herds of each dairyman were at least two-thirds Atlantic sired. Book's herd was 100 per cent Atlantic progency.

York Co. 4-H Council meets

BAIR – Gabi Wohlrab, an AFS student from Germany, and Helen Wilkens, an AFS student from New Zealand, presented the program on their native countries at the recent meeting of the York County 4-H Council held at the 4-H Center, near Bair.

Members voted to give the profit from the 4-H Valentine's Skating Party to the York County Heart Fund.

Brooke Palmer reported on the Junior Fun Night scheduled for March 17 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. for 4-H members 8 to 13 years old. The program will be "Almost Anything Goes."

Chris Waltersdorff announced that a Teen Leader Retreat will be held on April 14, 15, and 16 at Doubling Gap with a "Back to Nature" theme.

Kathy McKenzie, of the York County Extension Office, announced that Family Fun Night will be held on March 4 at 7 p.m. at the 4-H Center. Following a covered dish meal, the 4-H posters will be judged and prizes awarded to the top five winners. Bingo and square dancing will conclude the evening.

The next meeting of the County Council will be held on March 1 at the 4-H Center.

Study needed before banning corporate farming

By JERRY WEBB
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – The family farm has been protected and preserved for many years by a wide range of well-intended folks. That includes the farmers themselves, the farm organizations that represent them and the government agencies and politicians who regulate them. The latest wave of protectionism centers around corporate farming. The farm magazines overflow with rhetoric about what to do about the influx of big industry money and the increase in the number of corporate farms. Current farm economic conditions may be dampening this enthusiasm, but it's still there.

The truth of the matter is, corporate farms represent only a very small share of America's farm production units, perhaps no more than two per cent. But that two per cent represents a lot of land and a fairly good chunk of our agricultural output.

A few months back, the family farm protectors got a monumental scare from an organization called Ag Land Fund. This was an effort to funnel huge amounts of pension money into agricultural operations. The resentment was so great and the hew and cry so loud that the financial interests involved decided to drop the whole idea.

But that's not to say the influx of nonfarm capital into agriculture has dried up. On the contrary, there seems to always be nonfarm money looking for a good agricultural investment. One report says there are literally billions of dollars looking for good investments and more available all the time. It says the nation's corporate, state and local government pension funds amount to some 320 billion dollars and that equals more than half of the total assets of agriculture. That's not to say that all of the pension funds are going to go out and buy farms, but it does give some indication of the magnitude of the problem.

Part of the problem in dealing with the influx of off-farm money is the temptation to ban corporate farming. If one assumes that the family farm must be preserved, and that seems to be the basic assumption in most reports, then the next step is to lock corporate interests out of agriculture. Some states have tried this with laws aimed at controlling the entry of off-farm financing. Many of these state laws have backfired and have caused more problems than they have solved. In some cases, the enforcement agencies have been unable to carry out the letter of the law. So with few exceptions, outside money has been able to find its way into agriculture.

In reality, much of the corporate farming that goes on is a family farm kind of corporate farming wherein corporate arrangements are used to operate a traditional farm. Usually this is done for inheritance purposes, but there are also some other advantages. So many traditional family farmers have set up farm corporations. That puts the lawmaker in a very difficult spot when he tries to ban corporate farming.

Another question that must be asked is: what is the real purpose of banning corporate farming? If it's to keep large investers out of agriculture or from actually buying farmland, that's one thing, but a law that would effectively do that might also prevent a farmer from obtaining financial support from outside sources.

I'm not sure that laws restricting the entry into and out of agriculture are first of all workable and secondly, fair. And I'm not sure that family farms need that kind of protection. As a working financial unit, the family farm is a pretty tough customer. It's not easy for outsiders to effectively compete against this kind of organization and certainly the outsiders have not shown the ability to cope with adversity that farmers have.

It will be interesting to look at the statistics over the next few months to see whether the interest of outside investors has waned in view of current high land prices and low farm income. Sure, back in the early 70's when things were booming, the big money boys were anxious to get in on the action. But that bubble is broken. The family farmer who is fairly efficient and well-organized will endure current adversities and be ready for better prices when they finally arrive. But the corporate investor who has neither the patience nor the reason may find it very tough to hang in there until the cycle starts up.

The whole business of restricting entry into farming must be weighed very carefully. Farmers and their supporters should look at all the angles before they yell too loud for protectionist legislation.

Brandt announces he will seek 4th term

HARRISBURG -- Representative Kenneth E. Brandt (Rep.) of the 98th Legislative District announced this week that he will seek a fourth term in the State Assembly. The 98th District is comprised of the school districts of Columbia, Elizabethtown, Donegal Union, Manheim Central, and the Mountville Boro and West Hempfield Area of the Hempfield School District.

The Lancaster County legislator serves on several committees including the State Government Committee where he serves as the Republican vice chairman. He also serves as the minority sub-chairman on utilities, the minority chairman for the subcommittee on local government, and he was recently appointed to serve on the task force to develop legislation regarding the election of the state's attorney general.

Brandt is also a member of the 18 member Republican Policy Committee, which meets weekly, to develop ideas and concepts to guide the caucus on legislative issues, fund raising activities, and seeking candidates to run for office.

Brandt recently introduced two bills in the House which are designed to give homeowners protection from losing their properties at tax sales. These bills, known as the "Widow Brown Bills", will help to prevent incidents similar to that in which a Columbia widow lost her home at a tax sale because she failed to pay a small amount of property tax.

Pa. poultry banquet set

HARRISBURG -- Attendance at the Annual Fund Raising Banquet of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation seems to have no limits. For the fourth straight year, it appears that ticket sales to the gala event will surpass previous years. The banquet this year is scheduled for the evening of March 30, 1978, at the Host Farm in Lancaster. The banquet had already become the largest poultry banquet in the entire Northeast when over 1,200 people were in attendance last year. The Co-Chairmen, Bill Carlin, Hubbard Farms, Bob Graybill, Pennfield Corporation, and Dale M. Weaver, Victor F. Weaver, Inc., report an analysis of sales to date indicate this year's attendance will go over the goal of 1,400 established just a few months ago.

Just a few short years ago, only 300 people attended this annual event. Industrymen attribute the change to several factors. First, the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation has become a strong representative of the poultry industry in Pennsylvania and the banquet is its principal source of income. Secondly, the industry itself has become a united force behind the banquet both in attendance and selling tickets. Finally, the banquet has become one of those very special banquets, the kind people want to attend.

No-till success depends on details

NEWARK, Del. – Farmers have been growing no-till corn in Delaware for seven or eight years now, with varying degrees of success. Some get excellent yields with this energy-saving tillage system, but others still haven't learned how not to goof up their no-till corn, says University of Delaware Extension crops specialist Frank Webb.

"At the University we've developed what we think is a pretty sure-fire formula for producing no-till corn in this part of the country," says Webb. But it's still possible to drive around the Delmarva Peninsula and come across some real no-till disasters. Spotty stands, corn plantings choked with uncontrolled annual weeds or starved of moisture by a rampant cover crop that never really got killed–these are just some of the problems he's seen.

And in just about every case, when he's looked closely at the farming practices followed, the answer turns out to be the same–the grower knew what procedures to follow but was in too big a hurry to take the time to do the job right. "It looks to me," says Webb, "like the operator is no-till's worst enemy."

In order to emphasize how critical proper planning, careful preparation of chemicals and equipment, and careful observation can be to a successful no-till corn operation, the Delaware crops specialist teamed up with one of his Maryland extension colleagues, Joe Newcomer, at the recent Delmarva Corn Technology Conference for a presentation on the subject.

Occasionally exaggerating to make a point, but basically talking about conditions they've actually observed in the field, Webb and Newcomer (who recently became grain marketing specialist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture) went over the list of problems that can plague the unwary no-till farmer.

At the top of their list was the need to be thinking a year in advance about where to grow your no-till corn. Identify potential problems before you plant. Choose fields with uniform soil conditions. You can get some real variations in stand by combining land with different tillage histories and different kinds of cover under a single no-till planting.

Also take a close look at potential weed problems. Look out for heavy infestations of perennial weeds (milkweed, horse nettle, thistle, dogbane, etc.) or annual grasses such as nutgrass and fall panicum. "If you've had a lot of nutsedge trouble in a field, for instance," says Webb, "you'd better think about conventional tillage there, using a good herbicide program, until you've got that nutsedge under control. Experience has shown us that it just doesn't pay to try no-till if you've got this kind of weed problem."

Certain preparatory steps are necessary for a successful no-till crop. On the sandy soils of lower Delaware, make sure your soil pH is up around 6.0 or 6.2. On heavier soils, pH should be up in the 6.5-6.6 range. Also correct any fertility imbalances. Between 120-150 pounds of nitrogen per acre are best and split applications are desirable. Potassium and phosphorus can be spread on the surface with no problem--let a soil test be your guide but make sure the crop gets about 80 pounds of each per acre.

Subtle little details can make the difference between success and failure with a no-till planting. Try to keep fields fairly level so that you get a uniform planting depth. Some kind of cover crop can also help insure success, if it's properly handled.

Early in the history of no-till corn production on Delmarva, rye was often used as a cover. But rye can be difficult to manage and its use is behind many no-till failures. This grass is hard to plant in, and if it isn't killed soon enough it can deprive corn seedlings of critically needed soil moisture right at the start of the growing season.

Armyworms and other soil insects are likely to be a problem where rye covers are used. So are birds and mice. And this cover can be difficult to kill under the overcast weather conditions common on the peninsula during many springs.

As an alternative to rye, double-crop no-till soybean and grain stubble residues have lots to recommend them, says Webb. They don't cost anything since they're already there, generally they give you an even seed be , they're good for preventing wind erosion, since they're already dead they won't remove early spring moisture, and they fit into a good rotation schedule.

Another cover the agronomist strongly favors for no-till corn production is hairy vetch. This legume is easy to establish, easy to kill, and studies at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Experiment Station have shown that it can provide between 50-100 pounds of nitrogen an acre to your corn crop. The only time this particular cover could pose a problem is when small grains–especially for certified seed–are part of your rotation.

Crimson clover is another nitrogen-producing cover well worth considering, if you're afraid to use vetch. It can provide between 50 and 75 pounds nitrogen to your crop. Full-season soybean stubble and even chickweed are other possibilities. Corn stubble ground is not as desirable as some covers but it, too, can be used.

A well-managed cover, proper soil preparation, a good fertility program and good weed control–these are some of the ways a farmer can make sure of growing a successful no-till corn crop, says Webb.

Manheim FFA'er

Ed. The expenses involved in getting started in farming made him choose a farm related career, rather than straight farming, although he hopes someday to have his own swine and beef farm in the Lancaster County area. But for now, he plans to continue working as a farm machinery mechanic for the next several years.

To keep his hand in farming for the present, Jay farms with his father. Together they raise swine and beef cattle, with the major crops being corn and tobacco on the 30 acre spread.

Speaking fondly of FFA, Jay related that his experiences with the organization had given him good opportunities to know people and learn to develop his leadership qualities

"FFA gives a person a chance to try out different areas in farm careers, and you can see which one suits you, which one you're particularly good in," Jay explained. "It also gives you self-confidence thru the different experiences you are involved in."

One important quality that Jay feels FFA has really taught him is the importance of cooperation. "Cooperation with other people is so important," he related, "I've learned that you have to cooperate with others or else nothing will get done."

Speaking of his Manheim FFA, Jay was proud of the fact that the chapter had won the coveted National Chapter gold emblem in 1977, the first gold ever for the group, and one of only five chapters in the state of Pa. to win the award last year.

"Now that we've won the award, we've got to strive to keep it," the youth stressed. "I think we need to help the community more in the future. We have helped in projects like building the new Manheim farm show building in the past and we need to become more involved in such projects."

One project that the Manheim FFA president is interested in getting his chapter involved in is the flood control plans of the Chiques Creek area that involves the Manheim area.

Besides being active in the FFA, Jay is also a member of the Chiques Church of the Brethren where he is active in the youth group. He also belongs to the Manheim Agricultural Poultry Service, whose main function he explained, is to catch chickens. He received the Pa. Keystone Farmer degree in 1978. And when he gets the time, he likes to play sports, listing volleyball and basketball as his favorites.

Smiling, the FFA member explained that he likes ag mechanics work, especially working with clutches or overhauling engines. He looks forward to learning more about mechanics as he continues his career started through his FFA work.

Atlantic honors top dairymen

KULPSVILLE – Eastern Berks - Bucks - Montgomery area dairymen were honored for having high producing herds this past year at the fourteenth annual District 1 meeting for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative members held February 14 at Palm Schwenkfelder Church.

Those receiving Certificates of Merit for having top DHIA averages were:

Joseph Peters, Danboro, 48.3 cows, 18,007 pounds of milk, 681 of fat; Walter Wurster, Ottsville, 58.6 cows, 16,927 pounds of milk, 653 of fat; Harold Halteman, Telford, 60.2 cows, 18,012 pounds of milk, 703 of fat; Richard Bechtel, Harleysville, 37.2 cows, 16,937 pounds of milk, 668 of fat; and Gehringer Bros., Bally, 57.6 cows, 14,554 pounds of milk, 618 of fat.

All herds were at least 15 per cent above the state average for milk or butterfat production last year, while at least two-thirds of the cows in these herds are progeny of Atlantic sires. Awards were presented by Edwin Sauder, Atlantic's field supervisor for this area.

Several members were also cited for their assistance in using young sires this past year, as the Cooperative continues its extensive program of testing the true genetic merit of some 30 bulls per year through random matings in many different herds.

Reports by District 1 Director Harold Haldeman of Doylestown, and management representative David Yoder, Lancaster, informed members that 1977 was a very successful business year for Atlantic. Service Technicians provided nearly 300,000 services, and semen sales continued to be profitable. Atlantic sires maintained their rating among the nation's best for transmitting profitable traits, Yoder said.

A 25-minute movie was shown to help members understand the importance of sound type traits for both production and reproduction. The application of this principle through Atlantic's Mate-Rite program was also explained as an aid to breeding improved cattle.

Atlantic members who were patrons in 1965 recently received a cash refund totaling over $56,000. New equities have been issued to members active in 1977, amounting to 9% of gross revenue for the year.

Richard Bechtel

Members present voted for District representatives for the coming year. Election results will be announced in the next issue of the Cooperative's monthly newsletter, since more than one meeting is held in most of Atlantic's 16 Districts.

Computor used to help in farm management

CHESTER SPRINGS — William Cracas, of Seven Oaks Farms, Inc. here, recently used the computer as a management tool for the farm. Cracas, RD1, participated in a workshop called Pro-Ag.

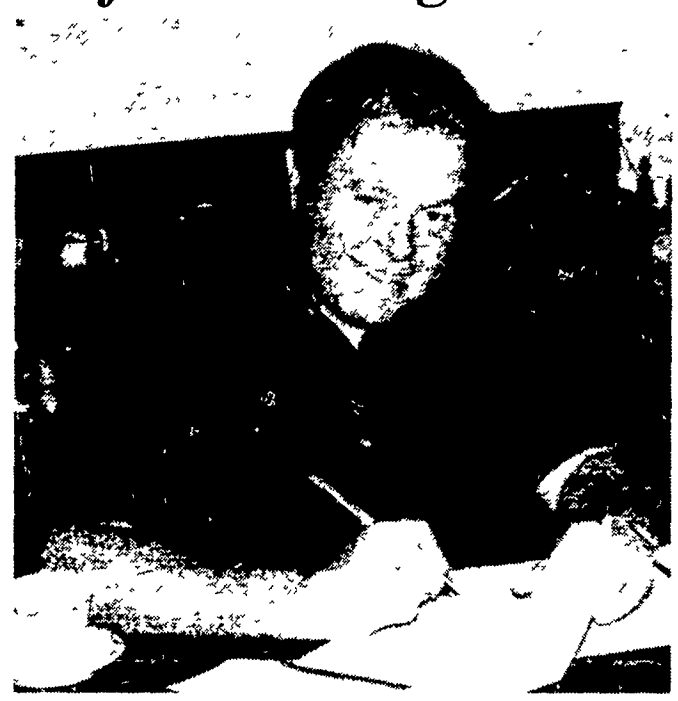
Cracas took part in the workshop at the Bird In Hand Motor Inn in Bird In Hand, Lancaster County. Used in the session was a computer terminal. It was connected via telephone lines to IH's computer operation in Ft. Wayne, Indiana.



William Cracas gave computerized farm management a whirl at a recent workshop in Lancaster County.

At the workshop, IH instructors helped Cracas develop farm-related data on his operation. Such information included his labor, machinery and equipment, material costs such as fertilizer, seed, etc., and productivity. Also assisting in the workshop was C.B. Hoober & son, Inc., an IH dealership in Intercourse.

This information, IH said, was then transmitted via a computer terminal to the IH computer. The computer then provided an individualized analysis of the farmer's operation. Highlighted was such data as cost per acre, primary profit sources, and opportunities to hike income.

With this information, the farmer then tests alternatives affecting land, labor and equipment.

"Pro-Ag type programs are becoming a necessity to manage a larger general farm in order to maximize production and at the least cost for all the necessary inputs of today's complex farm business," Cracas commented.

According to IH, the aim of the program is to allow the participant to continue making changes until he finds the best way to boost profit and productivity.

Tax relief available in Md. for drought-affected cattlemen

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Farmers in eight Maryland counties who had to sell cattle because of drought conditions last year may be eligible for some income tax relief this year according to Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance.

Sec. Hance says the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has special provisions available for livestock producers who were forced to sell their cattle because of lack of feed during the Summer of 1977.

According to Hance, farmers living in Allegany, Washington, Caroline, Queen Annes, Dorchester, Worcester, Wicomico, and Somerset Counties may qualify for the help because their counties have been declared drought disaster areas by the President this past Summer. Farmers living in other counties are not eligible for the help.

The provisions of the law state that if the farmers have records indicating that because of the drought they sold more cattle than would their regular business practice, the farmer can elect to declare the proceeds of the sale in the 1978 year rather than on taxes due in 1977.

There are three conditions that must be met to be eleigible for the tax aid. One, the livestock producer must use the cash method of accounting. Two, they must be able to establish that under their usual business practices the sale or exchange would not have occurred except for the drought conditions. Three, the drought conditions must have resulted in their area that has been designated as eligible for assistance by the Federal government.

Secretary Hance made the statement after receiving numerous inquiries from Maryland farmers. He pointed out that if there is any question, the farmer should contact his tax consultant or the local IRS office, or by calling the IRS toll-free 1-800-492-0460.

ATTENTION: DAIRYMEN

February and March are herd months. We move 40% of our herds in these 60 days. Last year over 35 herds bought and sold privately and at sales in our own sales barn.

If you have a herd or know of a herd for sale, contact us first.

If you need a herd, let us know. We work for your satisfaction. We guarantee a clean TB and blood test and a herd that is ready to go to work.

No herd too small or any too large.

Order 4 base milk price $10.65 in Jan.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine today announced a January 1978 base milk price of $10.65 per hundredweight for the Middle Atlantic Marketing Order and an excess milk price of $8.89. The weighted average January price is $10.44 and the butterfat differential for the month is 11.6 cents. The January base milk price is up six cents from December and is 37 cents above the January 1977 base price. Order No. 4 prices are announced for 3.5 per cent milk f.o.b. plant location within 55 miles of Philadelphia, and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, DC or Baltimore, Md. There is a six cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Shine reported that January producer milk receipts totaled 482.2 million pounds, an increase of 1.2 per cent from December, and 3.7 per cent above a year ago. Class I producer milk accounted for 58.73 per cent of total January producer deliveries, compared to 58.90 per cent in December and 61.64 per cent a year ago. Base milk represented 88.62 per cent of total January production. A total of 7,955 dairymen supplied Middle Atlantic Order handlers during the month and the average daily delivery per producer was 1955 pounds, four per cent above last January.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 7.72 million pounds per day during January. When adjustment for variation in calendar composition is made, January fluid milk sales were up 4.8 per cent from December but were 1 per cent below last January.

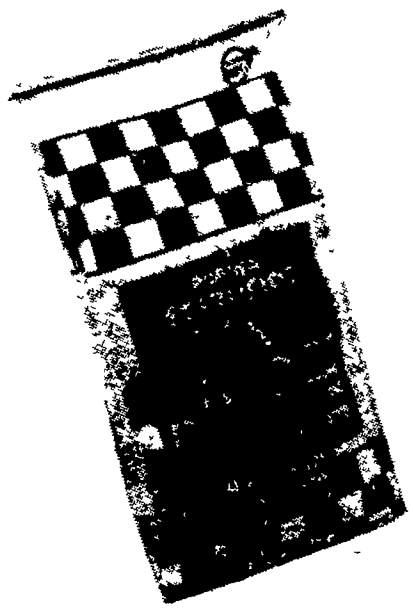
STARLINGS ARE COSTING YOU MONEY

FOUR GOOD REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD . . . DECIDE ON STARLICIDE



1. Starlings cost you big money in terms of feed wastage. 1,000 starlings can consume nearly 100 dollars worth of feed in a single winter. And flocks of as many as several hundred thousand birds are common.
2. Starlings are carriers of a number of profit-robbing diseases including TGE (transmissible gastroenteritis).
3. Starlings foul up feeders, water tanks, troughs and fences, costing you even more time and money.
4. Purina Starlicide Complete has been proven effective when used as directed.

★ HOW DOES PURINA STARLICIDE COMPLETE WORK?

Starlicide contains a painless, slow-acting poison. Starlings eat the combination bait and poison and fly away to die at their roosting place or on the way. A very low percentage actually die at the baiting site as the poison takes as much as three days to work. Birds do not become bait-shy because of the slow-acting properties of this poison. One baiting may last up to three days and one to three baitings usually reduces the pest flock substantially.

★ DO DEAD BIRDS POSE A PROBLEM?

As previously mentioned, you will find very few poisoned birds at the bait site. And because only ten percent of the lethal compound is retained in its original form in the starling body, they are not dangerous to animals eating the dead birds. Predators including domestic dogs and cats are not affected. In laboratory tests, hawks have actually gained weight on diets of poisoned starlings. However, it's recommended that dead birds be picked at the bait site.

★ WHAT ABOUT DANGER TO OTHER BIRDS AND WILDLIFE?

Starlicide Complete is selective for starlings. It is more toxic to starlings than to other wild birds. The pelleted bait is also more readily taken by starlings than by other birds. Starlicide is effective in controlling blackbirds.
